Closes "Girl with Whooping Cough" at New York Theatre After Reading Manuscript.

WOODS'S INJUNCTION FAILS

Commissioner Baker Meets Manager's Fight to Retain Farce by Refusing to Renew Theatre's License.

Mayor Gaynor and Police Commissioner Baker, it developed yesterday, were responsible for the closing on Monday night of the New York Theatre, where "The Girl with the Whooping Cough," an adaptation of a French farce, with Valeska Suratt in the leading rôle, was the attraction.

Patrons who applied at the box office Monday night were informed that Miss Suratt was ill, and that no performance would be given. Yesterday morning a large poster at the entrance to the theatre announced that the actress was still ill, and that those who had purchased tickets for future performances of the play could have their money refunded. No inkling as to the real nature of affairs came out until the following letter from Mayor Gaynor to Police Commissioner Baker was made public at the City Hall yesterday afternoon:

> City of New York, Office of the Mayor,
> Sir: Your report has been communicated to me and your action in refusing to renew the license to the New York Theatre, which has just expired, and thereby closing the place last night, and preventing a continuance of the so-called play, which was running there, is approved. Please do not renew the license until you consult with me, and we get some guarantee of future decency. The people of this city have had enough of false and nasty theatres, as well as of the few false and nasty newspapers, and we want to drop them.
>
> Very truly yours,
> W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.
> William F. Baker, Police Commissioner.

Mayor Read the Play.

There is still some doubt as to whether it was the Mayor or Commissioner Baker who started the crusade against the play. According to an individual close to the Mayor, his Honor's attention was called to the play shortly after it opened two weeks ago. The Mayor, it is said, received many letters of complaint about the piece, and several persons, including representatives of two newspapers, called upon him and asked him to take action. The Mayor, it is said, sent stenographers to the theatre and had the objectionable parts taken down. He also secured the manuscript of the play and went over it carefully. Then he wrote a letter to Commissioner Baker, advising him not to renew the license of the theatre.

Commissioner Baker said yesterday that the letters of complaint and the protesting individuals came to him. He said he detailed four men to the theatre last Thursday night to take notes, and when he looked over the evidence Friday morning he sent a letter to Abraham L. Erlanger of Klaw & Erlanger, managers of the theatre, stating that unless the play was withdrawn he would refuse to renew the theatre's license. He gave Mr. Erlanger, he said, until Saturday night to have his demands complied with, and stated that under no condition would be allow a performance to be given after that date on pain of refusing to renew the license.

Mr. Erlanger, the Commissioner said, replied that he would withdraw the play at once. He said he thought the matter would end there, but Al H. Woods, the producer of the play, did not take the matter so complacently. As soon as he found that the run of the play was to be interrupted he hurried to Commissioner Baker's office with his lawyer, Henry J. Goldsmith, and put up a vigorous protest. He got little comfort from the Commissioner, however. In fact, the Commissioner frankly told him that he ought to be ashamed of himself for producing plays of such an objectionable nature.

Woods Obtains Injunction.

Monday afternoon Mr. Woods and his lawyer went to the City Hall and had a conference with Mayor Gaynor. The Mayor apparently gave him no more comfort than did the Police Commissioner. Leaving the City Hall the producer and his lawyer went before Justice Whitney and obtained an order directing Police Commissioner Baker, Inspector Walsh, and Capt. Finelite of the Twenty-sixth Precinct to show legal cause why they should not be restrained from taking any step to stop the production of the play, "The Girl with the Whooping Cough," and from trespassing upon the property of New York Theatre. The order was returnable before Justice McCall in Special Term of the Supreme Court yesterday afternoon.

When Lawyers Goldsmith and Mirabeau L. Towns appeared before Justice McCall they produced an affidavit from Mr. Woods, in which he set forth that on May 6 Commissioner Baker told him that he would not allow any further production of "The Girl with the Whooping Cough" in this city. He also asserted that Commissioner Baker told him that he would not listen to any argument, and that he would not go to see the play or send any one there. The Commissioner added, according to Woods, that he had received reports about the play, and that it was "rotten." Woods also set forth that Commissioner Baker said:

"I will not allow that play to be produced in New York. Further, I will also not allow it as long as Veleska Suratt takes the leading part. I stopped her at Hammerstein's and other places, and I will stop her here. I do not care what loss you sustain by reason of my actions; that is your affair and your misfortune. I am going to stop that play."

Justice McCall made the injunction restraining the police from interfering with the play permanent so long as litigation concerning it continued. He pointed out, however, that he had no authority to compel the Police Commissioner to grant the theatre license to the New York Theatre.

Baker Refuses to Renew License.

"A very fortunate state of affairs made it possible for me to reach this man Woods and force him to stop the very improper play," said Police Commissioner Baker yesterday. "The license for all the theatres in the city expire at the end of each April. The law gives the Police Commissioner a great deal of power in regard to granting these licenses, and I used this as a club to get after Woods. I received many complaints about the play from very reputable people, and I

FOREST FIRES DOOM TOWN.

Flames Threaten to Wipe It Out—Help Sent to Inhabitants.

DULUTH, May 10.—A wireless message from Grand Marais, Minn., received to-night, said that forest fires were bearing down on that village, and that it seemed doomed. The operator said that it was his last message, as the fire was getting so close that he would have to abandon his tower and seek safety.

Grand Marais is an old trading post situated on the north shore of Lake Superior. Steps were taken to-night to send a relief boat to the village. So far as is known no lives have been lost. Wild animals are rushing to the lake shore before the fires.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 10.—The entire northeastern portion of Minnesota's forest region is smoldering and smoking; vast timbered areas in Wisconsin have been swept by flames; several villages are threatened with destruction from forest fires.

The fires are scattered over an area of at least 500 square miles. The densest pall of smoke seen in a score of years is hanging over Lake Superior, and fires appear to be burning in all directions.

FREAK WEATHER VISITS PARIS.

Heavy Rains, Hailstones, and Quick Changes in Temperature—Blame Comet

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 10.—The most extraordinary weather it has known perhaps in its history has visited the French capital in the last few days. The French attribute it to the lune rousse, or red moon, covering a period that corresponds roughly with that which in America is supposed to be under the stormy influence of St. Swithin.

It would be hard to find a date in the last thirty days on which it has not rained. On Sunday last there were all kinds of weather in a dozen hours, from genial sunshine to heavy downpour, and the temperature was equally changeable. About midday a tremendous fall of large hailstones came, lasting half an hour, and once since then this experience has been repeated, though in milder form.

It is impossible to predict the weather from one hour to another. Greatcoats to-day were an absolute necessity.

A large part of the population attribute the vagaries of the weather to the nearness of the comet, and leading astronomers themselves admit that there is nothing improbable in this theory.

UNIONS TO AID SEIDEL.

Will Buy Milwaukee Bonds Issued In Socialist Regime If Banks Won't.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 10.—A National movement of labor unions to maintain the credit of the Milwaukee Socialist administration has been launched by the International Bakers' Union. The Executive Committee at a secret meeting a few days ago decided to sell $200,000 of United States bonds now in its Treasury and devote the proceeds to the purchase of Milwaukee bonds issued by the social Democratic régime in case Eastern banking interests hesitate to take Milwaukee securities. This was the announcement made to-day by Mayor Seidel.

The action of the bakers is expected to be followed by the National Brewery Workers, who have $1,000,000 in their treasury invested in Government bonds, and by both the Western Federation of Miners and by the United Mine Workers. Mayor Emil Seidel manifested surprise when informed of the action. The Mayor, however, was not entirely unprepared for it. When rumors first began to spread to the effect that Milwaukee bonds might not command the most favorable market under the Social Democratic administration, he said that such a result would follow. "We have several ways of checking any move to avoid Milwaukee bonds on the part of bond buyers," he declared.

"This is a step which shows the remarkable solidarity of the labor movement," said City Clerk Earl D. Thompson. "We have letters from men all over the country who have told us that they would buy Milwaukee bonds if there ever came a time when the city was harassed in any way by the big buyers. If there were any concerted refusal to buy our bonds we could practically empty the savings banks by offering the bonds to the public in suitable denominations."

PASSENGER RATES GOING UP.

Eastern Agents Meet to Consider Increases in Commutation.

The General Passenger Agents of the Eastern railroads held a regular meeting at the offices of the Trunk Line Association yesterday, at which, it was reported, they discussed the passenger rate increases which are now under consideration, including the proposed advances in commutation rates. The lines serving New York City are agreed on the general question of increasing commutation rates, but not all the lines have completed the revision of their commutation schedules. Discussing the attitude of the public toward the plan of the railroads, the General Passenger Agent of one of the New York lines said it was to be expected that the move would arouse opposition.

The railroads, he said, are, however, justified in making the increase, for the reason that the railroads have gone on paying increased prices for nearly everything they use until they are now practically compelled to get more for the services they perform for the public.

The purpose of the railroads, it is said, is not to impose any undue burden on the several hundred thousand commuters who use the lines running to New York City, but to make this class of traffic bear its share of the increased revenue which the railroads are seeking as an offset to the wage increases which have lately been allowed to railway employes.

ROOSEVELT TALKS FORCIBLY TO KAISER

After Luncheon at Potsdam They Converse Alone for Over an Hour.

SUFFERING FROM LARYNGITIS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 10.—The Emperor William and Mr. Roosevelt clasped hands this afternoon on the marble steps of Frederick the Great's New Palace at Potsdam.

The meeting between the world's two chief exponents of the strenuous life was cordial and friendly in the extreme. Clad in the picturesque white uniform of the Garde du Corps, with his helmet surmounted by a shimmering silver eagle, the Kaiser looked every inch the War Lord pictured in a thousand photographs, as he and Mr. Roosevelt stood shaking hands vigorously and enthusiastically for almost a full minute.

The Roosevelt party had arrived from Berlin a few minutes before by special train. After the formalities of presentation to the Kaiserin, the Crown Prince and Princess, and other members of the imperial household were over the Kaiser escorted his guests into the Jasper Gallery of the palace, where luncheon was served at small tables. Mrs. Roosevelt walked in on the arm of the Kaiser, and the ex-President escorted the Empress. The luncheon was strictly informal, and there were no speeches. When it was over the Kaiser took possession of Mr. Roosevelt, and, piloting him into a corner, engaged him immediately in most animated conversation, which lasted for over an hour.

History will probably be deprived of the knowledge of what was talked about, but, whatever it was, both the Emperor and Mr. Roosevelt resorted frequently to gestures with arms, fists, and heads to drive home their meaning and emphasize their points.

Then the Emperor took the Roosevelt family in a motor car to Sans Souci Palace for a look at the royal residence hallowed with memories of Frederick the Great. Mr. Roosevelt recalled the claims of the Kaiser's great warrior ancestor to American interest—how he forbade England's hired Hessian troops to cross Prussian soil, and Frederick's profound admiration for Washington.

Then, after a visit which had lasted from 1 o'clock till 5, the Roosevelts motored back to the American Embassy in Berlin in one of the imperial automobiles.

Whether it was due to his elocutionary contest with the Kaiser or to the raw, rainy weather which prevailed in Berlin throughout the day, Mr. Roosevelt reached the embassy considerably hoarser than when he arrived in Berlin early in the morning. His throat was so sore that he found it difficult to speak with any freedom to Commander Peary, who was awaiting the ex-President, the explorer having delayed his departure for Rome two days for the purpose of greeting the Colonel.

On his return to the embassy Mr. Roosevelt submitted to an examination at the hands of Prof. Fränkel, one of Germany's most celebrated throat specialists. Prof. Fränkel found him suffering from an acute but benign case of laryngitis, the after effect of bronchitis of such a type as commonly attacks persons who have dwelt for some time in the tropics.

Until the ex-President has been reexamined to-morrow morning, Prof. Fränkel declines to say whether it will be prudent for him to watch on horseback the spectacular sham battle which the Kaiser has arranged for his amusement at Döberitz. Prof. Fränkel also expresses skepticism regarding Mr. Roosevelt's ability to deliver his university lecture on Thursday. If he speaks at all it will have to be in the softest accents, and everything savoring of exposure or strain must be carefully avoided.

To-night Mr. Roosevelt was to dine privately with Ambassador Hill's family, but he remained in his rooms in order to spare exertion to his throat. He hopes to be able to attend the sham battle to-morrow.

BERLIN, May 10.—A regrettable incident occurred on the arrival of the Roosevelt party at Berlin from Stockholm this morning, when the royal carriages intended for their use failed to reach the station in time and Ambassador Hill was missing from among the officials who had gathered to greet the ex-President. This was due to a misunderstanding regarding the time of arrival of the special train.

Mr. Roosevelt was met at the railroad station by Secretary for Foreign Affairs von Schön, on behalf of the Emperor; the staff of the American Embassy, Consul General Thackara, T. St. John Gaffney, American Consul General at Dresden, and many members of the American colony. Among the other Germans to meet Mr. Roosevelt were Lieut. Col. von Körner, who was deputed by his Majesty as the ex-President's military attaché during his visit to Germany, and Count von Wedel, who will have charge of the general arrangements during Mr. Roosevelt's stay.

In the absence of Emperor William, who but for the death of his uncle, King Edward, would have personally met the ex-President, the official party of reception was headed by Herr von Schön. The main stairway leading from the station to the street had been made beautiful with a wealth of potted plants, and as the Roosevelts passed down to their carriage they received frequent salutations from the gathered throng. They were driven to the American Embassy.

Mr. Roosevelt was escorted to Potsdam this afternoon by Gen. Alfred von Löwenfeld, the personal representative of the Emperor, who was to meet Mr. Roosevelt at the railway station in Berlin this morning, but who, in common with Ambassador Hill, was deceived as to the hour of the special's arrival.

PARTY SURELY SPLIT, DECLARES CUMMINS

WON'T FOLLOW ALDRICH

Opposes Re-election of Iowa Congressmen That Take Orders from the Machine.

DES MOINES, May 10.—Denunciations of the tariff bill and the men who passed it characterized the speeches made to-night by Senators Jonathan P. Dolliver and Albert B. Cummins, in opening the progressive campaign in Iowa. The Coliseum was crowded by 10,000 progressives.

The meeting to-night followed district conferences throughout the day, at which steps were taken to reconstruct the old Cummins organization and to organize the State by counties and precincts.

Even President Taft did not escape the aspersions of the Senators, while Senator Aldrich was named as the leader of corporate greed and avarice.

Senator Aldrich was frequently mentioned as the man "allied with the Guggenheims and the Ryans and Paul Morton in a mammoth trust, incorporated as a rubber company, which is allowed by the articles of incorporation to participate in any kind of business, anywhere on the face of the earth, and which is one of the holding companies in the Guggenheim syndicate for the control of the wealth of Alaska."

Senator Cummins traced the development of corporations in the United States and declared that present Republican leaders were in league with these corporations. He asserted that the present split in the Republican ranks must be taken into consideration.

If those Republican leaders who, he charged, were in league with corporations, Senator Cummins said:

"Most of them have been brought up with these influences all around them, and therefore whenever a law is proposed that restricts or reduces corporate power their first inquiry is not, will this measure bring help to the people, but, is it recommended by the captains of industry, the masters of high finance.

"These leaders of ours always find themselves so busy hearing what these princes of the earth have to say about proposed legislation that they have scant time to consider the desires and conditions of the great mass of humanity.

"I have no hesitancy in naming the present leaders of the Republican Party in the Congress of the United States. In the Senate one man stands solitary and alone, and hitherto his word has been law to that august tribunal. Senator Aldrich is the man of whom I have been speaking.

"In the House Mr. Cannon, the Speaker, has exercised a dominating control, and after him come Payne, Dalzell, and a few others of the same type. They look at these vital problems from the corporate standpoint, and they always are fearful that any step toward the further and better regulation of these overmastering forces in our commercial life will destroy business, will take away some of the profits with which the multi-millionaires have been enriching themselves.

"Every session of Congress will develop just such differences, and can you wonder that we, who are marked for the disfavor of the powerful influences at Washington, should want a Governor who is in sympathy with what we are trying to do; should want the whole State Government to be in harmony with the progressive movement for better laws?

"You will understand that I have given you the reason why I want to see Warren Garst nominated for Governor. The present members of the House of Representatives from this district (J. A. T. Hull) and from the Ninth District (W. I. Smith) and the First District (L. A. Kennedy) are devoted followers of Aldrich and Cannon, and they have voted, and will vote if they are returned to Congress, just as the Aldrich and Cannon organization determines they ought to vote."

Senator Cummins mentioned Hull, Smith, and Kennedy by name, and also Mr. Towner. He concluded:

"The sooner we realize that this division in the ranks of the Republican Party is not ephemeral, the sooner we appreciate that it is a movement of the people, the sooner we will become conscious of a great and everlasting truth."

Analyzing, schedule by schedule and item by item, the Payne Tariff act, Senator Dolliver declared that close scrutiny shows that, "so far as the public is concerned, the tariff revision in fact carries rates as high or higher than the Dingley tariff law on most articles of general use in their finished condition."

"Most of the reductions," said the Senator, "were so trivial as to be ridiculous and either were upon articles which we do not import to any extent, but, on the contrary, export in enormous quantities, or were for the purpose of protecting further the manufacturer, especially by reducing the duties on raw materials.

"In fact, a careful scrutiny of the particular items that were changed and the exact trifling change of rate in each case shows how cunningly the revision was arranged in order to deceive the public and look like real revision downward."

"I am not here to criticise the President or to say unkind words against him," said Senator Dolliver, "but I count it no reflection on him to state that I find it sometimes necessary to disagree with him and those surrounding him. Men have crowded to the front in his administration who have not had the welfare of the party or of the country at heart.

"I am going to have some trouble in keeping inside the breastworks of the Republican Party, but I know something of its doctrines. I do not intend to retire from it, although I have been invited to do so. I do not recognize Mr. Wickersham or any other man who comes out here into the West to read men out of the Republican Party who were known before he ever was in it."

TWO UNCONSCIOUS IN WRECKED BALLOON

A. Holland Forbes and C. C. Yates Badly Hurt in an Attempt to Fly to New York.

FELL NEAR CINCINNATI

Winner of Lahm Cup Started Monday Night with an Unknown Associate from Quincy, Ill.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 10.—A. Holland Forbes of New York City, and C. Carrington Yates, also of that place, alighted in their balloon near here this evening after a long ride from Quincy, Ill. Their coming to earth was probably the most sensational of any balloon tour in many years.

Both men had become unconscious from the long trip and the fact that they had thrown away their food many hours before and had lost the water bottle which they supposed would do them at least three days' service in the air. It was four hours before they regained consciousness and the first words uttered by Mr. Forbes were:

"Wire THE NEW YORK TIMES that Forbes is down to earth," and then he sank back and said nothing more for another hour.

The place of their descent was a farm near Center, in Metcalf County, Ky., about twenty miles from here and in a mountainous district. Early this afternoon the balloon was seen in the air near Glasgow. Onlookers gazed through a field glass, but no sign of life could be discerned. The balloon then turned and went back toward Metcalfe County. Later a farmer came into town and reported that it had come down near Center, and that the aeuronauts were unconscious.

Late to-night the aeronants were still in such a dazed condition as to be unable to give any detailed account of their experiences.

The two men were taken to the home of a farmer and a physician was called. Forbes regained consciousness to a slight degree and told in a dazed fashion of having started out in an attempt to reach New York.

Mr. Yates remained unconscious, and the physician attending them says both are in a critical condition.

Mr. Forbes is the holder of the Lahm Cup. He and his companion ascended last night at 6:50 o'clock in the balloon Viking from Quincy, Ill., with the avowed intention of breaking the long-distance balloon record. The balloon rose 3,000 feet and floated slowly southward.

It was reported later sailing over Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois. The balloon Viking is said to be the largest in existence, having a gas capacity of 85,000 cubic feet.

A Holland Forbes has been before the public for the last few years as a balloonist. On Oct. 11, 1908, he was a competitor in the distance race for the James Gordon Bennet Trophy at Berlin. When his balloon, the Conqueror, reached a height of 3,000 feet it burst and fell swiftly for some distance.

The great bag then collapsed in the form of a parachute and descended slowly upon a housetop. Mr. Forbes was not injured. In the balloon with him at the time of the fall was Augustus Post, a prominent member of the New York Aero Club. On Oct. 14, 1909, Mr. Forbes won the Lahn Cup for the longest flight made in a balloon in that year.

Mr. Forbes had as his companion on this trip Max C. Fleischmann of Cincinnati. They started from St. Louis on Oct. 12 and landed in Chesterfield County, Va., the next afternoon, having covered a distance of 731 miles in nineteen and one-quarter hours.

ASK $3,500,000 FOR GARDEN.

Directors Willing to Sell the Amusement Place for That Sum.

The statement was made yesterday by one of the Directors of the Madison Square Garden Company at the annual meeting of the stockholders held in the offices at the Garden that the Directors would be willing to sell the property for $3,500,000. The property includes the entire block bounded by Madison and Fourth Avenues, Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh Streets.

"We have as yet received no offer for Madison Square Garden," was the answer made to a question regarding the accuracy of the various rumors within the last few months that the Garden was likely to be sold for business or other purposes.

The statement of the Treasurer showed that the Garden had practically paid expenses, about $240,000 a year.

Three new Directors were elected to fill vacancies caused by death, Ogden Mills taking the place of his father, Darius O. Mills; J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr., that of James T. Woodward, and L. L. Benedict that of H. H. Hollister. The other Directors were all re-elected, being J. Pierpont Morgan, Frank K. Sturgis, Peter Cooper Hewitt, Adrian Iselin, Jr., H. K. Knapp, Charles Lanier, William F. Wharton, and James C. Young.

OVER LONESOME MEADOWS.

2,500 Erie Passengers Walk When Wreck Blocks the Tunnel.

Summer tourists from the West who chose the Erie as the road on which to come into the metropolis were detained last night to the number of about 2,500 in the lonesome Hackensack meadows, and were forced to make their way on foot over the Jersey City Heights to the ferries.

In all twelve incoming trains were stalled in the meadows from 8:30 until 11:45 o'clock, and all outgoing traffic for that period was kept on the eastern side of the Jersey Heights tunnel. The trouble was a freight wreck in the tunnel, in which four derailed cars blocked all the tracks, and gave the wrecking crew one of the hardest problems it has ever had to tackle.

Many passengers intending to take westbound trains returned to New York for the night after learning of the block in the tunnel.

TO STOP GAMBLING ON TRAINS.

New Haven Road Puts Detectives Out to Catch Card Sharps.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 10.—The New Haven Road to-day notified conductors and brakemen to prevent gambling on trains. A special detail of railroad police is watching the trains, with a view to nabbing professional gamblers.

For years complaints have been made of heavy losses, and the company this year shows a keen desire to have this sort of thing stopped. The White Mountain, Bar Harbor, and Summer expresses to the Berkshires have been favorite operating fields for the gamblers, and by getting after them early in the season the company hopes to protect its passengers.

SUN WRECKS A DRUG STORE.

Sets Off Chemicals and Starts a "Black Hand" Panic.

The strong rays of the sun, shining through the front window of a drug store owned by Frank Vasquez, at 295 and 297 East 149th Street, yesterday afternoon, set off a long shelf of bottled chemicals with a loud explosion, followed by a sheet of flame.

Vasquez ran from the building just as the thirty families of Italians living in the five upper stories of the tenement piled pell-mell down the stairs and fire-escapes in fear of a Black Hand bomb. All escaped safely from the building except Mrs. S. Valentio, 60 years old, an invalid, on the second floor. Her cries attracted Policeman Olp of the Morrisania Station, who carried her to the street, and quieted the crowd. The explosion started a fire which swept the entire drug store, causing a damage of $2,000. The flames were confined to the ground floor.

Bank Clerk Gets Bequest of $10,000 for "Kindness in Business Dealings."

BOSTON, Mass., May 10.—The devotion of a nurse and the politeness of a bank clerk were found to have been rewarded when the will of Mrs. Annie Preston Lincoln of 338 Commonwealth Avenue was filed for probate in Suffolk County to-day.

Mrs. Lincoln died yesterday, leaving a large estate. She bequeathed Miss Nellie K. McIsaacs, a nurse in the family for some years, $50,000, and to Otto Zerrahn, a clerk in the State Street Trust Company $10,000, because of "his politeness and kindness in business dealings."

One public bequest was made—that of $25,000 to Grace Hospital, Boston.

EAGER FOR GOLD STAMPEDE.

Ice Melting at Fairbanks Brings Many Bound for the New Alaskan Fields.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, May 10.—The ice on the Chena River began to break up in front of Fairbanks yesterday and before the end of the week navigation will begin on the Tanoma and Lower Yukon.

The first boats are scheduled to leave Fairbanks on Thursday, and with their departure will begin the big stampede to the Iditarod goldfields discovered late last Fall. Two thousand prospectors have already made arrangements to go down the river to the Iditarod country, and before the season is well started it is expected that this number will be largely increased.

The water front of Fairbanks resembles a vast shipyard. Fourteen large steamers and hundreds of small craft are tied up at the wharves ready to sail.

SAVINGS BANK BILL URGED.

President Has Night Conference with House Post Office Committee.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—President Taft summoned the members of the House Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads to the White House to-night, and it is reported told them plainly that he intended to hold them responsible for the success of the Postal Savings Banks bill which they have held up.

That the conference was earnest was indicated by the fact that Representative Weeks, Chairman of the committee and chief opponent of the Taft measure, did not reach his home until midnight. The others left the White House earlier.

None of the committee members would talk of the conference with Mr. Taft, and the White House was in darkness within a few moments after the last visitor had left.

Senatorial Primary Vote Close and Second One May Be Necessary.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 10.—Meagre returns received to-night indicate that the primary election for United States Senator will be close, and that it may be necessary to hold a second primary. Senator Tallaferro is leading. Congressmen Clark and Mays are almost sure to be re-elected.

Senator Taliaferro is opposed by ex-Gov. Napoleon B. Broward and Claud l'Engle.

CHEAP NOVELS MAKE TROUBLE

Committee of Society of Authors Advises Writers to Stick to Old Price.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 10, (by telegraph to Clifden, Ireland; thence by wireless.)—New novels by Anthony Hope and other well-known authors have recently been issued at the price of 2s. (50 cents) by an enterprising firm of publishers which makes a specialty of cheap reprints. The volumes are neatly bound in cloth, and in this respect, as well as in the paper and printing, compare very favorably with novels issued at three times the price.

Naturally the innovation has caused a great stir in the publishing world, and it is generally denounced by rival firms. The Society of Authors has added its voice in condemnation of the move, and a committee including E. W. Hornung, W. W. Jacobs, and Charles Garvice, has examined the question and strongly advises authors to maintain 6s. as the standard price of new fiction.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 10.—Of several royal proclamations and messages issued to-day none has aroused such deep interest as Queen Alexandra's touching letter to the nation. Its very language shows the stress of the grief of the stricken Queen Mother, who wrote it with her own hand without consultation with anybody. She says:

> From the depth of my poor broken heart I wish to express to the whole Nation and our own kind people we love so well my deep-felt thanks for all their touching sympathy in my overwhelming sorrow and unspeakable anguish.
>
> Not alone have I lost everything in him, my beloved husband, but the Nation, too, has suffered an irreparable loss by their best friend, father, and sovereign, thus suddenly called away. May God give us all His divine help to bear this heaviest of crosses, which He has seen fit to lay upon us. "His will be done."
>
> Give to me a thought in your prayers, which will comfort and sustain me in all that I have to go through. Let me take this opportunity of expressing my heartfelt thanks for all the touching letters and tokens of sympathy I have received from all classes, high and low, rich and poor, which are so numerous that I fear it would be impossible for me ever to thank everybody individually.
>
> I confide my dear son into your care, who, I know, will follow in his dear father's footsteps, begging you to show him the same loyalty and devotion you showed his dear father. I know that both my dear son and daughter-in-law will do their utmost to merit and keep it.

One of the first messages issued by King George was addressed to the navy. In it the King says:

> It is my earnest wish on succeeding to the throne to make known to the navy how deeply grateful I am for its faithful and distinguished services rendered to the late King, my beloved father, who ever showed the greatest solicitude for its welfare and efficiency.
>
> Educated and trained in that profession, which I love so dearly, retirement from active duty has in no sense diminished my feelings of affection for it. For thirty-three years I have had the honor of serving in the navy, and such intimate participation in its life and work enables me to know how thoroughly I can depend upon that spirit of loyalty and zealous devotion to duty of which the glorious history of our navy is the outcome. That you will ever continue to be, as in the past, the foremost defender of your country's honor, I know full well, and your fortunes will always be followed by me with deep feelings of pride, affection, and interest.
> GEORGE R.

On the authority of Sir. Francis Laking, who saw Queen Alexandra today, contradiction has been given to various disquieting rumors which have been current about her health, but it is admitted that her Majesty is living at high pressure, and members of her household fear that the strain may cause a recurrence of the neuralgic affection from which she previously suffered.

The Queen's Presentiment.

Those persons who believe in telepathy and second sight will be confirmed in their theories by a fact vouched for by Earl Winterton, who, writing in The World, says that Queen Alexandra, while still at Corfu, had a presentiment that the late King was on the verge of a serious illness. The Queen had intended to stay another week with her favorite brother and his family, but so strongly did her Majesty have the feeling that all was not well that she left at short notice for Venice, and thence proceeded to Calais. There a rather alarming telegram awaited her, which caused the Queen to send on one of the destroyers at once to Dover to have all in readiness for her departure for London directly the royal yacht should arrive.

It was a stormy afternoon and, even with the utmost speed her Majesty reached London later than she intended, but had it not been for her premonition of danger the Queen could hardly have arrived from Corfu in time to be with the King before the end.

THE KING'S DECLARATION.

Question Raised by Mr. Redmond—Government's Plan.

LONDON, May 10.—John Redmond, leader of the Irish Parliamentary Party, has written to Premier Asquith reminding him of the favorable expressions of opinion when the question was recently raised in Parliament by the Duke of Norfolk, the foremost Catholic in England, of abolishing from the declaration which the monarch must make before a new Parliament of the words "abjuring the Church of Rome." These, Mr. Redmond declares, are offensive to all Catholics.

The Cabinet to-day decided to introduce a bill amending the declaration of the King, wherein he asserts his belief in transubstantiation and the adoration of the Virgin and saints and declares that he makes the declaration without mental reservation or dispensation from the Pope or other authority.

For the declaration that the foregoing doctrines and the mass "are superstitious and idolatrous," it is proposed to substitute the words "are contrary to my belief," and it is also proposed to omit the reference to the Pope.

The majority of the members of Parliament are believed to favor these changes, but the Orangemen and the extreme Protestants will undoubtedly oppose them. The Catholics wish the entire declaration abolished, but the law officers of the Crown consider such a safeguard against a Catholic monarch necessary.

KING GEORGE A BUSY MAN.

Working Morning to Night on Funeral and Accession Arrangements.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, May 11.—King George, according to The Daily Express, is probably the busiest man in the whole of his kingdom. His Majesty is literally working from morning till night supervising the multifarious arrangements which have to be made in connection with the late King's funeral and many other matters concerned with his accession to the throne.

His Majesty spends most of his time in his room, which is situated on the second floor of Marlborough House, overlooking the gardens. Here all State papers which need his personal supervision are submitted to him, and here his Majesty has discussed the details of the coming lying-in-state and the funeral.

It was the King himself who decided that the actual date of the funeral should be delayed till May 20 in order that the fullest preparations could be completed and that nothing be left to chance. The King has a telephone at his elbow, communicating with Sir Arthur Bigge, his private secretary, who occupies a room on the first floor of Marlborough House, and the instrument is in constant use.

His Majesty is a most conscientious and methodical worker, and insists on fully understanding every subject with which he is called upon to deal. He has taken particular interest in the arrangements which are being made for housing the royal personages who have signified their intention of being present at the funeral, and has insisted upon being made acquainted with every detail.

Some of the royal visitors will stay at Buckingham Palace, but this decision was not arrived at till the King, who has been most solicitous for the comfort of his mother in her great sorrow, had discussed the matter with her Majesty and received a definite assurance from her that the presence of the royal guests would in no way inconvenience her.

HORSE SHOW TO BE HELD

By Special Desire of King George—Programme Not to be Altered.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 10.—The death of King Edward will not interfere with the International Horse Show, which will be held at Olympia from June 6 to June 16.

This decision was arrived at to-day at a meeting of the Directors, at which a special message from King George was received, requesting that no alteration be made in the plans.

Although the Directors had committed themselves to the extent of $25,000 in connection with the show, it was their unanimous desire to abandon it this year as a mark of respect in view of the great personal interest the dead King took in it, but they have bowed to the wish of King George.

Since King Edward's death the Horse Show officials have been inundated with messages from America concerning the future of the show, as the American competitors, officials, and horses not already here must leave within a few days. In fact, it is understood that the American judges are sailing next Saturday.

King Edward's Cup, for the best military team entered, which was won last year by France, will be competed for as usual. In fact, the programme will not be altered in the slightest degree. It is hoped that America will send a team to compete for King Edward's Cup.

ARRANGING THE FUNERAL.

Body of King Edward in Throne Room of Buckingham Palace.

LONDON, May 10.—The city is again assuming a comparatively normal aspect. Except for the mourning emblems along the streets, the flags at half-mast, and the drawn blinds at the leading clubhouses and in the Government offices, a stranger visiting London to-day would find little outward evidence of the momentous occurrences which have attracted the attention of the world within the past few days.

The life of the metropolis has again fallen back into its accustomed channels. Meantime, however, preparations are going forward for the imposing State funeral which will be given to the late monarch. These arrangements are being made behind closed doors, the chief officers of the royal household and of the Cabinet shaping the various preliminaries. Thus far little of the detail has been made public.

The first meeting of the Cabinet since the death of King Edward was held to-day. It does not appear, however, that the Ministers gave any special consideration to the momentous political questions now pending. They discussed the appointment of a committee to revive the Civil List, necessitated by the change of sovereignty. The question of the future policy of the Government in regard to the constitutional issue was touched upon, but if any conclusion was reached no announcement to that effect was made.

Late to-night the body of King Edward, inclosed in an oaken casket, was transferred to the throne room of Buckingham Palace, where it rests on a catafalque covered with the same purple pall which enshrouded the coffin of Queen Victoria. A silken royal ensign has been spread over the pall.

Many floral offerings coming from abroad will be deposited in the throne-room, where the body will remain until its removal to Westminster Hall.

Contrary to the original intention that the body of King Edward should be quietly and privately removed from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Hall next Tuesday, it has now been decided that the removal shall be accompanied with considerable ceremonial, and the cortège will be an imposing military spectacle. The House of Commons will assemble in the morning and repair to Westminster Hall to receive the body. Following the three days during which the body will lie in state, it is possible that, instead of the funeral procession proceeding direct to Paddington Station, the casket will be borne to Westminster Abbey for the reading there of the first part of the burial service. According to this plan, the service would be completed later in the day at Windsor Castle.

All the churches throughout the United Kingdom are arranging to hold memorial services upon the day of the State funeral.

It is definitely announced to-night that Mr. Roosevelt's lecture at Oxford University, which was scheduled for May 18, has been postponed.

HANOTAUX LAUDS EDWARD.

Ex-Foreign Minister Says He Brought Good Taste Into International Politics

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, May 11.—Gabriel Hanotaux, who was French Minister of Foreign Affairs from 1894 to 1898, contributes to The Daily Mail a striking appreciation of King Edward, in the course of which he says:

"It may be confessed to-day that at the close of the unforgettable reign of Queen Victoria England was inclosed in her splendid isolation. No longer as young as she was, the country held aloof somewhat haughtily and arrogantly, though, to be sure, there was much virtue and some stiffness as well in this attitude of middle-class severity.

"It was King Edward who thawed the frozen heart of old England. He broke the ice in political relations and in political customs. When Edward VII. became King he asked England to descend from the pinnacle on which she was placed and persuaded her to enter into relations with the rest of the world in obedience to the example set by his own accessible and human character. And it was time the works of the political machine were oiled. King Edward did it nimbly, without seeming to be about it, in his habitual way. We do not know how it was done, but it was done. We saw the conclusion of the war in the Transvaal, we saw matters settled between Russia and Japan, we saw the embitterment in the relations with France lessen, and Fashoda turn into the entente cordiale.

"No one doubts that this sudden change was due to the direct influence of King Edward. It is an established fact to-day that when King Edward resolved to pay his famous visit to Paris, which was decisive for the new orientation of alliances and friendships, he announced his intention first in person to President Loubet, and that the Governments of the two countries heard of the project only afterward. Nor was the sentiment which animated him thus to act limited to the relations of France and England. King Edward infused with it a whole scheme of international politics, and thus rendered invaluable service not only to the two countries, but also to the rest of the world. A true arbiter of elegance, he introduced into Europe the rule borrowed, I may say, from the code of men of the world, that there are things which are done and things which are not done.

"I do not venture to affirm that he was able to make this rule triumph in his own lifetime. If it ever become generally adopted it will base peace on the manners and customs of good society, and we have not yet reached that point. But he did help to revive the rule at a time when it was generally forgotten, and once more to spread it abroad in the world.

"Emperor William and King Edward have sometimes been placed in opposition to one another. I think this wrong. There are more similarities than dissimilarities between the uncle and the nephew. Both are of the blood of the Englishwomen of whom Bismarck was wont to speak so bitterly. The veritable antagonist of King Edward is not William, it is Bismarck. Prodigious realist that he was, Bismarck took nothing into consideration but his own interests, his own passions, his own prejudices. He trampled on everything else, and had his method been perpetuated the world would have rapidly returned to intolerable dissension and inexpiable vengeance.

"Can nations be managed by a conquest of brass, as people are imprisoned in a cage of iron? Is the law of the strongest to be the last word in history? We were not far from thinking so in the closing years of the nineteenth century.

"We do not think so quite as much to-day. In this reign of King Edward, which worthily opened the twentieth century, it was enough for him, with his exquisite sense of good taste and good tone, to point out: 'Cela ne se fait pas,' (that is not done.)"

UNIVERSAL GRIEF IN IRELAND.

Parties United in Mourning for King —Unprecedented Demonstration.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 10, (by telegraph to Clifden, Ireland; thence by wireless.)—A telegram from Dublin to The Times says that Irish history does not record a more remarkable and unanimous demonstration of public feeling than has been called forth by King Edward's death. It is agreed on all sides that the country never previously paid such sincere and universal tribute to the memory of a British sovereign.

Newspapers of all parties, the churches without exception, Unionist public bodies of the North, and Nationalist Councils of the South are united in their sorrow for a great King.

Ireland is in national mourning, and is for once in complete harmony with all other parts of the empire.

We had to do it. Quality costs money, and to keep the cigar up to its original standard we had to pay more for it in Porto Rico when the maker's cost went up. We sold 1,000,000 a year at 6 cents each. Now we sell 3,250,000. Enough said.

MANUEL STARTS FOR LONDON.

Foreign Minister Pichon to Head French Mission to Funeral.

LISBON, May 10.—King Manuel started to-day for London.

RAMBOUILLET, May 10.—The Cabinet to-day selected as the French mission to the funeral of King Edward the following:

M. Pichon, Minister of Foreign Affairs; Gen. Dalstein, Military Governor of Paris; Admiral Marquis Mollard, Introducer of the Diplomatic Corps, and an officer personally representing President Fallières.

Because of the death of the British monarch, the inauguration of the French section of the Brussels Exposition, which had been arranged for May 16, has been postponed.

GRATITUDE TO AMERICANS.

Mr. Bryce Gets Telegram from King George and Queen Alexandra.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—So many Americans in every part of the United States have expressed their sympathy on the death of King Edward in telegrams and other messages to the Right Hon. James Bryce, the British Ambassador at Washington, that it has been impossible to reply to each of them, and to-day the Ambassador issued the following statement:

"The British Ambassador within the last few days received a very large number of telegrams and letters expressing sorrow at the death of his late Majesty, King Edward, and sympathy with his present Majesty, King George, and his mother, Queen Alexandra, and the British nation in their grief.

"These messages have been so numerous that it has not been possible to reply to them, but they are sincerely appreciated, and the Ambassador, who is deeply grateful for them, has communicated them to his present Majesty, King George.

"A telegram has now been received from King George saying that Queen Alexandra and he are deeply touched by the announcement of the messages, which have reached the Ambassador from Americans in every part of the United States and from numerous associations of British subjects, and that for these their Majesties offer their profound thanks."

ALDERMEN HONOR DEAD KING.

Pass Resolutions in Tribute to His Majesty Edward VII.

The Aldermen adopted yesterday a resolution on the death of King Edward and adjourned in respect to his memory after transacting a small amount of routine business.

The resolution was introduced by Alderman Courtlandt Nicoll, one of the Manhattan Republican members. It included a clause calling for the forwarding of a suitably engrossed copy of the document to the British Ambassador in Washington and to the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of London. The resolution said in part:

> He, throughout his reign, endeared himself alike to his own subjects and to our citizens by his constant and earnest endeavors to further the interests of mankind and cement together the nations in friendship and to advance the cause of peace and justice throughout the world.

The board voted to raise the salaries of the Second, Third, and Fourth Deputy Police Commissioners from $4,000 a year to $6,000. First Deputy Commissioner Bugher's salary was raised to this figure a year ago.

The $73,000 appropriation for new tuberculosis pavilions on Blackwell's Island was finally passed.

It was voted to establish the post of Deputy Chief Engineer in the Department of Bridges at a salary of $7,500 a year. A like sum was voted to Borough President McAneny for the improvement of the approach to the Williamsburg Bridge, to be expended in the planting of trees and shrubbery in Delancey Street.

DR. ROBERTS OPPOSES LORDS.

English Divine Says Labor Party Will Eventually Abolish Their House.

The Rev. Dr. Richard Roberts, one of the leading ministers of England, whose church, the Crouch Hill Presbyterian Church in London, has the largest membership of any of that denomination in London, spoke last night at the Labor Temple, Fourteenth Street and Second Avenue.

Dr. Roberts is in America as a delegate to the World's Sunday School Convention in Washington, and the Presbyterian General Assembly at Atlantic City. He is said to be active in the fight for the abolition of the House of Lords and other reform movements in his country.

"The Labor Party," said Dr. Roberts, "is going steadily forward. It expects to abolish the House of Lords, which is the last relic of feudalism in England. We expect to have better laws governing the labor of children, and to increase the pensions in time to the old people, as well as to better the condition of labor in every way."

There were a number of questions hurled at the speaker by the audience at the close of his address. One was as to what progress the women were making toward getting the ballot.

"Well, my opinion is," was the reply, "that those whom we call over there the militant suffragist are progressing backward. Those women have made fools of themselves, and have made the sane, decent people think they ought not to have the ballot."

He said in reply to another query that the members of the Labor Party in England were all Monarchists. "They were treated so well by the late Queen Victoria and the late King Edward that they do not want a republic," he explained.

ARRESTS WIFE AND DAUGHTER

Policeman Took Them to the Station House When They Quarreled.

Policeman Philip Oppenheim of the Newtown station house found his wife, Anna, and his daughter, Mrs. Anna Johnson, by a former wife, quarreling at his home, 44 Benjamin Street, Corona, yesterday afternoon. He remonstrated with his daughter and her stepmother, but the two continued to wrangle, carrying their quarrel into the street in front of the house. Then Oppenheim arrested both of them on charges of disorderly conduct.

He telephoned for a patrol wagon from his station house, bundled both his wife and daughter, still quarreling, into it, and had them locked up. Later he induced a friend, Cornelius J. Burke, a Newtown hotel keeper, to bail the daughter out. Mrs. Oppenheim was locked up at the Hunter's Point Police Station, where there is a matron in charge. But later friends bailed her out. Both mother and daughter will be in the Flushing Court to-day.

Oppenheim refused to talk about the quarrel, which is said to have started over property owned by Mrs. Oppenheim.

PLEA FOR A DIRECT VOTE.

Massachusetts House Would Have People Elect Senators Directly.

BOSTON, May 10.—Resolutions favoring an amendment to the Constitution so that United States Senators may be elected by a direct vote of the people were passed by the House to-day by a vote of 116 to 110. Unless a reconsideration is obtained to-morrow, the resolutions go to the Senate for action.

The debate on the resolutions was the warmest of the session, and while the Democrats stood solidly in favor of the amendment, the Republicans were badly split and several members of the party hurled sharp words at each other.

The fact that Senator Lodge is a candidate for re-election at the next session of the Legislature was referred to frequently, and Representative Knight, the House leader, in favoring the resolutions, said that while he advocated the return of Senator Lodge, he thought the method was improper, and believed that the people should have a voice in the matter directly.

$250,000 FIRE LOSS IN SCHUETZEN PARK

Main Pavilion of Famous Union Hill (N. J.) Pleasure Resort Is Totally Destroyed.

OLD HOME INMATES RESCUED

Two Firemen Badly Hurt—National Schuetzenfest Won't Be Delayed—10,000 People View the Blaze.

In a burst of flame which could be seen all over this city and the North Hudson section of New Jersey, the main pavilion of the historic old Schuetzen Park, on the Hudson County Boulevard, at Union Hill, overlooking the Jersey meadows, was burned last night to the ground.

Fifty thousand members of the various Schuetzen societies of this country had already begun to convene from the West for their annual National schuetzenfest which is to begin on the 29th of this month. The dance hall, bowling alleys, and kitchen were entirely destroyed by the fire. Part of the old farmhouse or beer garden which also stood within the inclosure was also partly destroyed. The swings and carousels took fire one after another.

The sparks filtering down over the meadows landed on the housetops of the little village of Homestead, over which the hill-surmounting pavilion stood. One of the cottages of the village was set on fire and a company had to be taken from fighting the fire on top of the hill and rushed down to save the village below. Two firemen were injured, and $250,000 of damage was done.

The destroyed pavilion, which was rebuilt twelve years ago at a cost of $80,000, and to which there have been costly recent additions, was about 400 feet long and 300 feet wide. It faced west, was surrounded by about ten acres inclosed by palisades, and was one story high. In the basement was the kitchen and the bowling alleys, while the main floor was occupied by a vast hall on which a thousand couples could easily dance. There had been dances there through the Winter, and up to last night elaborate preparations were afoot for the entertainment of all the Schuetzen Societies of this country, 50,000 members alone of which were coming from Pittsburg, Baltimore, and other cities of the South and West.

There is a watchman in charge of the place at present, and Lessee Fred Hagen spends considerable of his time there. Last night when the fire started Lessee Hagen was visiting friends in Guttenberg, and the watchman was dozing in the old stone "Castle," another of the buildings of the wide grounds. There was no fire in the kitchen, and there had been none all day. Nevertheless, the fire seems to have started in the woodwork of the kitchen.

Guardsmen Discover Blaze.

Capt. Knack and forty members of Company M of the New Jersey State Militia were drilling on the main floor of the dance hall, when they noticed smoke eddying up through the joints of the flooring. They ran down to the kitchen, and found that it was filled with flame and smoke. The flames spread with such rapidity that while Capt. Knack and his men were still trying to find something to fight the fire with the blaze had been seen by a policeman on the North Hudson Boulevard, who telephoned to the volunteer fire departments of West Hoboken, Union Hill, North Bergen, and Guttenberg and to the regular Fire Department of Jersey City.

Some 300 firemen had arrived within twenty-five minutes. The "steamers" arrived from Jersey City a few minutes later and coupled up to the Hackensack Water Company's hydrants. The main pavilion itself was a mass of flames when the firemen arrived, and they gave their attention to saving the yet unburned half of the beer garden, the shooting gallery sheds, the cottages of Homestead, and especially the brick building of the "Fritz Reuter Altheim," which is situated several hundred yards from the burned pavilion.

The "Altheim" is run by the German Order of Schuetzen Corps. Its Superintendent is named Strauss, and it has forty-three aged inmates, all of whom are old and feeble and dependent on the benevolence of the Schuetzen societies. When the fire started, all the home's inmates were preparing to retire. Supt. Strauss made them pack up their clothes and led them to a near-by hotel, and to neighboring cottages. The firemen climbed to the roof of the home with their hose and from this vantage point fought the flames. The home was in no way damaged.

Villagers Out to Look On.

Several hundred members of the National Schuetzen Societies have already come from California, Pennsylvania, and Maryland. Many are staying at Myer's Hotel. All came over to watch the projected scene of their marksmanship burn up, and with them the entire population of Guttenberg, West Hoboken, Union Hill, and the other North Hudson townships. The crowd easily numbered 10,000, and Police Capt. Kreiger and the patrolmen under him had their hands full keeping the swarms of curiosity seekers out of the firemen's way.

The two of the volunteer firemen who were injured were Charles Slossman of West Hoboken Hose Company 2, who was run over by his own truck and had his right leg broken on the way to the fire, and William Hoffman of the Guttenberg Fire Company, who was burned about the face and hands. Both were taken to the North Hudson County Hospital. Neither was fatally hurt.

The buildings are owned by the General Schuetzen Societies of America. Lessee Hagen said last night that the loss to the societies would easily reach $250,000. The pavilion was first built twenty-seven years ago. Several famous prize-fights occurred there. It burned down twelve years ago and was rebuilt. Mr. Hagen said last night that, as the shooting galleries had not been harmed and as temporary structures could be put up before the 29th, he did not believe that the activities of the big National Schuetzenfest would be seriously interfered with. The Executive Board of the National Schuetzenbund of America announced last night that the fire would not interfere with the schuetzenfest.

So much water was pumped on the flames that all the cellars in Homestead, at the bottom of the hill, were flooded.

POLICE AMBUSH STRIKERS.

Lie In Wait for Men Who Attacked Central Laborers.

A party of striking Italian railroad laborers, who had been out making a guerilla warfare on strikebreakers near the Tremont Station of the New York Central Railroad, ran into a police ambush yesterday and were routed. The police took ten prisoners after a skirmish which followed a stone bombardment of strikebreakers working in the cut below the station.

The strikers mobilized at the Melrose Yards at 156th Street and marched north. Capt. Brennan of the Tremont Police Station received word of the strikers' advance and marshaled his reserves. By a forced march he reached Tremont Station before the attacking party, and put his force in ambush, in a strong position overlooking the spot where the strikebreakers were at work.

The strikers approached and began a stick and stone bombardment, which made the strikebreakers retreat underneath the Tremont Station, which protected them from the fire of their enemies. Then the police, under Capt. Brennan, charged. The strikers dispersed in disorder, suffering a loss of ten prisoners. Magistrate Harris discharged nine of these and fined the tenth $5. He appeared to be the generalissimo of the guerilla band and was armed with a long ice pick.

WATTERSON DEFIES HEARST.

Only Asks That He Agree to Take the Witness Stand.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 10.—Commenting on the suits filed by William R. Hearst against The Courier-Journal and himself personally for the publication of the Gaynor press banquet speech Henry Watterson welcomes the litigation. To-night he said:

"It is given out that Mr. Hearst personally will come to Kentucky to direct and conduct the suits against us. We sincerely hope that this will prove to be true. In that event we shall try to make his sojourn interesting.

"If he will agree to take the stand and answer under oath certain interrogatives which the attorney of The Courier-Journal is prepared to ask him, not only will this interest be augmented, but in advance The Courier-Journal Company will agree to pay him double the amount of whatever judgment he may obtain.

"Touching his individual action against the editor of The Courier-Journal, Mr. Watterson has merely to say that he always will consider himself as increasing in honor the further he diverges from Mr. Hearst. Having for years pursued Mr. Watterson with preposterous and offensive money offers, Mr. Hearst adopts the rather novel revenge of accusing him before a court of law with that which he would not dare to utter face to face and man to man. Mr. Watterson is nearing the close of a long and active life, without ever having been personally a party to any litigation, to any kind of suit or action at law, and while Mr. Hearst's proceedings may annoy, they can in no wise injure or embarrass him.

"Mr. Watterson always has understood that he who goes to law must come into court with clean hands, and he will insist that Mr. Hearst shall upon the threshold of these present actions be compelled to meet this requirement."

REHEARSES NAVY LAUNCHING.

Miss Fleming Practices Breaking the Bottle on the Florida.

Miss Elizabeth Fleming, daughter of the former Governor of Florida, rehearsed yesterday the part she is to play at the formal launching of the giant battleship Florida to-morrow morning at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Although Miss Fleming did not actually break a bottle, as she will when she names the battleship, she stood on the stand yesterday and was coached by Naval Constructor Baxter.

A bottle filled with water was used for the rehearsal, and Miss Fleming swung it repeatedly to and fro, carefully measuring the distance and calculating just how much strength would be necessary to smash the bottle.

When seen later at the Hotel St. Regis, where she is staying with her brother, C. P. Fleming, Jr., Miss Fleming told a reporter that she had been practicing the feat of smashing bottles for several months at her home in Jacksonville.

"I generally broke them against a sharp corner of the house," she said.

Gov. Gilchrist of Florida will arrive here to-day with a party of relatives and friends from Florida, and will stay at the Hotel Savoy until after the launching. By to-day the last of the five Florida girls who have been officially commissioned to act as an escort to Miss Fleming at the ceremony, will have also arrived. A staff of six navy girls will also assist in the ceremany.

Arrangements for the launching were completed yesterday with the issuing of final instructions for the patrolling of the East River. The vessel will take the water at about 11 o'clock. For an hour before that time navigation on the river will be confined to a narrow lane on the Manhattan side. Revenue cutters, lighthouse tenders, and naval tugs will do the patrol work.

From 10 o'clock until after the Florida slides from the ways no craft will be permitted inside the line to be formed by the patrolling vessels. Rear Admiral Leutze will take every precaution against possible accident. As the huge battleship will start a big wave when she takes her plunge, warning has been given to add to the lines holding vessels moored along the river front.

GETS $10 LOST 12 YEARS.

Finder Was "Miss Honesty," Who Was Too Poor to Return It Earlier.

CHICAGO, May 10.—Mrs. Frederick Grubeck lost $10 while shopping in State Street twelve years ago. A young woman, who gives her name as "A. N. Honesty," found the money the day it was lost. She returned it yesterday with this explanation of delay:

"I kept the money, for I needed it to pay my way to the country for a much-needed rest. Since then I've never had enough at one time before to return it. Now that I have, I do so."

CAN'T MAKE FAMILIES AGREE.

Law Unequal to Harmonizing Marital Rows, Justice Crane Rules.

Supreme Court Justice Frederick E. Crane of Brooklyn said something from the bench yesterday which, while it was enthusiastically indorsed by henpecked husbands, caused Brooklyn women to object.

An unhappy wife asked the court for a legal separation from her husband. After listening with weariness to a long wrangle between the lawyers, Justice Crane refused to interfere.

"The law," said he, "cannot step in and make husbands and wives live together and make things run smoothly. You can't stop family troubles, because men have not been able to control women. A great deal of family trouble, no doubt, is caused by women, for they are not always angels."

SQUABBLES IN A CHURCH.

One Leading to Another and Pastor Butler May Leave St. Mary's, Mt. Vernon.

Archdeacon Frederick Van Kleek and a committee of the diocese named by Bishop Greer have been hearing all sides of a dispute in St. Mary's Episcopal Church, at Sherwood Park. It is said that the Rev. George Hendrick Houghton Butler, the rector, may resign. He founded the church as a mission and spent a great deal of his own money in the work.

The zeal of the Rev. Mr. Butler to advance in the guilds of the church a woman who is said to belong to another communion is reported to have started the trouble. The discussions which followed led, among other things, to the resignation of Miss Grace Warren as organist, but the official board refused to accept the resignation.

The various squabbles are said to have driven one woman to a sanitarium. The hearings have been private.

FOLK BOOM FOR PRESIDENCY.

Friends of ex-Governor of Missouri Will Launch It at Coming Dinner.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 10.—At a dinner to be given in St. Louis on June 2 the friends of Joseph W. Folk will launch his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency in 1912. The former Governor of Missouri will not ask the Democracy of the country to place him at the head of the party in the National campaign, but his friends in St. Louis and throughout the State will carry on a fight to that end with his consent.

This campaign will be carried on irrespective of all efforts that may be made to get Folk into the race for the Senatorship.

TRIPLE SMASH IN THE PARK.

Auto and Two Carriages Mixed Up In a Collision.

A collision between an automobile, a surrey, and a runabout, in which all the vehicles were more or less damaged, but no one was hurt, took place on the East Drive in Central Park, near Eighty-first Street, yesterday afternoon.

The automobile, owned by Dr. George D. Stewart of 61 West Fiftieth Street, who was in the car, and operated by John Sortello, a chauffeur of 8 Means Street, Glendale, L. I., was proceeding north in the East Drive, when Sortello attempted to take a sharp turn to pass a surrey which was going slowly in front of him. The surrey was owned by Mrs. R. E. Sauce of Sixty-sixth Street and Central Park West, who was driving.

Sortello's auto struck the surrey in the rear, sending it sharply forward and causing it to knock a runabout, owned and operated by Louis Hirsch of 81 West 118th Street, into a lamp post. None of the occupants was thrown out, but after all the vehicles had been disengaged it was found that the auto had been damaged.

AUTOS IN A CRASH; FIVE ARE INJURED

Touring Car in New Jersey Race Hits a Runabout Carrying Owner and Two Women.

ALL ARE PITCHED OUT

One Woman Gets a Fractured Skull and the Other Broken Ribs—Injured Sent to Hospitals.

Two heavy, high-powered automobiles came together head-on with a crash about 10 o'clock yesterday morning in Rahway Avenue, half way between Elizabeth and Rahway, N. J. The cars were going at a speed of at least 20 miles an hour.

As a result of the collision the three occupants of the smaller of the two machines were seriously injured, while two of the four occupants of the larger car were badly cut and bruised. Both cars, valued together at about $6,000, were completely wrecked and the accident put a damper on the "All Around New Jersey Reliability Race," in which at the time of the accident one of the two demolished cars was taking part. All the ambulances in Elizabeth were sent to the scene.

The Injured.

APPLEGATE, Mrs. ANNA, wife of Augustus Applegate of Manalapan, N. J.; skull fractured; cut and bruised all over the face and body.

MYERS, Mrs. ADELAIDE, of Newark, widow of Charles Myers, formerly a freight agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad; several of her ribs broken, and also badly cut about the face and body.

MOUNT, WILLIAM, of Kansas City, brother of Mrs. Myers and cousin of Mrs. Applegate, a retired manufacturer; several ribs fractured.

DALLAS, Dr. ALEXANDER, of Pine Brook, N. J., formerly of Bayonne and surgeon in St. Luke's Hospital, Manhattan; broken finger and bad scalp wound.

BRIER, CHARLES, chauffeur for Dr. Dallas; minor cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Applegate, Mrs. Myers, and Mr. Mount had left the residence of the Applegates in Manalapan in the runabout, meaning to go to Newark, where Mr. Mount has several relatives. Mr. Mount recently came east from Kansas City to visit Mrs. Applegate, his cousin, and had bought the runabout only a few days before for the purpose of going about the country in it. He was driving it himself and the two women were in the rear seat. They were traveling east along Rahway Avenue.

Just after they passed Bauer's roadhouse, about two miles from Elizabeth, Mr. Mount, according to his story, saw a grocery wagon jogging along ahead of him in the same direction. Up to that time he had kept the car on the right side of the road. He blew his horn to warn the grocery wagon driver of his approach, and turned his machine to the left, meaning to go around the wagon. No sooner had he swung over to the left side of the road than he saw something which the grocery wagon had completely concealed.

A touring car in which were four men was tearing westward along that part of the road into which he had swung his own speeding car. Mount saw that the other car carried a pennant with the numeral "21" printed on it. He realized, too, that it was in some sort of a race against time.

In an instant, too, he saw that the four men had suddenly awakened to a realization of the approach of his runabout directly in the path of their car. He saw three of them wave their arms to him wildly. Mount could not swing his runabout back to the right side of the road for fear of hitting the grocery wagon. He thought that the driver of the other car would probably keep straight onward, and that the best thing that he himself could do was to risk turning turtle or even ditching the runabout by swinging out still more to the left. But hardly had he done this when, to his consternation, he saw that the driver of the touring car was doing this, too.

The two onrushing machines were hardly ten feet apart by this time. Up to then the men at the wheels had been too busy with their steering gear to shift their hands to the brakes, and then no brake in the world could have prevented a collision.

No one tried to jump—Mount, because he had his sister and cousin behind him; the four men in the other car, because apparently they hadn't the time. The two cars met at a slight angle. Mrs. Applegate and Mrs. Myers were shot ten feet through the air over the touring car. Mrs. Applegate landed on her head. Her cousin fell near her in the roadway. Mount also landed near-by. Despite his broken ribs, he sprang up and helped to carry his sister, Mrs. Myers, into the house of Theodore Glaser. There Dr. W. J. Lynch soon arrived in an ambulance from Elizabeth.

The two women and Mr. Mount were taken to the St. Elizabeth Hospital. In spite of the serious nature of their injuries, it was said at the hospital last night that none of them would die.

In the touring car were Dr. Dallas, his chauffeur, Charles Brier, and two of Dr. Dallas's friends, one of whom was W. M. Eyerts of Montclair, N. J. Dr. Dallas had entered his machine in the "All Around New Jersey Reliability Race," which took place yesterday. The car's number in the race was 21. He had joined in the race near Montclair, and with about two-score other cars was making for Atlantic City. One of the rules of the race was that the cars should not exceed a speed of twenty-five miles an hour.

Dr. Dallas was leading in the race when the accident happened. When the crash came he and his chauffeur were thrown out. They were taken to the General Hospital in Elizabeth where their wounds were dressed. The two friends of Dr. Dallas escaped uninjured.

Nature has placed man under two masters—sickness and health. One governs him with pain, the other with pleasure.

If you would be well and happy you must obey the laws of health.

But modern life is so severe in strain and drain upon the body that it needs assistance. So Sanatogen was scientifically created. Combining the two elements of physical cells and tissues—albumen and sodium glycero-phosphate, it builds up the body, gives strength for weakness, adjusts the strained nerves, promotes appetite and food assimilation, enriches the vitiated blood, puts color in the cheek, lustre in the eye and happiness in the heart. It serves man and makes him master of his health. Thousands of testimonials praise it. All leading doctors prescribe it. You should use it.

determined to put a stop to it. Mr. Woods put up a very vigorous objection, of course, but I told him a few plain truths. When he mentioned other plays as being as bad as his, I asked him to name one, but he refused.

"I heard that Mr. Woods intended to produce another as bad or worse, but he will probably think better of it now. I am sorry that the play has received this notoriety, but it apparently is what Mr. Woods is looking for. I thought he would quietly withdraw the thing Saturday night and let it go at that, but it appears he wanted to get all the advertising he could and secured this injunction."

Play Not Immoral, Says Woods.

"There is something behind all this," said Mr. Woods yesterday, "and I would like to know what it is. Commissioner Baker wrote me last week that the play would have to be withdrawn, and I went to see him on Friday, taking along the original manuscript as written by Stanislaus Stange. I asked the Commissioner to point out what was immoral in the play, and he replied that certain lines were risque and suggestive. I wanted him to come and see the play for himself, and if he found anything objectionable he could arrest the players, the theatre managers, or myself. He said that that wasn't necessary; that he had decided that the play was objectionable, and that was all there was to it.

"In my opinion, there is absolutely nothing immoral in the play. Why doesn't the Commissioner proceed against other plays, or why didn't he stop 'The Girl With the Whooping Cough' when it first opened? Why does it take him two weeks to find out that it is immoral?

"I do not know whether I will produce the play at another New Yorw theatre or not. If I attempt to do so I suppose Commissioner Baker will hold up that theatre's license. By not giving me two week's notice I will lose about $6,000, for I will have to pay my company their salaries for two weeks in advance. As I said before, there is some influence behind all this, and I am going to try and find out what it is."

Mr. Erlanger would not make any comment upon the matter yesterday. He hopes, it was said, to get the license of the theatre renewed because of his prompt action in ordering Mr. Woods to discontinue the play when objection came from Commissioner Baker.

Mayor Gaynor was asked if he intended to continue getting evidence against objectionable plays, either by reading the manuscripts or by sending stenographers to take down the lines as spoken by the players, and he replied that he would do so if conditions warranted it.

RAILWAY BILL PASSED VOTE IS 200 TO 126

Solid Republican Ranks and 14 Democrats, Including Havens, in the House for It.

MANY CHANGES MADE

Commerce Court Is Retained, but Chairman Mann Fails to Have Merger Section Reinstated.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—With a solid Republican roll and fourteen scattering Democratic votes, the House to-day finally passed the Railroad bill by a vote of 200 to 126. Only eleven of the members present refrain from voting. One of the Democrats voting with the Republicans was James S. Havens, who beat the Republican boss of Rochester, George W. Aldridge, in the recent contest for the seat. The final vote on the bill was preceded by an effort on the part of the Democrats to recommit the measure to the committee, but the motion was lost by a vote of 176 to 157. On the motion to recommit the insurgents voted less solidly with the regulars against the Democratic move, twelve voting for recommitment.

One of the interesting features of the passage of the bill was the attempt of Chairman Mann of the Inter-State and Foreign Commerce Committee to have re-inserted in the bill Section 12, permitting the merger of non-competing lines, after this section had been knocked out in Committee of the Whole last week. The votes of a dozen or more stanch New England regulars, an equal number of insurgents, and the Democratic strength defeated the Mann amendment, 169 to 160. The failure of a number of regulars to follow the leadership of Mr. Mann caused surprise. Afterward it was explained that the New Englanders' position hinged upon the fact that the section would interfere with the lease system now in vogue throughout that part of the country.

Far Different from Senate Bill.

The bill passed by the House is quite another measure from that now under consideration in the Senate, though at the outset the fight started around two duplicate drafts of the Administration measure drawn up by Attorney General Wickersham The struggle in the Senate has not gone yet as far as in the House, but it is evident already that the insurgents in the upper chamber will not have as free a hand in the final form of the bill as they have had in the House.

Besides the elimination of Sections 7 and 12 by both the House and the Senate, four important amendments have been adopted in the House, and all of them are of the insurgent, or progressive, complexion. One of these amendments already has been defeated definitely in the Senate, and another, according to the most reliable polls, is marked for slaughter there at the end of the week. The other two are regarded so unfavorably by the elder statesmen that it is not likely that they even will be offered. These amendments, briefly, add to the bill the long and short haul clause, include inter-State telephone and telegraph lines under the terms of the measure as common carriers, provide for the physical valuation of railroads, and eliminate the Attorney General from any discretionary power in cases appealed to the Court of Commerce from the Inter-State Commerce Commission.

With the two houses of Congress as far apart as this, it would seem, on the face, almost impossible for any agreement to be reached when the bill gets into conference. But a phase of the voting to-day indicates the possibility of an agreement that will be something more than the emasculation of the measure by the two conferrees. There is little doubt that whatever is left of the bill in the Senate will be passed, and the vote in the House to-day has given the Senate renewed hope of going ultimately before the country with some affirmative legislation to the credit of the party.

An Almost Strictly Party Vote.

The striking thing about the vote to-day is that after all the fighting within the ranks of the Republicans, when the final roll was called the result was decided almost strictly on party lines. In other words, the bill passed to-day is a Republican measure, pure and simple, and the leaders on both sides realize that in the coming campaign they will need something of unmistakable parentage to show the country as a partial realization of campaign pledges. The new hope of the leaders comes from the partisan coloring of the House bill and the certainty that whatever bill finally passes the Senate will pass by an almost equally solid Republican vote in the face of pretty general Democratic opposition.

This fact, it is now hoped, will stand for more in the minds of the contending conferrees than the mere differences actually existing in the measures sponsored by the two houses. With both measures Republican, no matter how different may be the brand of Republicanism expressed in each, it will be squarely up to the Republican conferrees to get together and reach an agreement. This adjustment of differences in conference is something for which Republican leaders have long been famous, and it is believed now that they will be able to justify their reputation again in this instance.

Exactly how the agreement will come about it is difficult to say. The Senate never will stand for the inclusion of telephone and telegraph lines as common carriers, and it never will assent to the House physical valuation section. However, unless the long and short haul clause is defeated overwhelmingly in the Senate—and to-day nineteen Republican votes are polled for the clause, only to be offset by a dozen Democratic votes against it—it is conceivable that in some mild form the clause might be accepted by the Senate conferrees rather than precipitate a deadlock. On the subject of restricting the Attorney General's discretion in pushing cases before the Court of Commerce, the Senate also might be induced to listen to reason for a provision somewhat similar to that now in the House bill was defeated in the Senate early in the struggle by a bare majority of six.

Merger Section Not Reinserted.

As soon as the bill was called up Mr. Mann presented his amendment to reinsert Section 12, commonly known as the merger section, forbidding the merger of competing common carriers, but permitting, with the consent of the commission, the merger of lines "not substantially competitive." Mr. Mann explained that his amendment embraced all the changes in the original Section 12 as made in the Committee of the Whole before the entire section was eliminated. There was no debate on the Mann amendment. On the viva voce vote it appeared it would carry easily, but a roll call brought defeat, 169 to 160, owing to the defection of New England regulars, the usual insurgent strength, and the solid minority vote.

The following so-called regulars voted against Section 12: Representatives Weeks, Washburn, Tirrell, Roberts, Foss, Greene, Gillett, and Ames, all of Massachusetts; Currier of New Hampshire, Draper of New York, Henry, Hill, Sperry, Higgins, and Tilson of Connecticut, Wiley and Parker of New Jersey, Sheffield of Rhode Island, and Madden of Illinois.

The recognized insurgents who voted against the section included Cary of Wisconsin, Gronna of North Dakota, Haugen of Iowa, Hubbard of Iowa, Kendall of Iowa, Lenroot of Wisconsin, Lindbergh of Minnesota, Nelson of Minnesota, Poindexter of Washington, Gardner of Massachusetts, and Woods of Iowa.

Three Democrats, Gillespie and Russell of Texas and Saunders of Virginia, voted for the Mann amendment.

As soon as the defeat of the amendment was announced Representative Adamson of Georgia, ranking Democrat on the Inter-State and Foreign Commerce Committee, moved to recommit the bill to the committee, with instructions to eliminate the first six sections, which provide for the creation of the Commerce Court. An insufficient number of insurgents combined with the Democrats, and the motion to recommit was lost by a vote of 176 to 157. The following insurgents voted to strike the Commerce Court provision from the bill: Cary, Davis, Fowler, Gronna, Haugen, Hubbard, (Iowa,) Lenroot, Lindbergh, Nelson, Norris, Poindexter, and Woods.

The measure then was put on its final passage, which was agreed to by 200 to 166. The Republicans voted solidly for the bill on its final passage, and thirteen Democrats, most of whom had voted to recommit, now voted for its passage. These thirteen were Bartlett of Nevada, Hardy and Gillespie of Texas, Havens of New York, Jamieson of Iowa, Kitchin of North Carolina, Nichols of Pennsylvania, Hughes of New Jersey, Pou and Page of North Carolina, Russell, Smith, and Garner of Texas, and Saunders of Virginia.

New Provisions of the Bill.

The bill as it leaves the House, aside from the amendments already mentioned, changes rate laws in the following respects:

It establishes a Commerce Court, which shall review all appeals from decisions and orders of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, appeal from the Commerce Court being direct to the Supreme Court. The United States is made defendant to all such appeals, and the Attorney General is required to represent the Government;

It places Alaskan railroads and their rates under control of the commission;

It gives the Inter-State Commerce Commission jurisdiction over the issuance of railway stocks and bonds;

It forbids railroads to raise their rates again, unless approved by the commission, where the rates have been lowered to eliminate water competition;

It authorizes the commission to suspend, pending investigation, rates and classifications believed to be unreasonable, such suspension being permissible with or without complaint of shippers;

It accords to shippers the privilege of designating the route over which their shipments shall move;

It prohibits rates through the medium of false claims, and

It enlarges the jurisdiction and control of the commission over all common carriers and their permits with authority to establish through rates where none exist.

TAFT WELL PLEASED,

But Says He Is Not Acquainted Well Enough with Changes to Discuss Them

WASHINGTON, May 10.—President Taft to-night said he was deeply gratified over the passage of the measure. He was pleased especially with the comfortable margin by which the commerce court feature was kept in the bill, for he regards this court as probably the most important forward step in the proposed law.

As to the amendments and additional provisions added in the House, the President said he did not feel that this was the time to discuss them nor that he was fully enough acquainted with the changes to discuss them.

Chairman Mann of the Committee on Inter-State and Foreign Commerce said:

"Under the existing conditions, through the non-observance of the existing long-and-short-haul clause, a very large proportion of the freight of the country is carried by the long distance around instead of being carried by the most direct route. This caused a much greater expense to the railroads for transportation of freight than is necessary, and it often happens that two railroads each will be carrying a large amount of freight by the long-distance between two points, whereas if compelled to cease doing that each would carry the same amount of freight by the most direct route and be able to save expense and reduce railroad rates."

Champ Clark, leader of the Democratic minority, explaining the Democratic course, in opposing the bill on final vote, said:

"The Democrats who voted against the bill did so because they considered that there were more bad features in the bill than there were good ones. Every amendment that was adopted in the House helped the bill, but there were not enough of them. Had the court of commerce feature and some parts of Sections 13, 14, and 15 been stricken out I would have voted for the bill."

TO INVESTIGATE WHEAT POOL.

House Committee Decides to Report Favorably Resolution Aimed at Patten.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The House Judiciary Committee to-day voted to report to the House the resolution offered by Representative Craig (Dem., Ala.) asking the Attorney General if any investigation or prosecution was ever begun against any persons for "illegally combining and conspiring to advance the price of wheat in the United States in May and July, 1909." The resolution is directed at the "bull" pool maintained at that time by James A. Patten, and was offered by Mr. Craig in connection with his resolution of inquiry regarding the bulls and bears in the New York and New Orleans cotton markets.

The Department of Justice having announced that it was investigating a conspiracy of "bulls" to raise the price of cotton, Mr. Craig, who comes from a cotton State, presented a resolution inquiring if there was not also a "bear" conspiracy to depress the price of cotton. The cotton resolution was reported favorably a few days ago from the Judiciary Committee, but was adopted again to-day in connection with the resolution regarding the wheat pool. Both will come up in the House in a few days.

SWEEPING INQUIRY ORDERED.

Senate Favors Rigid Investigation of Abuse of Franking Privilege.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Just before adjourning the Senate adopted to-day a substitute for the resolution ordering an investigation of abuses of the franking privileges which was introduced yesterday by Senator Stone of Missouri.

The substitute provides for a more sweeping inquiry than originally intended and authorizes an investigation into the special case covered by the Stone resolution—the circulation of a pamphlet in defense of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, entitled "A Story of a Tariff."

Wilbur F. Wakeman, Treasurer and General Secretary of the American Protective League, said the league published the document, but had not sent out a single copy under frank of any one. It is strictly for sale. But an edition issued for members of Congress has been distributed by Mr. Wakeman under the postal frank.

HE STEALS BABY CARRIAGES.

Man Caught for the Second Time Carrying One Away.

Since the mild weather has brought out nursegirls and their charges into the parks, many complaints have been lodged with the Harlem Detective Bureau by persons who have had baby carriages stolen from parks or the vestibules of their homes. Detectives Hunt and McAvoy were assigned to investigate the thefts.

Yesterday afternoon they saw a man with a collapsible baby carriage bundled under his arm at 108th Street and Madison Avenue. They followed him to a tenement at 2,116 Second Avenue, where they questioned him. He said he was to deliver the carriage at the place, but could not tell, according to the police, to whom it was consigned. Then they arrested him as a suspicious person.

At the station, where the charge was changed to petit larceny, he said he was Leo Larcey, an actor, of 118 East 113th Street. But according to the police he is known also as Leo Levy, under which name, they say, he was sentenced to six months by Judge Deuel in Special Sessions on July 5 last, on complaint of Anna Becker of 514 East 138th Street, whose baby carriage he was trying to sell when arrested.

MRS. MORSE GAINS SIGNERS.

Gets 200 Names of Congressmen to Petition for Husband's Pardon.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Mrs. Charles W. Morse, who has been here two days seeking aid from members of Congress in her appeal to the President for a pardon of her husband, now in the Federal Prison at Atlanta, announced to-night that she had procured the signatures of nearly 200 Senators and Representatives to her petition.

Mrs. Morse added that she has more than 5,000 names of some of the most prominent men in Nation signed to the appeal.

Mrs. Morse will return to Atlanta to-morrow to show the results of her Washington visit to her husband.

LIVELY TILTS MARK BALLINGER INQUIRY

"You May Insult Witnesses, but Not Committee," Chairman Tells Glavis's Lawyer.

WOMAN ALSO INTERRUPTS

Attempt to Involve Senator Piles in the Controversy Prevented by Republican Members of Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Proceedings before the Ballinger-Pinchot Investigating Committee were enlivened to-day by several spirited encounters between Attorney L. D. Brandeis, representing L. R. Glavis, and members of the committee. A woman spectator added to the excitement by interjecting a remark condemning the committee for its action and defending the attorney.

Mr. Ballinger was again under cross-examination by Mr. Brandeis, who was seeking to ascertain with what land cases his firm had been connected between the time Mr. Ballinger resigned from the Land Office and the time when he became Secretary of the Interior.

Representative Denby, after this line of inquiry had been pursued for some time, objected to the process of forcing Mr. Ballinger to tell the business of his law firm during the time he was not in office. He contended this was not important.

"I think it is very important," said Mr. Brandeis, rather sharply, addressing Chairman Nelson.

"Don't you snap at me like that," said the Chairman, bringing his fist down on the table with a thump. "You may insult the witness, but I want you to understand you must not insult this committee. You can't act in that overbearing way around here."

Things were getting much on edge when a middle-aged woman in the rear of the room cried out:

"Your committee can't insult him, either."

Instantly there was an outburst of laughter and the Sergeant at Arms was obliged to restore order. The woman was Miss Margaret Hamilton, a lawyer, who has been a spectator at the hearings and has become a pronounced anti-Ballinger partisan. Her interruption, however, served to lessen the tension which had been caused by Chairman Nelson's criticism of Mr. Brandeis.

Tries to Involve Senator Piles.

Another feature of the hearing to-day was the attempt of Attorney Brandeis to involve Senator Piles of Washington in the controversy by the insinuation that his election to the Senate and the appointment of Ballinger as Commissioner of the General Land Office were due largely to the political activities of the Guggenheim-Cunningham Alaskan interests.

After a time further inquiry was shut off by a vote of the committee, the Republican members refusing to permit him to implicate Senator Piles.

Mr. Brandeis produced a series of newspaper clippings telling of a "jollity party" held by the supporters of Senator Piles upon the evening of his election, in which the Senator was quoted as saying he owed his election to Charles Sweeney, President of the Federal Smelting and Refining Company, the lead wing of the Guggenheim syndicate.

Elmer E. Tood, then United States District Attorney at Seattle and a witness before the committee in behalf of Secretary Ballinger, was quoted as saying: "We are all Sweeney men now." Many of the Cunningham claimants were present at the "jollity party."

Mr. Ballinger admitted that as Mayor of Seattle he had been present at the gathering, but declared he had not been active in the election of Senator Piles. When the latter had wired him concerning the Commissionership, he said, he had been "requested" to offer him the position.

Wants Lawlor Memorandum.

Mr. Brandeis also asked that the committee request either from the President or Assistant Attorney General Lawlor of the Interior Department, the original copy of the memorandum which Mr. Lawlor had submitted to the President when the latter was considering the Glavis charges.

It is the contention of the attorney that the President acted almost entirely upon this memorandum in vindicating Mr. Ballinger rather than upon a consideration of the voluminous documents which had been presented by the Interior Department to refute the statements of Glavis. He is seeking to get this memorandum which was not included among the papers sent to the Senate by the President on the Glavis case, and which was not known to exist until Mr. Ballinger incidentally mentioned it in his cross-examination to show, if possible, that it conforms almost entirely to the President's letter of vindication to Ballinger.

The committee, after considering the request, decided to refuse to call upon the President for the document, but to demand it of Mr. Lawlor. If Mr. Lawlor has the memorandum it may be produced before the committee, but if it is still in the hands of the President he will not be required to submit it.

Mr. Brandeis's line of cross-examination to-day was directed largely toward ascertaining what Mr. Ballinger's relationship was toward the Seattle claimants to the Alaskan coal lands who were his personal friends to the matter of his clear listing the Cunningham claims, and to his personal connection and that of his law firm with public land matters and irrigation projects.

TAFT RESENTS LURID TALES.

Annoyed by Story of Narrow Escape from Collision with a Train.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—President Taft told several of his callers to-day that he did not mind greatly legitimate criticisms of his travels, but that he did resent keenly the recent campaign of sensational stories as to his narrow escapes from death in barely averted collisions between his automobile and trolley cars and express trains.

The latest story at which the President expressed his annoyance came out of New York last night, reporting that the automobile in which he made the journey to Passaic, N. J., yesterday afternoon crossed an Erie Railroad track not more than 20 feet in front of a flying express train.

No such incident occurred. On the trip from New York to Passaic it was necessary for the President's car to pass over several grade crossings. At each of these extra precautions were taken, and once the President's automobile was held up for fully three minutes awaiting the passing of a train.

BUCKETSHOP MEN FIGHT.

Block Removal to Capital After Court Rules Against Them.

PHILADELPHIA, May 10.—United States Commissioner Carig decided to-day that the six men arrested here on April 2 in connection with the operation of bucket shops in the District of Columbia could be removed to Washington.

Immediately after his decision was announced, attorneys for the Government asked Judge McPherson for a writ of removal, but counsel objected, on the ground that the defendants had not been permitted to submit evidence to show they were not guilty of the charge. The court thereupon proceeded to hear the evidence.

The defendants are Thomas H. Campbell, Marshal F. Parrish, Alfred Ford, and Harry C. Stumpf of Philadelphia, and George Turner and Humphrey Owen of New York.

After each defendant had testified that he had not been in Washington for three years prior to the time fixed in the indictments an adjournment was taken until to-morrow, to give the Government an opportunity to present additional evidence.

PRINCE DEPARTS TO-DAY.

Entertained Yesterday by Melville E. Stone and at the Nippon Club.

Prince Tokugawa Iyesato, who sails for London to-day on the Mauretania, after a brief visit to this city, was entertained last night at a farewell dinner given by representative Japanese at the Nippon Club, 44 West Eighty-fifth Street. Among those present were Dr. J. Takamine, President of the club; Consul General K. Midzuno, Viscount Sengoka, and J. Inouye, the New York representative of the Bank of Japan.

Formal denial was made last night on behalf of the Prince, of a story published yesterday that he had floated here a Japanese loan of $100,000,000.

Earlier yesterday, in return for the hospitality he enjoyed on his recent visit to Japan, Melville E. Stone entertained the Prince at luncheon at the Lawyers' Club. Among those asked to meet the Prince were Hamilton Holt, Robert Underwood Johnson, Walter H. Page, J. Wright, Col. Clowry, Viscount Sengoka, Stuyvesant Fish, Consul General K. Midzuno, James H. Kidder, and Mr. Tsuchiyra, a Japanese editor.

Steers to Pay for His Own 'Phone.

Borough President Steers of Brooklyn announced yesterday that he would pay for the telephone service in his home out of his own pocket. He has directed Borough Secretary Reuben L. Haskell to do the same as to the telephone in the latter's house. Controller Prendergast recently criticised borough officials in Brooklyn for having the city pay for telephones in their homes.

German Veterans to Visit Fatherland.

The Hamburg-American liner Pennsylvania will sail to-day for Hamburg on her first trip as a second cabin steamer. She carries 550 passengers. Among them are a party of 175 German war veterans who are going to make a three months' tour of Germany to revisit the battlefields where they fought against France.

One of the most interesting features of our displays of Tobey Handmade Furniture is the collection of pieces made from rare woods.

The logs from which these pieces have been cut represent the forests of many countries. They were secured through years of careful research in the world's principal markets.

Among the different specimens are:

Marble-wood Philippine Rosewood
Australian Plum Satin-wood
St. Jago Mahogany Rare Curly Maple

The beauty in each instance is wonderful, and is dependent upon grain and natural coloring rather than upon a stain.

These woods, in combination with the exquisite workmanship characteristic of Tobey Handmade Furniture, produce effects of unmatched charm.

We invite you to see the display.

SAYS SPIRIT DOCTORS PRACTICE MEDICINE

RELIEF FOR X-SCIENTISTS

Substitute for Witter-Wilkie Bill, Offered by Its Advocates, Permitting Their Healers to Act.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 10.—It was seriously urged before the Senate Committee on Public Health this afternoon by members of the spiritualist society that a physician may die and yet continue to practice his profession through the offices of a medium. The medium, of course, collects the fees.

In support of this doctrine Spiritualists who appeared before the committee in opposition to the Witter-Wilkie bill, amending the health law to prohibit the practice of medicine by any person but those holding diplomas from medical colleges, pointed to Mrs. Matie E. Lane of Buffalo, a noted clairvoyant, whose practices recently brought her as a defendant before the Supreme Court and incidentally led to the introduction of the bill at the instigation of the Erie County Medical Society.

Frank Walker of Hamburg, N. Y., an editor of spiritualist publications, enunciated the doctrine of posthumous practice of medicine before the committee.

"We believe," said he, "that the sight of those in spirit land has been rendered acute to a point where it is akin to what is known to science as X rays, 'Y rays,' we might term it. This enables them to see through opaque substances. Thus the spirit of a physician working on a mortal would vest him or her with the gift of clairvoyance and enable such a person accurately to see and determine the condition of any organ of the body, where a living physician could only guess at it.

To illustrate his point, Mr. Walker told of an experience he had with the proprietor of the Whitcomb House in Rochester. He had been under medical treatment for some time for a stomach complaint, which the physicians were not able to diagnose. Mr. Walker told him that he could recommend him to somebody who could tell him what was the matter with him. Mr. Walker took his case to Mrs. Madison of Buffalo, a clairvoyant. Mrs. Madison made a long-distance diagnosis of the case, and prescribed a treatment.

Eugene R. Cox, Chairman of the Christian Science Publication Committee, introduced Virgil O. Strickler, first reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in New York City; Charles D. Holcombe, and B. G. Higby, all of whom protested against the barring of Christian Science healers from practicing their vocation.

Dr. John H. Grant, Chairman of the Board of Censors of the Erie County Medical Society, was one of those who favored amending the present law.

Dr. Grant said that there was no intent to interfere with the Christian Scientists, and offered as a substitute for the sweeping provision of the original bill an amendment defining as permissible all exercise of religious tenets for healing purposes, where no physical diagnosis is made, no medicines or drugs are given, administered, or prescribed, and no operation requiring the use of instruments is performed.

LINE-UP ON PRIMARIES BILL.

Vote To-day on Direct Nominations—Both Sides Predict Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 10.—With both sides predicting victory, the Assembly will meet under a close call to-morrow to debate and deliver its vote on the Hinman-Green Direct Nominations bill embodying Gov. Hughes's plan for primary reform. The vote will settle the fate of the Governor's pet measure.

All day members of both the Senate and the Assembly have been receiving telegrams from all parts of the State urging them to vote in favor of the bill. Assemblyman George A. Green of Brooklyn, who has fathered the bill, served notice this afternoon that he would move a close call to-morrow morning.

"I will insist upon every member of the Assembly being in his seat when the vote is taken," said Mr. Green.

Speaker Wadsworth, at the request of Mr. Green, directed the Sergeant at Arms to telegraph to every absent member to attend to-morrow's session. The Speaker has promised that the Assembly will vote on the bill to-morrow.

It is admitted to-night by both sides that the vote will be very close. The Committee on Rules this evening reported out all three direct primary bills pending before it, and they will be on the calendar to-morrow, but the Hinman-Green bill will take precedence..

The Senate, it was said to-night, will be guided largely by the action of the Assembly. A member of that body who has trained closely with the Republican machine, declared to-night that if the bill should pass the lower house, he could not see how it can fail to pass the Senate.

DIRECT PRIMARY DINNER.

Dollar Affair to be Given by Organizations on Upper West Side.

The direct primary organizations of the upper west side will give a dollar dinner, open to the public, on May 17, at the Hotel Langham, 103d Street and Broadway.

Dr. Rudolf Tombo, Jr., of Columbia University is Chairman of the dinner committee, and among the speakers will be ex-Judge William H. Wadhams, President of the State association; Miles M. Dawson, Assemblyman Andrew F. Murray, and Dr. Charles Austin Beard, Professor of Politics at Columbia.

COURT UPHOLDS AUTO RACES.

Contestants Not Required to Use Care in Dodging the Hookers-On.

Automobile cup races over public highways, when under the direction of the proper authorities and reasonably safeguarded against accident to outsiders, received the indorsement of Justice Garretson in his charge to a jury in the Queens County Court. Long Island City, yesterday, at the conclusion of the suit brought by Dr. Winfield H. Baldwin of East Norwalk, Conn., as guardian for his son, Ralph S. Baldwin, 14 years old, for $25,000 damages against the Locomobile Company of America for injuries received by young Baldwin, woh was struck by Joe Tracey's car at the Vanderbilt Cup races on Oct. 6, 1906.

In his charge to the jury Justice Garretson said that automobile races have practical value because they demonstrate both the speed and endurance of the cars contesting, and that the Vanderbilt Cup race was properly held notwithstanding that it presented elements of the greatest danger. Tracey was engaged in a hazardous occupation, said the Justice, and in this he was not required to use more than reasonable care, and at the same time it was necessary for spectators along the course to exercise reasonable care for their own safety.

The jury were instructed to bring in a sealed verdict.

Won't Revoke Belmont Tunnel Tax.

Supreme Court Justice O'Gorman declined yesterday to issue a writ of certiorari for a judicial review of assessments made by the State Board of Tax Commisisoners against the New York & Long Island Railroad Company, which built the Belmont tunnel. The assessment was $3,175,000 in 1908 and $3,350,000 in 1909. The company objected to the assessment on the ground that it was held subject to local taxation.

Y. M. C. A. REJECTS JEWS.

Rooms Refused to Two Young Men in Richmond Building.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., May 10.—Practically the entire Jewish population of Richmond is indignant over the ejection of two prominent Jewish young men from the dormitories of the Young Men's Christian Association by order of the Board of Directors.

M. Kobelenger and Jacob Want are the two young men who were not allowed to occupy rooms in the building. They both applied for membership some months ago, and wanted a room. Their applications were accepted, but later were returned to them canceled. Indignant over the action of the organization, they asked an explanation, and were informed that only those actively engaged in the association work could have rooms in the building.

The case of the young men has interested several prominent citizens here, among whom are Dr. Henry Pearce Atkins, President of the Virginia Anti-Saloon League, and Dr. Henry N. Calisch, leading Jewish minister.

FIRE INSURANCE CO. TO QUIT.

The Cosmopolitan Obtains a Court Order for Its Dissolution.

The Directors of the Cosmopolitan Fire Insurance Company obtained an order from Supreme Court Justice McCall yesterday requiring all interested persons to show cause on July 6 next why the company should not be permitted to dissolve. The company is incorporated for $300,000. It has transacted no business since Dec. 31, 1908.

The petition for dissolution recites that the company has lost money in the last few years and impaired its surplus. The principal shareholders are Jules S. Bache, 100 shares; Leo A. Loeb, 640 shares; Max H. Schultze, 50 shares; estate of Adolf Scheftels, 100 shares, and Charles P. Sanderson, 100 shares. The company has reinsured all its risks.

SUE MRS. RICKETTS FOR FURS.

Widow of Late Court Squad Chief Says Skins Did Not Match.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Ricketts, widow of Capt. William Ricketts, in charge of the court squad for many years, was in the Supreme Court yesterday before Justice Newburger and a jury as defendant in a suit for $2,470. Percy A. Weinberg and Theodore S. Clark, fur dealers at 187 Fifth Avenue, are the plaintiffs.

Weinberg & Clark allege that in November, 1900, Mrs. Ricketts selected seven Russian sable skins and ordered them made into a scarf and muff. When these were completed she refused to accept them. Her version is that the skins used in the garments were inferior in quality to those she selected, and did not match in quality or color.

MAYOR THANKS COMPLAINANT

And Orders the Nuisance That Annoyed Her Suppressed.

Mayor Gaynor issued orders yesterday for the abatement of a nuisance created by a noise in a saloon in West 123d Street. The Mayor also sent this letter to Miss E. W. Bull, a resident of the neighborhood, who called the matter to his attention:

> Dear Miss Bull: I thank you very much for your favor of May 9. If every one would do as you do, namely, notify me of such violations of law and nuisances, so that I could put an end to them, instead of railing and falsifying against public officials in pulpits and elsewhere, the net result would be considerable for law and order. Sincerely yours, W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

It is understood that the Mayor's rap at the critics of "public officials" is directed against the Brooklyn clergyman who was reported on Monday as having declared in his church on Sunday that he knew of instances where the excise law was being openly violated.

TRYING TO GET BACK AT US.

Glasgow Ship Owners Agree on a Rate for Carrying Coal.

GLASGOW, May 10.—Piqued at the failure of their bids to obtain any part of the recently placed contract for coal for the United States Navy, local coal merchants who are also shipowners to-day agreed not to quote below a certain rate for coal carriage.

By this move they hope to make the American contractor recoup them in part for the loss of anticipated profits on the fuel itself.

ATTACKS GERARD ON ELECTION RULING

Murray, in Assembly, Denounces Decision Which Put Friend on Civic Alliance Ticket.

CHANGE IN INCOME TAX VOTE

Assemblyman Challenges Friend to Deny Reversing His Vote to Save His Seat in the Assembly.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 10.—The Assembly Committee on Privileges and Elections handed down a majority report to-day favorable to Mitchell E. Friend, Democrat, member from the Thirty-first New York District, whose election was contested by Samuel Marks, Republican. A dissenting report was submitted by Assemblyman Kopp, a member of the committee.

Assemblyman Murray, who has been nursing his wrath since Mr. Friend's change of heart, caused his United States income tax resolution to go down in defeat, made a violent attack on Justice Gerard for having shunted Mr. Marks off the Civic Alliance ticket and put Mr. Friend on.

"Friend's petitions," he shouted, "obviously were fraudulent, spurious, monstrous, outrageous. I have letters from men high up in the councils of the Republican Party of this State and Nation demanding an investigation of the conduct of Mr. Justice Gerard. This injustice lost the contestant 2,500 votes, while his opponent's majority was but three. It is astonishing that the committee could have brought in such a report."

"This man," Mr. Murray continued, "pointing his finger at Mr. Friend, "in reversing his action on the income tax admitted that he had to do so to save his seat. If there's an ounce of courage in the soul that he is presumed to possess, let him stand up in this presence and square that statement with his sworn obligation as a member of the Assembly.

"Mr. Speaker, I despise, I loathe, my soul abhors a changeling."

"Mr. Hearst has repudiated specifically the alleged indorsement of Mr. Friend by the Civic Alliance," Assemblyman Donovan declared, "and as that elected Mr. Friend he has no right to his seat. I speak ofifcially."

After a protracted debate the report of the committee which declared Friend entitled to retain his seat was adopted by a vote of 106 to 25.

At his home, 725 Fifth Avenue, last night, Justice Gerard said:

"I do not remember this case distinctly. I had many of them before me last Fall, and passed upon them all on their merits. It seems that the committee upheld me and I do not care to reply to the irresponsible words of some excited Assemblyman."

CAR HITS FUNERAL COACH.

Woman Badly Hurt and Husband and Children Thrown Out.

A pair of horses drawing a coach in which Mrs. Margaret Blumenstock of 27 Floyd Street, Brooklyn, her husband, and their four children were riding, shied at a passing coal truck at Park and Clermont Avenues in that borough yesterday morning, and ran on to the eastbound trolley tracks of the Park Avenue line in front of a fast approaching Vanderbilt Avenue car. The car and coach collided with great force.

The occupants of the coach were thrown out, and Mrs. Blumenstock was severely injured. Her husband and children were badly shaken up. Both horses were knocked down by the shock, one of them dying almost immediately, and the coach was wrecked.

Mrs. Blumenstock and her family were in a funeral procession which left St. Ambrose's Roman Catholic Church at De Kalb and Tompkins Avenues shortly before the accident.

TO REGULATE COMMUTATION.

Senate Bill Gives Service Board This Authority.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 10.—Without a dissenting vote the Senate to-day amended the Public Service Commission bill in accordance with the wishes of the commuters of Westchester County, a large delegation of whom called on the Governor earlier in the day. The delegation came to Albany on a special car. Its members represented the Westchester Chamber of Commerce, Yonkers, Putnam Valley Association, Mount Vernon Chamber of Commerce, and included many city officials.

Announcement of an intended increase of commutation rates by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and an intimation of a similar increase on the New York Central lines caused the demonstration.

The original bill making the Public Service Commission's law more effective contained a clause making clear the right of the commission to order commutation rates and to regulate such rates on interurban lines as well as regular rates of fare. The Assembly passed the bill with the commutation clause omitted. Senator Wainwright prepared an amendment which restored this, and it was adopted. The bill is now on the order of final passage in the Senate.

Before the Governor to-day representatives of public bodies declared that the material increase in short-route rates on lines running into New York would prove a great burden to the owners of small homes, attracted to the suburbs of New York by low rates of fare. Among those who protested to the Governor were Mayor Fiske and Joseph S. Wood of Mount Vernon, W. P. Blackman and Corporation Counsel Harmer of New Rochelle, A. P. Gage of Yonkers, and E. M. Bond of White Plains. Mayor Fiske declared the business of the New Haven Road was an answer to the argument that the suburban traffic was not remunerative.

Gov. Hughes was asked to send a special message to the Legislature urging the enactment of a law which would give the Public Service Commission direct power to consider complaints as to commutation, family, and mileage rates of fare. The Governor said he would inquire into the matter.

SENATE FOR GRAFT INQUIRY.

Bill to Investigate Legislature Will Be Passed To-morrow.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 10.—The Senate Finance Committee decided to-night to report favorably on the Assembly resolution calling for a broad investigation of corruption in connection with legislation and the business of State departments.

A resolution which followed the disclosures of the Allds trial called for the appointment of a committee of three Senators and five Assemblymen to inquire into any charges that may be filed or to probe any matter which it believes should be investigated.

The only amendment to the Assembly resolution made by the Senate committee is to require a report of the committee on or before Jan. 15, 1911, instead of March 1. It is probable that the resolution will be passed to-morrow.

The subject of legislative graft indirectly was before the Assembly to-day when was discussed the Lansing bill prohibiting members of the Legislature who are lawyers from practicing before State departments or representing the State for remuneration except that received as legislators. Assemblyman John L. Sullivan, who opposed the bill, criticised heads of State departments who "go out of their way to attack members of the Legislature."

A motion to recommit the bill was defeated, but the Assembly adopted an amendment offered by Mr. Shortt making it clear that a member of the Legislature might represent an individual before any court or any referee or appraiser appointed by the courts. The bill will come up for final passage next week.

Appraisal Commission Bill Killed.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 10.—The Assembly today went on record as opposed to the Dana bill, which was designed to provide a permanent commission of appraisal appointed by the various appellate divisions. The bill, which was on the order of final passage, was recommitted by a vote of 77 to 13. The Dana bill was one of the measures introduced to meet the complaint of excessive bills for the appraisal of land for the water supply and other public purposes in New York City.

WOMAN GAMBLED ON HOE'S LIFE

Sues to Recover $150,000 for Press Stock to be Paid for If She Outlived Him.

PUTS HIS PICTURES IN PERIL

Counsel for Executors Say They Would Have to be Sold to Pay Englishwoman's Strange Claim.

The art collection of the late Robert Hoe may have to be sold to pay the demand of a woman who took a gamble on the great press builder's life. This statement was made in the Surrogates' Court yesterday by counsel for F. W. H. Crane and Phineas P. Chew, executors of Mr. Hoe's will.

After hearing argument Surrogate Thomas decided to throw the case into the Supreme Court for settlement. The matter came before him on a motion to compel the executors to put the $150,000 claim of Mary Johnson Brown Johns on the schedule of Mr. Hoe's debts to be paid before any of the legacies under the will. Issues of fact were raised in the argument between counsel, which Surrogate Thomas said would have to be settled in the Supreme Court, and he refused to grant the motion. A suit is now pending in the Supreme Court.

"The executors have no fund to meet this claim," said Edward J. Pringle, their counsel. "They would have to sell the valuable art collections of the testator to meet it if it were established."

Messrs. Phelps & East, counsel for Mrs. Johns, who lived at 38 Brunswick Square, London, England, submitted a formidable British legal document in support of her claim. It was a bond drawn under British legal forms, signed, sealed, and executed in the office of Harold Burns Hopgood of the firm of Hopgood and Dawson, solicitors, 17 Spring Gardens, Westminster. It is dated July 9, 1908. Mr. Hoe died in last December.

The document recites that on the day in July, 1908, on which it was drawn, and on previous dates, Mrs. Johns, who was then the widow of Lewis Brown and signed herself Mary Johnson Brown, had turned over to Mr. Hoe various stocks and bonds of the Hoe Company which she had in her possession. How she acquired them the document does not say. In return for this reconveyance to Mr. Hoe he agreed, according to the document, that she should have £30,000 English money ($150,000) at his death. This agreement that she should have a claim against his estate, however, specifically provided that her claim should lapse with her death, and that in case of her death before him her heirs could not collect. The instrument also provided that Mrs. Johns should not assign her claim to a third party.

Among other provisions in the instrument is one that it shall be construed according to English law. The executors in their pleadings attacked the instrument as "an attempt at testamentary disposition" in a document which is not a will nor a part of a will. American precedents, said Mr. Pringle yesterday, are along the lines of the Connecticut decision in the sealed letter case, in which the Widow Bennett was able to prevent William Jennings Bryan from collecting $50,000 ordered to be given to him through instructions in a sealed letter. In the Bennett-Ryan case the sealed letter was mentioned in the will.

Mr. Pringle told Surrogate Thomas yesterday that the executors had sent a man to England to investigate the claim of Mrs. Johns, and that they had found no ground for the assertion in the document that Mrs. Johns had returned bonds in exchange for the chance that she might win $150,000 by outliving Mr. Hoe.

It was implied yesterday that Mrs. Johns had in her possession in London other documents providing further payments from the Hoe estate to her. These documents were said to be in the possession of Solicitor Hopgood, to whose office Mr. Hoe and Mrs. Johns went to have their indentures drawn in legal form. Nothing could be learned yesterday concerning the contents of these other documents, counsel for both sides concealing their provisions.

When Mr. Hoe died he left a widow, Mrs. Olivia P. Hoe; three daughters, Mrs. Olivia P. Slade, Mrs. Laura Carter, and Mrs. Ruth H. Sterling; two sons, Robert and Arthur I. Hoe, and four grandchildren, Thyrsa Benson, and Samuel, Robert, and Ellen Jane Evans. Robert Hoe, 4th, and Arthur Hoe had been trained to manage the business which Mr. Hoe left. On Jan. 11 last Supreme Court Justice Amend approved a plan to reorganize Robert Hoe & Co. to keep the business in the Hoe family.

HELD FOR POSTAL ROBBERY.

Police Think They Have Three Men Who Entered West Virginia Office.

Detective Roddy and Murray of the Brooklyn Detective Bureau arrested three men yesterday at the Nassau Inn, 284 Albany Avenue, Brooklyn, who are charged with robbing the Post Office at Newel, West Va., on May 4 of $2,100 worth of stamps. According to the police, the prisoners are John Brennan, alias John Brannon; Joseph Brennan, his brother, alias "Ed" Davenport, and Paul Dietrick.

They were found in the same room in the hotel, and the detectives say they attempted to resist. John Brennan was seen to reach under his pillow for his revolver, and the other two made a movement for their hip pockets. The detectives were too quick for them and covered them with their weapons.

The prisoners denied that they had anything to do with the Post Office robbery in Newel,, but their answers to questions put to them were so contradictory, according to the police, that it was decided to detain them. Post Office Inspectors James and Hamilton of Brooklyn say that the stamps were sent here the day after the robbery, and that they have enough evidence to send the prisoners back to West Virginia for trial.

The accused men were before United States Commissioner Morle and held for examination. It was said they would in all probability be sent to West Virginia.

THROWN, CHASED HIS HORSE.

Broker, Unseated in the Park, Followed Mount in a Buggy.

Robert M. Pike of 138 Lexington Avenue, a broker, was thrown from his horse yesterday morning as he was riding in the upper end of Central Park. Mr. Pike picked himself up and gave chase to his horse in a buggy, whose owner drove along at the time. The horse ran on down through the park.

Inspector Max Schmittberger, who was reviewing the Central Park Squad in the sheepfold, and several other policemen, saw the horse and ran out to stop him. Acting Sergt. John J. Talk seized hold of the horse's bridle first, hanging there until the animal stopped. Mr. Pike came up soon after, and took the horse away.

Policeman Hurt Saving Boy.

While saving a child from being run over by a westbound Thirty-fourth Street car in Broadway last night, Policeman William H. Hughes of 471 Third Avenue was badly hurt. The heel of his right foot caught in a slot in the car tracks. In turning to put the boy in safety he twisted his ankle in pulling his foot from the slot. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

Conductor Beaten and Robbed?

An unidentified man, wearing the uniform of a Metropolitan Street Railway conductor, with badge No. 470, was found unconscious last night on the stoop of a house at 22 West Twenty-fourth Street by a policeman. He was suffering from concussion of the brain and possible fracture of the skull. As there was no money in the man's pockets, or any papers that would lead to his identification, the police believe he was beaten and robbed. He was taken to the New York Hospital.

BRIEF VIEW OF THE COMET.

Miss Proctor Caught Only Fitful Glimpses of the Visitor Yesterday.

Arriving at the Times Tower at 2:45 yesterday morning not a glimpse was obtained of the comet until 3:20 o'clock. It remained visible to the naked eye for some ten minutes, and then withdrew behind a cloud. Occasionally it gleamed through a rift, as though playing hide-and-seek with the observers on planet earth. Otherwise it remained hidden from view until the light of dawn spreading over the eastern sky about 4 o'clock made further chance of seeing the comet hopeless.

Even Venus, usually so punctual and gracious in bidding us a bright "good morning" from her home in the sky, was coy and dilatory, putting in her appearance only a minute or so before the comet, and concealing herself behind the same cloud which so effectually hid her rival from view. Were they both sulking at the opposition glare of light in the city beneath them, which made it well-nigh impossible to see the comet to any advantage even during the brief interval when it was visible? Its nucleus has brightened considerably since it was observed by the writer, under such favorable conditions last Friday morning, and was of the second magnitude. The train, which is now more fanlike in appearance, could only be traced to a distance of five degrees, (equivalent to the distance between the Pointers in the Great Dipper,) but with an opera glass could be seen for at least eight degrees. The outer edge of the train was brighter than the interior, and there appeared to be three or four dark rifts in the train, starting a little beyond the nucleus, which was apparently surrounded by a misty cloudlike envelope.

The comet should have been clearly visible at 3 o'clock, as the region of the sky in which it is situated (a few degrees to the south of the star Gamma in the Square of Pegasus, and one-third of the way between it and Venus,) was clear of cloud. However, as the comet is lower down in the sky than it was last week, its pale gray light is almost lost in the glare from the city lamps, especially those on Queensboro Bridge, above which the comet shines, as seen from Times Tower. If only these lights could be dispensed with during the wee sma' hours from 3 to 3:30, for the remainder of the week it would give one a chance to see the comet while it is at its best from a spectacular point of view.

Every morning now until May 16 the comet becomes brighter and brighter, until it is overcome by the sunlight on May 17. To-morrow the actual hour of rising is 2:15 A. M., but the comet will probably not be visible until 3:15 A. M., when it rises some fifteen degrees above the mists on the horizon, fading in the light of approaching dawn between 3:30 and 4 o'clock.

COMET'S TAIL POISONOUS.

French Astronomer Thinks Gases Might Affect the Earth's Atmosphere.

PARIS, May 10.—Astronomers in France are making observations on Halley's comet that are attracting the greatest interest.

Maurice Hamy of the Paris Observatory reports that the length of the tail has increased from five to ten degrees in three days. Prof. Deslandres of the University of Dijon finds a reappearance in the spectroscope of cyanogen, the poisonous gas which was observed in January and February, but which disappeared in March. In his report he says that the hypothesis that the gas is liable to affect the terrestrial atmosphere would not be at all absurd.

On the other hand, Camille Flammarion thinks that the tail of the comet is simply an optical phenomenon produced by the flight through ether, similar to the wake of a ship at sea.

M. Marchand maintains that the comet shows important variations from its predicted orbit, which may bring about unexpected results.

BLAME THE COMET FOR IT.

Storm at Sea, a Dream, and a Melancholy Cat Laid at Its Door.

Some of the passengers on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, which arrived yesterday from Bremen, were inclined to blame the comet for the heavy storm the vessel encountered. Miss Jeanne Dale, one of the passengers, declared that she had a vivid dream on Saturday night when the storm first began, and it so alarmed her that she related it to her fellow-passengers.

One of the bedroom stewards said that a merchant had given him a quarter for looking after his cabin on the voyage, and the bandmaster had found a bad half dollar in the collection, which he put down to the same evil influence.

The chief steward said that Schnitzel, the pet cabin cat, had seemed dismal and unhappy all the way across. The cat refused to lap her milk, took frequent trips up the main rigging at night, and gazed earnestly into the darkness, while uttering plaintive meows in German. When asked if he believed this melancholia on the part of Schnitzel was also due to the comet the chief steward replied that it was either that or remorse for eating the bo'sun's whistling canary on the last passage home.

GETS GOOD VIEWS OF COMET.

Dr. Brooks, Discoverer of 25 of Them, Makes Excellent Observations.

GENEVA, N. Y., May 10.—Dr. William R. Brooks, Director of the Smith Observatory and Professor of Astronomy at Hobart College, reports excellent observations of Halley's comet this morning. The comet was much brighter and the tail could be traced to a length of twenty-five degrees and nearly parallel to the great square of Pegasus. The nucleus was brighter than any star in that region of the heavens. Dr. Brooks says the comet is now in its best position for morning observation.

Prof. Brooks is the discoverer of twenty-five comets, two of which are in the same class of long-period comets as Halley's.

Comet Was Jerusalem's Omen.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 10, (by telegraph to Clifden, Ireland; thence by wireless.)—The Greenwich astronomer, E. C. D. Crommelin, has stated in a lecture that the sword which Josephus said hung over Jerusalem before its fall was probably Halley's comet.

WOMEN FASTERS STILL HOLD OUT

Show No Signs of Weakening in Their Vow to Abstain Three Days from Food.

NOT LOSING MUCH WEIGHT

They Are Occupying Their Time with the Writing of Chapters in a Romance.

Special to The New York Times.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., May 10.—Despite all forecasts three robust young women, whose lives had been strengthened by much golf and country living, could not hold out against a self-stipulated fast of three days, Mrs. Keith Trask, Miss Marion MacKellar, and Miss Anne Townsend, are succeeding in the attempt. The families of the girls are, however, much annoyed at the publicity they are receiving, and the fasters themselves are at no little loss to understand it.

On Monday night they went to the village to be weighed. Miss MacKellar was found to tip the scales at 102 pounds, Miss Townsend at 126, and Mrs. Trask at 125. They expect to be weighed again after their season of fasting.

Of the three, Miss Townsend feels the effect of no nourishment least. Their tongues have grown gradually whiter, and each morning they line up before the mirrors in their bedrooms and inspect the talkative members. It has been suggested that if the many newspapers which have endeavored to get photographs, could catch them with the camera in this attitude it might prove more than a usually interesting feature of illustration.

So insistent is the demand for pictures on the part of the newspaper photographers that none of the fasters will go out without veils, and even then, choose the quietest streets on which to make fleeting visits to their homes. This attention their families are requiring of them. Before going they vow they will not touch food.

Yesterday Miss MacKellar got home first in time to find her family at dinner. It was all she could do, she says, to keep her gaze from the cloth as fish, meat, and vegetables followed the soup, in face of the most exasperating encouragement from two brothers.

The fasters agree that their experiment is proving beneficial. Up to to-night they have had nothing but water.

A question that is absorbing the interests of the fasters while they try to keep their minds off themselves, is a book to which they and their friends have each contributed a chapter. The story, which is the romance of a Southern man with an inherited ugly temper, and a Northern girl has not, as yet, been named. It lacks three chapters of being finished, and is declared, by competent judges, to be very good. The manuscript has been South, and as far West as Kansas, for two of its chapters.

CENTURY PLANT TO BLOOM.

Giant Agave in the Bronx Garden Is Sending Up a Flower Stalk.

Visitors to the New York Botanical Garden may observe this month one of the large Agaves sending up its great flower stalk. The plant was given to the garden by F. T. Holder in 1901. It was then very nearly as large as it is now, but it has made a few new leaves year by year, and, being of great size, the garden authorities have suspected that it might flower at any time.

Late in April a flower stalk was observed in the middle of the great tuft of leaves, which are about six feet long. Since April 28 this flower stalk—"pole"—has been growing at an average rate of about two inches a day, and at present its tip is more than seven feet above the height of the tub. It is supposed that the "pole" will reach a height of at least twenty-five feet, perhaps more, and then the large cluster of flowers will open at the top some time in the Summer.

This will be the first century plant of this kind which has flowered at the New York Botanical Garden. Two smaller kinds have bloomed in former years, but this one, one of the largest of the genus, is of particular interest. It has been put in the Court of Public Conservatories No. 1, near the elevated railway station, where it may conveniently be observed.

These century plants are of many different kinds, and are native in dry and desert regions of the American sub-tropical regions, being most abundant in Mexico, where the one now coming into bloom was found. Several kinds are found in Southern Florida, and others on the West Indian islands. The collections of these plants at the New York Botanical Garden are extensive, though many of the individual plants are as yet small.

ROCKEFELLERS IN A JAM.

Caught in Gangway Crowd of Visitors Leaving Kaiser Wilhelm II.

Owing to the number of prominent persons sailing on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II. yesterday for Europe there was an unusual number of visiting men and women on board before the vessel sailed.

The first bell warning visitors to get ashore was rung at 9:30 o'clock, half an hour before the sailing hour, but most of the vistors waited to the last moment, and several women had their dresses torn in the struggle to get ashore.

Among those in the crush were John D. Rockefeller and his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who had gone to the liner to say good-bye to Mrs. Harold McCormick, who was sailing for Bremen with her husband and three children. Mr. Rockefeller was good-natured in the crush, and waved his haid to hs daughter when he got safely on the pier.

Annoyers of Women Arrested.

As the result of a letter of complaint written by a woman to Mayor Gaynor four youths were arrested at Third Avenue and Twenty-second Street last evening, charged with insulting girls and women. The writer of the letter, whose name was not disclosed, complained that young men loafed around a fruit stand and annoyed girls and women who passed. As a result Detective England of Police Headquarters, arrested William Smith, 17, of 133 East Twenty-sixth Street; Michael McCullom, 18, of 348 Third Avenue; Michael Gray, 17, of 237 East Twenty-ninth Street, and Anthony Levaca, 16, of 205 East Twenty-second Street. Gray said he was a High School boy.

Nazimova's Admirer Not Insane.

Dr. Frederick Griffith, who was committed to Bellevue Hospital psychopathic ward last Friday for writing love letters to Alla Nazimova, the actress, was discharged as sane yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Whitney. Dr. Gregory, head of the ward, said he had examined Dr. Griffith and found nothing crazy about him. Dr. Griffith went to Philadelphia after his release with his brothers, David E. and Robert M. Griffith of that city.

DEFENSE PUTS VALUE ON HEINZE COPPERS

Its Mining Engineer Appraises the Ohio's Ore Body, on Day of the Loans, at $20,400,000.

UNITED HAD AN INTEREST

Prosecution Gets Modifications of Property Estimates After a Prying Cross-Examination.

The defense of F. A. Heinze for misapplication and overcertification of funds during his Presidency of the Mercantile National Bank in 1907 opened yesterday before Judge Hough in the United States Circuit Court. The greater part of the day's session was devoted to testimony bearing upon the value of properties which remained behind the stock of the United Copper Company after the sale of the producing properties of that combination to the Cole and Ryan syndicate in 1906.

At the close of the day the net accomplishment of the defense was to get in evidence the estimates of its own mining engineer, Albert Frank, that the shares of Ohio Copper which the United owned, taking the date Oct. 14, 1907, as a basis, represented ore in the ground showing a net value of $20,400,000, and that the Stewart mine represented a potential value on a similar basis of estimate of $1,833,000 on that date. The estimate for the Ohio shares was made on the assumption of a twenty-cent price for copper metal in October, 1907. Mr. Frank estimated on the basis of a thirteen-cent selling price, a present potential value of $7,468,028, for the United's holdings of Ohio.

These two properties, concerning which the estimates of the Heinze engineer comprised the evidence thus far, plus some incidental mention of them by Stanley Gifford, who was Treasurer of the United Copper Company up to the time that the books disappeared and Gifford sailed for Europe last May, were the only ones gone into in detail by the defense in yesterday's session.

Defense Lets Down the Bars

The defense has now opened up to the Government the entire subject of the values behind the Heinze properties after the producing concerns had been sold to the Cole-Ryan Syndicate for $10,000,000 in 1906. This move, coupled with the action of John B. Stanchfield, in letting the Government get back of the year 1907 in examining the various manipulations by the Heinzes and their co-workers, places the Government in a position to go into most of the subjects which the Heinze lawyers succeeded in having excluded during the presentation of the case in chief.

John C. Tomlinson conducted the examination of witnesses for Heinze yesterday. At the beginning of the session he put on the stand George Brant, manager of the pass-book department of the Mercantile National Bank. It has previously been one of the contentions of the defense that on Oct. 14, 1907, when the defendant had certified in the Mercantile National Bank $460,000 of checks for Otto Heinze & Co., he started to make a loan of $500,000 to that firm before a warning from Miles O'Brien, the Vice President, led him to change his plan and lend the money to himself, which was to go to the credit of the Heinze firm against these checks.

Mr. Tomlinson had Brant identify in the pass-book of Otto Heinze & Co. an entry of a $500,000 credit on Oct. 14, 1907. Brant also said that he made up a statement of the firm's account as of the same date which showed the making of this loan. The books of the bank, however, contain no entry of the loan, and the witness could not testify from any personal memory as to writing up the pass-book or preparing the statement of account.

Properties Owned by United

Mr. Gifford came in then and from a little notebook which he carried in his pocket he gave this list of properties as belonging to the United Copper Company on Oct. 14, 1907:

One-half interest in 575,000 acres of timber and agricultural lands in British Columbia.

Six hundred and fifty thousand shares of the capital stock of the Stewart Mining Company, owning a group of claims in the Coeur d'Alene district, near the mines of the Federal Smelting Company.

One-third interest in 10,000 acres of coal lands near Pittsburg "in the vicinity of other prominent producing mines."

Forty claims known as the "Daniellsville" claims, near Butte, valued by Gifford at $200,000, and not more particularly described.

Ten thousand acres of timber land near Garrison, Mont., not described by Gifford in detail.

Sixty per cent. of a porphery dyke gold property in the Rocky Mountains, consisting of some 400 acres of territory with gold ore, estimated to pan out at the rate of $2 a ton, according to the borings taken by the Heinze engineers.

The Lexington Mines in Butte, producing silver, zinc, lead, and copper, which Gifford described as being "in process of rehabilitation."

Six hundred thousand shares out of a total issue of 1,000,000 shares of the Ohio Copper Company's stock, representing a property in Utah near the Utah & Boston Consolidated, where a three-mile tunnel has been built and various construction work done.

The Basin Reduction Company, 28 miles from Butte, which Gifford said represented a cost of $1,500,000.

The control of the Aetna Indemnity Company, a New York corporation.

Gifford declared that the net value of the ore taken out by the Montana Ore Purchasing Company, as the chief subsidiary of the United, since 1902 was between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000.

Mr. Wise brought out that Gifford resigned from the United Copper Company about the time that the books disappeared last May and went to Europe for a stay which kept him on the Continent until Dec. 21.

Mr. Wise next took up the matter of Gifford's knowledge about the timber lands in British Columbia, and asked if the United Copper Company had any deed to this property.

Scrutinizing the Alleged Values.

"Here it is," remarked one of the counsel for the defense, producing a deed dated Jan. 10, 1907.

"When did you first see that deed?" Mr. Wise asked the witness.

"I have seen it so many times that I don't recall when," replied Gifford.

"Was it last week?" asked Mr. Wise.

"Are you looking for forgery?" inquired Mr. Stanchfield, for the defense.

"I wouldn't be surprised," remarked the United States Attorney, as he held the paper on which the deed was written up to the light to examine the watermark.

"Has that deed ever been recorded?" was the next question.

"No," replied the witness.

Mr. Wise next took up the Stewart Mining Company, which Gifford said the Montana Ore Purchasing Company bought at the rate of 40 cents or 50 cents a share for its 640,000 shares.

"Wasn't the mill of the Stewart built on somebody else's property?"

"Yes," replied the witness, who added that the Stewart had the ground under option when it built the mill. Mr. Wise then brought out that on Oct. 14, 1907, the Stewart property was not operated because of this trouble and of the price of lead, which made it unprofitable.

Mr. Wise took up the Lexington Mines in Butte, which constitute the properties of the La France Copper Company. This is the stock for which the United in its books claims a value of $20 a share as one of the assets remaining after the sale of the producing properties of Cole & Ryan. Previous evidence has shown that it was issued as a bonus with bonds, and Mr. Wise from the books of the United Copper Company brought out yesterday that prior to Oct. 14, 1907, the 80,000 shares held by the United were sold to Otto Heinze & Co. and A. P. Heinze and $50,000 paid on account.

Schulze Made the Sale.

The sale was made through Max H. Schulze's manager, and the witness said that he did not quite understand the book entries and had never seen them before. These Lexington Mines, Mr. Wise brought out, has not been operated for sixteen years prior to October, 1907, and that the mill on the plant was at that time under an injunction restraining it as a public nuisance from being operated. He made the witness admit furthermore that the La France Company had defaulted on its $2,000,000 of bonds underlying the stock on which the United placed a value of $20 a share.

Coming along to the Aetna Indemnity stock, Mr. Wise made the witness admit that a considerable part of the United's holdings were in 1907 held as collateral for the payment of money borrowed to acquire these shares.

Finally the United States Attorney took up the sale to Cole & Ryan and obtained a concession from the defense that all of the producing properties which F. A. Heinze in 1902 had originally transferred to the United Copper Company were sold, to the extent of the 95 per cent. ownership of the United Copper in them, to the Cole-Ryan syndicate for $10,500,000 cash.

Then Engineer Albert Frank was put on. Mr. Wise offered to admit that the Ohio Copper stock held by the United on Dec. 31, 1907, was worth the $4,330,000, at which it was carried on the books, but the defense would not accept this admission and proceeded to get the witness to go into elaborate detail as to his estimate of the value of the ore in the Ohio Mines both as of October, 1907, and at the current price of copper.

Frank's cross-examination will be taken up this morning.

HEINZE CLAIM DISALLOWED.

La France Bonds, Which He Deposited as Security, Fell Into Other Hands.

Judgment rendered in the Supreme Court yesterday holds that F. Augustus Heinze cannot claim interest in securities which he deposited with the Riverside Bank during the panic of 1907, and which fell into the hands of others, in spite of an agreement that they were to be held for Heinze. The Etna Indemnity Company got a judgment against the La France Copper Company for $10,760, interest due on coupon bonds. The La France Copper Company is a Heinze enterprise.

The findings of fact show that on Oct. 17, 1907, F. Augustus Heinze, at the request of Joseph G. Robin, a Director of the Riverside Bank, deposited with it $400,000 in cash and securities to keep the bank running. In return the bank agreed to hold all of Heinze's securities then and previously deposited, some as collateral for loans to Heinze, until Heinze should be ready to redeem them. On Oct. 22, 1907, the securities were sold, and the La France Copper Company refused to pay the interest to any one but Heinze.

The judgment directs the copper company to pay the interest to the indemnity company.

PRIEST TO SAILOR'S RESCUE.

Captures Two Men Who He Thought Were Holding Him Up.

The Rev. Father Philip J. Magrath of St. Veronica's Church and pastor of the Catholic Seaman's Mission at 422 West Street, fought off two ruffians who were holding up a drunken sailor yesterday and caused their arrest.

Three weeks ago James Dwyer, a sailor, was found injured in the street near the mission. He was taken to the hospital, where he died last Sunday night after telling Father Magrath that he had received his injuries by being struck on the head with a blackjack by water-front thieves and robbed of $800. Father Magrath resolved to find the thieves.

About 1 o'clock yesterday morning he walked along the water front and through Greenwich Street. At West Tenth Street a stranger told him that a sailor was being held up and robbed around the corner. Father Magrath ran around and saw a man holding a sailor. Another man was acting as lookout. He saw the priest coming, whistled to his companion, and started off.

The second man started to run and Father Magrath grabbed him. The man made a lunge at the priest. Father Magrath ducked the blow and then struck the man, knocking him down. He jumped to his feet and ran off with Father Magrath at his heels. Suddenly the man stopped and turned on the priset. At the same time his companion came to his assistance. Both were promptly knocked down by the priest, who then blew a police whistle for help.

Policemen Phelan and Mallon of the Charles Street Station responded and arrested both men. At the station they gave their names as "Duck" Smith and Carl Schwartz, known as "Limp," and refused their address. They are both well-known characters along the water front.

In the meantime the sailor who was being held up disappeared and the only charge which could be made when the prisoners were arraigned in the Jefferson Market Court before Magistrate House was disorderly conduct.

The Magistrate sent the prisoners to the workhouse.

ON TRIAL FOR WIFE MURDER.

Detective Lustig Charged with Killing Her for Life Insurance.

Maurice M. Lustig, a private detective, charged with the murder of his wife by strychnine poisoning, was put on trial yesterday before Judge Foster in General Sessions. Mrs. Lustig died on Oct. 28 in their home at 14 East 116th Street, and the body was buried in Milroy, Penn. It was not until an anonymous letter aroused the Coroner's suspicions that the body was exhumed and strong traces of strychnine were discovered. The prosecution alleges that Lustig killed his wife to collect insurance on her life.

Charles Phillips of 4 West 116th Street, a young doctor, testified yesterday that he had attended Mrs. Lustig in her illness and had given the certificate which ascribed the death to tubercular meningitis. He admitted that when he was called to the sick room his first diagnosis was strychnine poisoning.

"The morning she died—it was at 8 o'clock—Lustig wakened me and fairly ran me to his home," he said. "When I told him his wife was dead he sank down on his knees, buried his face in the sheets, and sobbed. 'Rhoda, talk to me, talk to me,' he kept raving again and again. Then he gave way to an attack of hysteria, and it was some time before I could quiet him."

At this point Lustig wept yesterday and wiped his eyes on a black-bordered handkerchief.

Dr. Isaac Plotz of 1,722 Madison Avenue, who had charge of the patient for one day before Dr. Phillips was called, had suspected ptomaine poisoning, he testified yesterday.

Assistant District Attorney Nott then brought out that last June Lustig arranged for three insurance policies on his wife's life, in his favor, amounting to $3,000. One of these for $500 was taken out with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and the agent testified yesterday that, in the routine questions, both Mr. and Mrs. Lustig had given him to understand that the husband carried a $2,000 policy in the wife's favor with the New York Life Insurance Company.

Suut. Willcox of that company was called to deny that Lustig ever held such a policy. The trial will continue to-day, the prosecution hoping to rest by Thursday night.

TRAIN ENDANGERED BY FALLING DERRICK

Gets by Just as a 75-Foot Hoisting Mast Crashes Onto Sixth Avenue Elevated.

WORKMAN GIVES THE ALARM

Cries Out for the Motorman to Turn on Speed—Tracks Badly Damaged.

Just as a southbound Sixth Avenue elevated train was rounding the curve at Third Street about noontime yesterday a large derrick fell squarely across the track to the rear of the train. The elevated structure was badly damaged, and a score of workmen employed about the building in whose erection the derrick was used had a narrow escape from serious injury.

The Sixth Avenue Realty Company is erecting a twelve-story loft building where Sixth Avenue and Cornelia Street make a "flatiron," at the intersection of Fourth Street. At present the steel framework reaches three stories in height. On top of this, directly level with the elevated tracks, is a huge derrick that has been used to set the steel beams in place. The mast is 75 feet long and the boom about 50, and the big square wooden beams of which it is composed are thicker than the pillars under the elevated structure. The derrick was supported only by steel rope guys, and it is believed the collapse was due to the fact that these were anchored to the structure at a distance of only about twenty-five feet from the base of the mast, instead of being at a greater distance, where they would have furnished a stronger brace.

Shortly before 12 o'clock a truck on which there were four stone slabs, which totaled to a weight of more than three tons, was drawn up next to the building by the driver, William Fisher of 411 East Eighty-eighth Street. A chain was passed around the stone, and the signal to lift was given to Harry R. Boss of 502 West 133d Street, who was in charge of the derrick. As the donkey engine started the elevated train passed. The steel cable tightened with the strain of its load, and as the weight came on the derrick the guy ropes grew tense. Suddenly there was a crack like a pistol shot as the supports snapped, and the derrick toppled over.

The workmen saw their danger and rushed out of its path. Fisher lashed his horses with the whip, and they sprang forward to safety under the elevated structure. The boom fell to the street, partly held up by the cable, but the mast landed fully on the tracks, projecting half way across. It smashed in the guard rail, ripped up the planking alongside the tracks, and reduced five of the heavy ties to kindling wood. When the steel rail was encountered the end of the beam snapped off, and a section fully ten feet long came hurtling down into the street, where twenty men had been, and smashing some planking that was there for building purposes.

So narrow was the escape of the train that one of the workmen said he instinctively called to the motorman to hurry. Judging from the amount of the damage done, it was agreed on all sides that nothing could have saved the train, negotiating a curve as it was, from toppling over into the street if it had been struck.

A wrecking crew was sent up immediately, and made short work of putting new ties in. The rest of the work of patching up was done as the trains went by, and the line was delayed very little. A small derrick was used to haul the wrecked boom and mast out of the street. It was found that two of the steel beams on the edge of the framework of the building had been unriveted by the fall of the derrick, but they did not fall to the street. The police of the Charles Street Station made no arrests.

AUTOGRAPHS OF PRESIDENTS.

Only Five Missing from Collection Sold for $99.75—Taft's First.

A set of autographs of twenty-one Presidents, from Washington to Taft, sold for $99.75 at Merwin-Clayton's yesterday. Only five of the twenty-one were represented by holograph letters. The Taft and Roosevelt specimens were typewritten notes signed. The Taft autograph was interesting as being the first appearance of his signature in the auction mart since he became President. The names missing from the set were John Adams, W. H. Harrison, Polk, Lincoln, and Garfield.

A copy of the rare first issue of the first Edinburgh edition of Robert Burns's poems, in binding by Stikeman, brought $52; a manuscript of forty-eight pages, written in 1896 by Gen. Lew Wallace, author of "Ben-Hur," to Gen. James G. Wilson, and consisting of a defense of his so-called blunder in the first day of the famous battle at Shiloh, $63; William Combe's "Tour of Dr. Syntax in Search of the Picturesque, of Consolation, and of a Wife," with numerous full-page colored aquatint plates by Rowlandson, three volumes, 8vo, all first editions, $90, and Thomas F. Dibdin's "Bibliographical, Antiquarian, and Picturesque Tour in France and Germany," three volumes, first edition, a good copy of this work, in the production of which the author expended £7,740, $60.

Among the other items of interest were: An original water color drawing, "The Critical Moment," signed by Henry Alken, $26; "An Impartial History of the War in America," 8vo, London, 1780, illustrated with copper plates of Washington, Hancock, Samuel Adams, Benedict Arnold, &c., $46; Queen Elizabeth's copy of Anthony Fitzherbert's "Office and Authority of Justices of the Peace," four leaves missing, $5.25; first edition of Byron's "Hours of Idleness," $12; "The Columbian Muse," 12mo, New York, 1801, containing John Howard Payne's autograph, $10, and a letter of Col. Davy Crockett to his publishers, Carey & Hart, Mouth of Sandy, Henry County, Tenn., 26th June, 1835, about his autobiography, $14. The sale will be continued to-day.

THINKS CITY TOO ATTRACTIVE.

Commissioner Murphy Says He Wishes So Many People Didn't Like It.

Tenement House Commissioner Murphy said last night that he thought New York City was pretty enough, too pretty, in fact, for its own welfare, and that if something could be done to make it a little less attractive, perhaps the congested conditions in which many residents are obliged to live now might be relieved. Commissioner Murphy was speaking of "The City and the Home," at the annual dinner of the Church Association to Advance the Interests of Labor, in Codington's restaurant on Sixth Avenue.

"We cannot have the kind of citizens we want until we break up the congestion," he said. "About the only solution of the problem is the construction of sufficient transportation facilities to carry people away from New York City proper and into the suburbs."

PLAN FOR A CLEANER CITY.

Civic Bodies Appoint a Committee to Help the Authorities.

Called together by the City Club, a conference of delegates from some of the civic organizations was held at the City Club yesterday afternoon to take some action looking to cleaner streets this Summer and a permanent improvement in the present provisions for snow, ash, and garbage removal.

Some of those present were Thomas F. McCarthy, Secretary of the New York Team Owners' Union; Mr. Bernheim of the University Settlement, Michael M. Davis, Jr., of the Association of Neighborhood Workers, M. H. Brubaker, People's Institute; W. Frank Persons, Charity Organization Society; Joseph L. Delafield, Washington Square Association; Miss Katherine S. Day and Mrs. Julius Henry Cohen, Women's Municipal League; Dr. J. H. Huddleston, County Medical Society; A. R. Shattuck, Automobile Club; N. B. Killmer, Brooklyn League; Michael Brown, Janitors' Association; Joseph M. Price, Chairman of the City Club's Committee on Streets, and Russell H. Loines, Paul S. Kennaday, and Fred M. Stein, members of that committee, and Robert S. Binkerd and W. H. Howes, respectively Secretary and Assistant Secretary of the City Club.

On motion of Mr. Davis of the Neighborhood Workers, Mr. Price, who was elected Chairman of the conference, was authorized to appoint a committee of five to wait on Street Cleaning Commissioner Edwards, to ask him to select some known area in the city and make a thorough test of the quantity of water needed for hand flushing. It was the opinion of the conference that if the quantity was not found to be excessive hand flushing should be used throughout the coming Summer.

As for making adequate preparation for snow removal, Chairman Price stated that the city was in a chronic state of unpreparedness for snow when it came, and that last Winter all the snowstorms of the season except one had come before a proper contract had been let. Secretary Binkerd of the City Club, to obviate this delay next Winter, offered a resolution which was adopted, urging the city authorities to have the specifications drawn and the bids received for snow removal, if the contract plan is followed again, by Sept. 1. In this way, Mr. Binkerd said, the city would have ample opportunity to get a favorable contract.

In regard to ash and garbage contracts, the conference passed a resolution, appointing a committee to press it, urging that specifications for the contracts be prepared and the bids received at least a year before the expiration of the present contracts in order that the city may receive the benefit from full competition, which, it was said, it was not doing now.

SULLIVAN AND HEARST OFF.

Both Are to Sail for Europe To-day on the Mauretania.

Among the passengers sailing to-day on the Cunard liner Mauretania will be State Senator Timothy D. Sullivan and William Randolph Hearst. Although the leader of the Bowery district requested his friends not to make any fuss over his departure there will be three bands on the pier in his honor.

A stout, clean-shaven man, who told the marine reporters yesterday that he was a politician and his name Murphy, said it had been arranged that when the Mauretania sailed Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Hearst should take up positions on the boat deck and clasp hands while the massed bands played "For it's always fair weather when good fellows get together," and that Forbes-Robertson had consented to stand behind them with his arms outstretched, in his favorite attitude from "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," murmuring "Peace be on this ship."

Among the leaders of the Sullivan contingent at the pier will be Judge Thomas P. Dinnean, Rocco Morasco, Alderman White, Major Krause, Larry Mulligan at the head of a contingent of friends, and Col. Bronson Smith at the head of the Lafayette Guards.

Senator Sullivan especially asked that his friends refrain from sending him flowers.

MAYOR FOR SECRET SERVICE.

Gaynor Discusses Plans to Remodel Our Detective Force.

Mayor Gaynor indicated yesterday that he is more or less in favor of a secret service system for the Police Department, advocated so strongly but unsuccessfully by Gen. Bingham. The matter came up through the letter which the Mayor wrote to Chairman McGuire of the Municipal Civil Service Commission on Monday, in which he suggested that "physical giants" do not make good detectives, and that more hunchbacks and "singed cats" should be obtained on the force for secret work.

The Mayor declared that he meant this in all seriousness and indicated that he may move for the reduction of the present limit of the height of a policeman, 5 feet 8 inches.

Ex-Attorney General Mayer, who was counsel for the last joint legislative committee on the revision of the city charter, and has been retained in the same capacity by the committee which will consider the matter this Summer, called upon the Mayor yesterday and they talked over the matters under discussion, particularly the police provisions.

The Mayor would not say just what course he would follow in making his recommendations, but admitted that material changes in the conduct of the detective division of the Police Department might be expected.

HYDE DEFENSE ENDS WITH STRONG DENIALS

Accused Doctor Swears He Never Poisoned Any Member of the Swope Family.

USED CYANIDE FOR VERMIN

And Had Obtained Typhoid and Diphtheria Germs to Study Bacteriology, He Testifies.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 10.—At the close of a long and arduous cross-examination of Dr. B. C. Hyde by Prosecutor Virgil Conkling, the defense to-day rested in the trial of Dr. Hyde for the alleged murder by poison of Col. Thomas H. Swope. The case, it is thought, will be in the hands of the jury by Saturday.

Dr. Hyde was on the witness stand almost all day. He said that he never poisoned any member of the Swope family, that he never dropped capsules in a street in Independence, Mo., as Thomas H. Swope, Jr., said he saw him do; that he used cyanide mainly for killing bugs in his office, and that he injected camphorated oil and that alone in Margaret Swope's arm. He admitted having obtained more than 200 culture tubes and having had cultures of typhoid and diphtheria germs, but said they were only for his proposed study of bacteriology.

It was generally agreed in the Swope house, said Dr. Hyde, that he should go to New York and meet Lucy Lee Swope. The physician denied he ever put any germs in drinking water he is said to have given the girl. Dr. Hyde said he did not recall having given her a drink.

"Upon your return from New York did you find aynthing missing from your office?" queried Mr. Walsh.

"Yes, there were germs and poisons missing. Among other things gone were some typhoid and diphtheria germs and some cyanide of potassium capsules," answered the witness.

"Had you planned to experiment in bacteriology?"

"Yes, even as early as August, 1908. I arranged space for a laboratory in the building in which my office is located."

Asked about cyanide, Dr. Hyde admitted he bought it of a local druggist.

"What were you going to do with the cyanide?" continued Mr. Walsh.

"I was going to use it to kill vermin."

"Was any of this cyanide ever given to any human being?"

"No, Sir."

"Did you ever give Margaret, Colonel, or Chrisman Swope any poison except for medical purposes?"

Dr. Hyde answered that he never had.

DIVORCED, DRANK POISON.

Former Chorus Girl Taken Dying from Hotel to Flower Hospital.

Florence Heyneman, 30 years old, a former chorus girl, who was divorced three weeks ago from her husband, Otto H. Heyneman, a lawyer, with offices in the Mills Building, San Francisco, was taken from the Hotel Wellington to the Flower Hospital yesterday suffering from carbolic acid poisoning. She was charged with attempted suicide.

Before drinking the contents of a bottle labeled poison, the woman made elaborate preparations for her end, even going to the extent of addressing a communication to the newspapers concerning the manner in which she wished the news of her act to be made public. The letter, which was found among others on her dresser in a room on the eleventh floor of the hotel, asked the reporters to be kind in describing her suicide.

Mrs. Heyneman is not expected to live. Her maiden name was Cheminant, but in her stage career, which ended two years after her marriage six years ago, she used her husband's name. She was a member of the chorus of the "Fascinating Flora" and the "Social Whirl" companies, but at the solicitation of her husband in 1906 she left the stage and went with him to San Francisco to live. Three weeks ago she returned to New York alone and for a time lived at the Hotel Astor. Monday she went to the Wellington, and yesterday morning had her breakfast served in her room. When a bellboy came with the bill at 2:30 o'clock he found the door locked, and a chambermaid failed to effect an entrance with her pass key. The manager, John S. Fitzpatrick, broke into the room through a window, and found Mrs. Heyneman lying unconscious in bed.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—Mrs. Otto H. Heyneman was the divorced wife of Otto H. Heyneman, a younger brother of Alexander Heyneman, one of the most prominent attorneys of San Francisco. Mr. Heyneman testified in court that he had failed to induce his wife to give up drink, and that he could no longer live with her. The divorce was granted April 14 last, Mr. Heyneman's testimony being corroborated by a sister of the wife, who said the husband had done everything possible to reform his wife.

MORE TIME FOR McADOO TUBE.

Company Gets a Year's Extension to Complete Grand Central Line.

The Public Service Commission granted a year's extension to the McAdoo Tunnel Corporation yesterday to complete its line to Thirty-third Street and Sixth Avenue. The original permit would have expired on June 15.

The line is now open as far as Twenty-eighth Street. It was at first planned to have the subway end at Thirty-third Street and the company was to construct a large terminal building there. The property on which it was to be built has since been taken over by Gimbel Brothers of Philadelphia for a huge department store, and the road decided to go on to the Grand Central Station. This change in plan is responsible for the delay. The company has three years in which to complete the Grand Central extension after the necessary consent of property owners are filed with the commission. This has already been done, and the consents are now being checked up by the commission.

POLICE RAID BELOW GANG'S "DEADLINE"

WAR DECLARED ON THE BAND

Police Determined to Obliterate All Lawlessness and Thievery in That Section of the City.

A raiding party led by Police Capt. Corcoran crossed the "dead line" drawn by the car barn gang at Second Avenue and Ninety-seventh Street yesterday afternoon and arrested four of the men who are supposed to have had a hand in the attack on Policeman Lawrence J. Cummins on Monday night, an attack in which the policeman's club was taken from him and he was sent to the hospital in a badly battered condition after the reserves had arrived and many revolver shots had been exchanged.

In one sense the raid was not a success, for the police were unable to prove anything more than disorderly conduct against the prisoners, and they escaped with a fine of $5 each. But it was only the first of a series planned by Capt. Corcoran and his men to break up the gang and wipe out the so-called "dead line." Capt. Corcoran says he will keep on raiding until all the members of the gang are either in jail or compelled to move on.

The guerrilla warfare between the police and the gang began nearly two weeks ago, when the first "dead line" notice was posted on the brick wall of the gas house between Ninety-eighth and Ninety-ninth Streets, on the east side of Second Avenue. The notice was short and to the point.

"No cops allowed to pass below Ninety-eighth Street, by order of the committee," read the notice. The words were printed on the wall in large letters, and beneath was the name of "Mayor Gaynor." The very night that notice appeared two policemen were set upon by the gang, their clubs were taken from them, and both were sent to the Harlem Hospital. One is there yet, and will probably lose the sight of an eye.

The condition which has existed in the neighborhood of the Second Avenue car barn since then has been remarkable, even for New York. Never before in the memory of Capt. Corcoran—and he has been on the force many years and served his time down in the old Sixth Ward during the days when rowdyism was at its height—has a band of men and women openly defied the police as has this gang.

Its haunts are about as squalid and uninviting as can be found in the city. Second Avenue between Ninety-sixth and Ninety-seventh Streets is gloomy even in the day time, for the elevated railway runs along there and the buildings are high enough to shut off much light from the street.

On the east side of the avenue stands the car barn, a brick structure which takes up most of the block. After nightfall members of the gang loiter about in front of the barn, looking for trouble.

The police say that most of its members are petty thieves and thugs, men who make a precarious living by snatching things from delivery wagons and selling them to whoever will buy. They are known as wagon thieves and are supposed to operate in many parts of the city, sneaking up behind wagons while the drivers are off their guard and making off with whatever plunder they can grab.

Sometimes the pawnbrokers take the fruits of these wagon thefts. Sometimes the wives or daughters of the thieves dispose of the plunder by peddling it from door to door on the east side. Most of the members of the gang live in the near-by side streets. Some live on the avenue itself, in closet-like tenement rooms.

The members of the gang stick together like brothers when trouble comes their way. Perhaps their most conspicuous characteristic is an apparent lack of fear of the police. The onslaught on a policeman is a signal for every member of the gang within sound of a revolver shot to hasten to the scene.

Although the gang is not new on the upper east side, its defiance of the police only began to assume a really alarming phase two weeks ago. The police of the East 104th Street Station are inclined to believe that the "no clubbing" order by Mayor Gaynor may have had something to do with the bravado of the gang, for the use of the nightstick has become rare in Manhattan nowadays. In the old days a few raps over the head with a nightstick would stop the trouble, but now it is different.

Since that first "dead line" notice was posted on the gas house wall three policemen's nightsticks have been confiscated by the gang. The sticks were taken from the men on post and used on them. In one instance the policeman on post had his nightstick taken away by women.

Policeman Cummins, a new man on the force, ignored the notice and walked down Second Avenue past Ninety-seventh Street about 8 o'clock Monday night. What happened to him has been told. His nightstick was added to the collection being gathered by the gang.

Yesterday the four prisoners taken by the reserves after the attack on Cummins were held for court under $2,000 bail each. They were Cornelius Lynch, John Murphy, Christina Lynch, a daughter of Cornelius, and Anna Murphy, a sister of John. The prisoners taken in yesterday's raid were Joseph Pettit, Thomas Tracey, Thomas Carey, and John Clarkin.

Just before the raid was made a policeman from the East 104th Street Station appeared and painted out the "dead line" notice from the wall.

Capt. Corcoran has stationed the biggest policemen he has on this post.

Girl in a Daze; Sent to Bellevue.

Unable to give her name or address or to tell anything else about herself, the girl of 14 years, who was found in Riverside Park last night was sent to Bellevue Hospital for observation. William P. Dominick of 159 West Fifty-ninth Street saw the girl sitting in the park, a bundle of books in her lap, and talking loud. Policeman Helms of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station took the girl there and Dr. Lockwood of Flower Hospital transferred her to Bellevue.

OPPOSES EXCISE WARRANTS.

Magistrate Steinert Thinks It Absurd to Issue Them for Lawbreakers.

Magistrate Steinert in the Tombs Court yesterday criticised the policy of the District Attorney's office in swearing out warrants for excise law violators.

"What is the use of these warrants?" he asked of Chief Clerk Freeman of the Excise Bureau of the District Attorney's office when he applied for one. "Men don't run away for violation of excise laws. I could send them summonses through the mail and they would respond."

"But this is for a bartender," broke in the policeman who made the affidavit on which the warrant was being applied for.

"Well you must not execute it at night," said Magistrate Steinert sharply.

"But it's hard to get the same bartenders except at night," the policeman insisted.

"Tell his boss you want him," admonished the Magistrate. "Then if you have any difficulty I'll give you a warrant to execute at night. This whole business of asking for warrants in these cases is absurd, but if that is the policy of the District Attorney's office let it go," said the Magistrate, as he signed the warrant with an air of disgust.

Mr. Shonts was at the pier to see his family off, and had his picture taken with them on the promenade deck. The Duke and Duchess of Manchester were also on the liner, and at the request of Mr. Shonts they stood with the party for photographing.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Ginger from China in Casks Is Held Dutiable as a "Sweetmeat."

A decision was handed down yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers affirming the action of Collector Loeb in assessing a heavy duty on preserved ginger from China known as "stem" or "cargo" ginger. It is imported in casks and consists of the immature roots and stems of the ginger plant, prepared while they are soft and succulent, and can readily absorb the syrup in which they are preserved and packed.

The Collector assessed the product as a "sweetmeat," with duty at the rate of 1 cent per pound and 35 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 263 of the Dingley act. The same rate of duty on sweetmeats applies under the act of 1909. The importers, R. U. Delapenda & Co., set up the contention that the ginger was not a "sweetmeat," but an "unenumerated manufactured article," taxable at the rate of 20 per cent. Judge Waite, who writes the decision for the board upholding Mr. Loeb's classification, considers the various phases of the case in minute detail, but reaches a conclusion adverse to the importers.

The Collector's assessment, the Judge says, was made upon the theory that there is no substantial difference in character between the ginger in casks and that imported in small crocks for use as a sweetmeat, while the importers allege that in the condition imported in casks the ginger is unfit for consumption and should be considered a material from which the candied ginger is manufactured. Judge Waite says he thinks the ginger in casks "edible," and this reasoning appears to decide the issue against the importers.

URGES A CRUSADE ON CONGESTION

NO STEPS TO CHECK IT

City Authorities, He Declares, Treat the Conditions as a Matter of No Importance.

Ex-Commissioner of Charities Robert W. Hebberd talked plainly last night at the opening session of the first New York City Conference on Charities and Correction at the United Charities Building, about the lack of forethought on the part of the city officials in dealing with the poor and afflicted.

Mr. Hebberd, as Chairman of the Conference, told the large gathering of social workers and heads of civic organizations why it was felt necessary to have such a conference at all in addition to the annual State and National conferences, which have become fixed institutions. He said the conditions and the social questions here were peculiar to this community and were not discussed at the other conferences, but were of such an urgent character that a new movement had to be started to bring about their improvement, if possible.

He said that nothwithstanding the great congestion of population in Manhattan a definite plan to prevent its repetition in the other boroughs was wholly lacking. The time had come, he said, when a choice had to be made either in favor of human greed on the part of the unscrupulous land speculator or on the side of the helpless tenant and humanity.

According to Mr. Hebberd there are many children in institutions here who should be put in suitable family homes, and a system of adequate relief to good mothers left dependent should be devised, so that the family could be kept together.

He declared that although the problems of public charity here exceeded those of any other community in the world, since London dealt with hers by thirty or more unions, the fiscal authorities of New York had for years handled the question as a plaything and as of no particular moment or importance.

The result, he said, was that there was an almost continual overcrowding of the institutions every Winter to an extent which was scandalous. He pointed out that the budget makers year by year insisted that the sick poor in Blackwell's Island institutions shall be cared for, in many cases, by irresponsible helpers and attendants, who are paid a much lower wage than the men who rub down the horses in the Street Cleaning Department. This and all the other questions suggested, he said, should be discussed at such a conference.

At the conclusion of Mr. Hebberd's address this Committee on Organization was named, with instructions to report to-morrow, when the conference will meet at Hartsdale, Westchester County: Dr. O. F. Lewis, Thomas W. Hynes, Mrs. Helene Ingram, the Rev. W. I. Nichols, Mrs. R. G. Clarkson, Morris D. Waldman, Secretary of the United Hebrew Charities, and Benjamin C. March, Executive Secretary of the Congestion Committee.

Speaking on the death rate here, Dr. John S. Billings, Jr., of the Health Department, said it was high in proportion to the density of population, and that in the crowded sections here and everywhere else the death rate was higher than the birth rate, showing a condition of decadence. He said that the Jews were a people peculiarly immune from tuberculosis and many other communicable diseases. In a block occupied by Jews the population was 6,992, and the death rate from tuberculosis was 15.16 per 1,000, as compared with 18.33 for the whole city. In the same block the death rate of children from acute respiratory diseases was 5 per 1,000, as compared with 10 per 1,000 for the whole city. This, he said, spoke well for the personal habits of the Jews.

Other speakers were Prof. Frank J. Goodnow of Columbia, Chairman of the Congestion Committee; Dr. Horace Greely of the Health Department, and Cyrus L. Sulzberger.

Sessions of the conference will be held again this afternoon and to-night.

FOR BETTER FIRE PROTECTION

Merchants Urges Chief Croker to See That All Buildings Have Sprinklers.

Frank R. Chambers, Sr., Chairman of the Insurance Committee of the Merchants' Association, had a conference with Fire Commissioner Waldo and Chief Croker yesterday concerning the necessity of putting modern fire appliances in all office buildings, apartment houses, business buildings, theatres, and other amusement places, and all like structures. He favored automatic sprinklers, but said the firemen did not like them because they spoiled their chance to "show off." He also said that the firemen disliked chemical engines because they "spoiled their clothes."

Mr. Chambers suggested that the Commissioner make use of the authority given him in Section 762 of the City Charter and compel the installation of such appliances where needed. He thought even the Bowery lodging houses ought to have sprinkler equipment, and was greatly surprised when Chief Croker told him that water buckets and fire axes were provided and were regularly inspected.

In talking of fire inspection Mr. Chambers said:

"You ought to have some one inspect the buildings to see how the fire regulations are obeyed."

"We do," said Chief Croker.

"If you inspect mine I never hear of it," said Mr. Chambers.

"But we do," said the Chief.

(River St. Lawrence Route)

Triple Turbine Express Steamships

"Royal Edward" and "Royal George"

Triple Screws, Marconi Wireless, Deep Sea Telephones, Passenger Elevators, 6-Passenger Decks, Thermo-Tank System of Ventilation. 12,000 tons.

The voyage begins with a trip of 1,000 miles down the historic St. Lawrence River, the old highway of the voyageurs, among pastoral pictures, varied by rugged and romantic scenery.

Quebec, the "Gibraltar of America," reached at 3 P. M., gives opportunity to the passengers to leisurely survey the terraced and battlemented heights above, crowned with the famous citadel.

The St. Lawrence trip shortens the ocean voyage to four days. The landing at Bristol cuts the railroad journey to London in half. The "Royal" Line offers the shortest sea route, covered by the swiftest steamers, the shortest rail route, covered by the fastest trains, and the utmost limit of luxury throughout the voyage.

The "Royal Edward" will inaugurate the fortnightly service of the Canadian Northern Steamships, Limited—The Royal Line—from Montreal and Quebec to Bristol on Thursday, May 26th.

DOES NEW YORK WANT A WORLD'S FAIR?

It would be well, we think, that New York City should say for itself whether it wants a World's Fair in 1913, and should determine whether such a Fair be held. A considerable number of stirring and amiable gentlemen, it seems, have already taken this project in hand, and for their part have resolved that the tercentenary of the settlement of the city by the Dutch in 1613 shall be celebrated by a great fair. At the banquet held in furtherance of the project on Monday evening Mayor GAYNOR announced that the purpose of the dinner was to "call the attention of the people of New York to the fact that this fair is to be held, and that a committee, a representative one, is to be appointed by the Mayor." Nine-tenths of the people of the city, we presume, got their first information about the fair from this statement by the Mayor, published yesterday morning. The holding of a World's Fair of appropriate magnitude and importance would be a serious business. We suggest a little deliberation in the beginning.

As a means of determining, in the first place, whether the city wants the fair, the Mayor might appoint a committee of such numbers and composition as to be fairly representative of the people of New York. The committee, after its members had taken counsel among themselves, might appoint public hearings where the matter could be discussed pro and con. Organized and representative bodies like the Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Trade and Transportation, the Merchants' Association, and others, would have an opportunity to speak their opinion, and, through the press, the public in general would find a voice. So far as possible the community should resolve itself into a sort of Committee of the Whole to pass upon the matter.

Some procedure of this nature seems to be rather urgently called for because of the fact that, when a project for holding a World's Fair in New York was last under discussion the town did not seem to be enthusiastic about it—quite the contrary. It might now, if it were to speak its real mind through representatives, express a preference that, if a World's Fair is to be held in 1913, it should be held elsewhere.

The arguments in favor of getting up World's Fairs are familiar to everybody. They are in a measure educational, no doubt. They afford an opportunity for an agreeable and profitable holiday to multitudes of the people of the country. They enable the people to get acquainted with each other. A World's Fair in New York would bring to the city thousands of persons who ought to see it, but who, perhaps, never would come here unless some such attraction were offered, strange as that may seem, since the city itself is more interesting than any World's Fair ever was. That the fair would bring money to New York is, of course, evident. It would make an immense traffic for the railroads. It would bring trade to shops and hotels and theatres. It would enable the people of New York to entertain in an agreeable manner their dearly beloved friends from the country.

There are objections, too. Many persons feel that New York is too big to have a World's Fair. It is a common remark that everybody comes here anyway, though that is an exaggeration. But it is certain that several hundred thousand persons not residing here are at all times with us, and there is some reason for the feeling that, in the present state of our facilities for transportation and hospitality, we have all that we can comfortably take care of. Old fogies would be apt to say with blunt candor that a World's Fair would be a nuisance. It would be disturbing, there can be no doubt about that. The city would be overrun with visitors through an entire Summer. Prices would most certainly go up. The interested efforts of hotel keepers, shop keepers, and purveyors of all kinds to gather in the nimble penny from the visitor would materially increase the cost of living to the hard-working resident. Money would have to be subscribed in large sums, and, according to well-nigh universal experience, there would be a deficit. Very likely the fair would be followed during the next year by something like a trade-depression. Experience teaches that lesson, too.

Then the question arises, Where should we put the fair? It could not well be held in Westchester, because of traffic conditions that already sufficiently afflict that large part of our population which makes the north and south journey daily. Staten Island is out of the question, and certainly New York would not want to hold a fair in New Jersey. There remains Long Island. There is room enough on Hempstead Plains, and with the bridges, the existing tunnel, the Pennsylvania tunnels, and the Belmont tunnel, it is probable that means of reaching the Fair grounds superior even to those furnished by Chicago in 1893 would be supplied. There would be some temporary if not permanent real estate advantage in carrying out the project so complacently advanced at the Hotel Astor Monday night.

But the fundamental question, the question that should have some authoritative answer, is, Does New York want a World's Fair in 1913?

A NEEDLESS HOLIDAY.

The Financial and Commercial Chronicle urges the repeal of the State law making Oct. 12 a public holiday. The Chronicle generously believes that the needless holiday was established because last year "sentiment was very enthusiastic regarding the Hudson-Fulton Celebrations." Perhaps; but Mr. TIMOTHY D. SULLIVAN fathered the bill. No doubt the holiday is a nuisance. It comes at a time of year when no public holiday is necessary. Last year it was disregarded by all workers who were not compelled by the enforced closing of the banks and Exchanges to be idle. If the holiday was designed to honor the memory of COLUMBUS it has already failed, because it associates his name with a nuisance.

Remember that the new holiday means a loss of income to numberless wage earners. Nobody who works for his living was asking for any more "days off" in October. The Chronicle points out that New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Illinois established Columbus day after New York, and that the demands of a few persons in Washington for a National holiday Oct. 12 are also due to this State's example. The Chronicle's argument is just and serious. There should be no law enforcing idleness Oct. 12. The holiday is not popular and never will be. But Gov. HUGHES signed the bill creating it, and we have little hope that the Legislature can be induced to retrace its false step at this session. The remaining time is short. However, we cordially second the motion of The Financial and Commercial Chronicle.

VEILING THE LIGHT.

The bill passed by the House of Representatives providing for publicity of campaign contributions and disbursements will probably be amended in the Senate so as to postpone publication until after elections. The House bill required reports to be made and ready for publication ten days before elections. The change is distinctly for the worse.

It is naively argued that publication before elections might be made the ground for affecting public sentiment and so altering the result of the elections. That is quite possible and extremely desirable. If either party accepts money from interests that are obviously concerned in legislative or executive action likely to be influenced by such contributions, the voters have a right to know it, and to express their judgment as to such gifts at the polls. The light should be turned on at the moment when what it discloses will attract most attention and will best guide public opinion and action. With the provision of the House bill a lot of hugger-mugger could be arranged for the last ten days of a campaign, but at least the revelation of all of it would not be deferred until it was too late to do anything about it.

OPPOSING THE TARIFF BOARD.

President TAFT has offered to drive a wedge that may prove strong and effective into the mischievous system of tariff favoritism embodied in the Aldrich-Payne law. The Democrats of the House seem to have decided to oppose him because the wedge is not forged and wielded by Congress. The decision is inept.

Mr. TAFT wants a Tariff Board, with sufficient powers and funds, to inquire into the cost of manufacture in this country and abroad with a view to reduce tariff duties to the level of difference in such cost. Such a board made up of competent men would within a year make substantial improvements in the tariff inevitable. There is not a single schedule of highly protected goods in the tariff that would withstand a decently honest and practical investigation along these simple lines. The mere existence of such a board, armed with adequate authority, would place the whole complex tariff system on its defense. It would provide a definite mode of ascertaining the wrongs and inequalities of the tariff and of securing reform of them which would be all the more effective because it could be applied where needed without the turmoil and disturbance of a general revision.

The Democrats could hardly deny these facts. They profess to seek the obvious benefits that would thus be attained, but, through Mr. CLARK and Judge UNDERWOOD, they threaten to oppose the measure because the information thus gathered should be for the benefit of Congress and not "filter through the Executive." But surely it is better that the information should be got through and for the Executive than that it should not be got at all, and when it is got Congress can order every item of it to be laid before them if they choose. It is true that the work of the board would be done under the immediate direction of the President and not under that of Congress, and he might, if he were foolish enough, direct it in a manner to defeat its real usefulness. This he is not likely to do, not nearly as likely as a partisan Republican majority in Congress would be. The opposition of the Democrats in this matter will, of course, be futile, but it is a pity that they have not the sagacity heartily to support it. Nothing has been proposed in a dozen years that promised so much for the rational and conservative reform of the tariff to which they are supposed to be committed.

WHAT IS THE ISSUE?

Gov. HUGHES in his earnest address at Binghamton on Monday closed an impassioned appeal for the Hinman-Green Direct Primary bill with this declaration:

> The question is before the people of the State of New York. You cannot destroy the issue by shutting your eyes to it. It is for us to seek to give this widespread sentiment intelligent direction and thus secure an adequate and workable plan.

It is perfectly true that we cannot, and he cannot, destroy the issue by the shutting of eyes. With all due respect that is what the Governor seems somewhat inclined to try to do, by substituting for the real issue another, that has engaged his personal and official attention. The real issue, as we understand it, is not whether the people shall have better and freer means of expressing their preferences with regard to party nominations, but whether the measure proposed by the Governor accomplishes this end in the most satisfactory fashion. We do not think that it does, and this opinion a very large number of intelligent and independent members of the Republican Party share. We venture to think that these members of the Republican Party have a legitimate complaint against the Governor when he intimates that they oppose his aims because they do not agree with him as to the means to reach them.

At best the Governor's measure does not strike at the root of the evil. The people do not have their way as to nominations because they have such a mass of nominations to pass on that they cannot make up their minds, and cannot practically carry out such decision as they may reach. For this acknowledged evil the remedy is to reduce the number of offices and to concentrate power and responsibility in the offices retained. That is the best way, and in our judgment the only way, to deprive the politicians of their mischievous control and give the people the real power they ought to have.

THE RAILWAY BILL PASSES.

Mr. TAFT says that the Administration Railway bill "contains almost all of the remedial features of the original Administration bill, and that those things which have been omitted are neither substantial nor vital." It might not be polite to ask, if they were not substantial or vital, why they were put into a bill which was revised nine times before it was introduced.

But surely Mr. TAFT cannot complain that the additions to the bill are neither substantial nor vital. Nor can it have escaped his attention that provisions as disturbing as the Sherman anti-trust law were voted into the bill in a listless House by majorities so narrow that the absentees from this city alone could have altered the entire aspect of the measure. How happens it that the country is paying so little attention that Representatives are careless how they vote, and are indifferent whether they are on the record or not, and hardly care whether they are on one side or the other, except for the "whipping" into line?

Perhaps it is because Mr. TAFT once more has fathered a bill for which there is no party authority that so little interest is manifested throughout the country, so alarmingly little considering the possible results of the passage of the bill. It may be an Administration bill, but it is not a party bill. There is a good prospect that the time will come when the party will point to it with feelings like those regarding the Republican tariff bills which have been followed by defeat, or financial bills which have been followed by disaster.

NOT "ABSOLUTELY."

It is an absolutely unprecedented phenomenon that a man holding a position like THEODORE ROOSEVELT should during the visit he paid us be compelled to issue a denial of what the former Premier stated regarding his conversation with him.—Christiania Aftenposten.

Not "absolutely unprecedented," though it may be a new experience for Norwegians. The trouble is as much with Mr. ROOSEVELT's temperamental loquacity as with Mr. GUNNAR KNUDSEN's misapprehension and lack of discretion. Mr. ROOSEVELT always talks much and freely, and he is frequently misinterpreted. Consequently his denial of utterances attributed to him in print is not quite unprecedented—not what we should care to call "absolutely unprecedented."

President TAFT must be delighted to hear that there is a chance of his income tax proposal passing the Senate to-day, because it will be supported by about twice as many Democrats as Republicans. If it were to depend upon Republican votes alone it would fail in the Senate, because there is no Republican platform requirement that they should support a proposal so prejudicial to the interests of New York State and the political interests of every State. It may be good parochial politics to pass it in the Senate, for passage there can do small harm.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Grievance with No Foundation. We confess to a feeling of impatience that verges close upon resentment every time anybody takes it upon himself publicly to scold the New Yorkers who "defame" their own city. As this large town contains people of all the sorts there are, presumably its inhabitants include some who are sufficiently ignorant or malignant to deny its merits and to exaggerate its faults. That the members of this little group, if it exists, have any effect upon its reputation can be believed, however, only with the aid of a credulity preposterously large.

The latest denunciation of New York's "defamers" comes from the Mayor, and must therefore be taken as the expression of a sincere indignation. But we need not, and, indeed, cannot, while admitting the sincerity, also admit that the grievance he exploited is real. He said that some people and some newspapers here "picture this city as the most vicious, the most despicable on earth." We, now, are unable to identify either the people or the newspapers that have done any such thing, nor do we know, as the Mayor further said we did—by "we" he meant all of us—that this city is "the most intelligent, the most moral, and the most decent of any of them." There are a good many towns "on earth." Some of them, for one reason or another, are worse places to live in than New York, but how the Mayor can be sure that intelligence, morality, and decency culminate on Manhattan Island or even in Greater New York we cannot imagine.

As a matter of fact, he isn't sure, and in all probability his contention is incorrect. Patriotism is a fine thing, and reasonable local pride is a fine thing, and birds that foul their own nests are despicable creatures, but everywhere the very first step toward progress and improvement is frank recognition of existing evils, and the most deadening and dangerous of all policies is that of denying their existence, of whispering "Hush!" when anybody mentions them, and of calling him a public enemy who insists on punishment of the guilty and the ending of established wrong.

Gov. Gillett and the Prizefighters. Gov. GILLETT of California evidently has no intention of "pandering to the better element" so far as regards what he calls the "contest" in which Messrs. JEFFRIES and JOHNSON are to engage on the Fourth of July. The law of the State, he says, permits organized athletic clubs to hold boxing matches on condition that the consent of the local authorities has been obtained, that the number of rounds is limited, and that the boxers are examined by a physician before they begin operations. Prizefights are as illegal in California as anywhere else, but this is not to be a prizefight—it is to be a boxing match. The men who are managing it say so, and surely they ought to know. Also, they have complied or will comply with all the other conditions. Hence the Governor can see neither reason nor excuse for interference.

Technically, this position is a strong one; for the Governor's purposes it is probably a tenable one, and, if he sticks to it, as he doubtless will unless the "better element" succeeds in making its power felt in some unexpected way, the efforts many good people are making to prevent a settlement of the question whether Mr. JEFFRIES or Mr. JOHNSON is the better man with his hands seem doomed to failure.

Now, interest in that question is not entirely confined, we have heard, to the criminal classes, and there are said to be some fairly legitimate reasons why it would be well to have it settled—if only, of course, it be settled right. Therefore do we suspect that the Governor knows what he is about and is confident that he will make more friends than enemies by contenting himself with finding good excuses for inaction, instead of seeking those that would warrant him in spoiling sport. Just the same, he is as well aware as are the rest of us that he is talking nonsense when he exploits the "boxing-match" theory of what he and everybody else is confident will be a prizefight in absolutely everything except name. That the law is his accomplice in calling it something different is a circumstance amusing or disgusting according to whether one is a cynic or not.

If he wanted to stop it he certainly, or almost certainly, could do so. He doesn't want to, and therefore the case seems to be closed.

Unreasonable Arrests to Cease. To arrest a motorman every time somebody gets in front of a train or car is, in truth, an absurd proceeding, and it is well that the police have been ordered to use some discretion in the matter. For it is not the motorman's fault if people commit suicide by throwing themselves under his car, and there are accidents of the really unavoidable kind, and when they happen he is unfortunate rather than blameworthy. In such cases it is certainly sufficient that the motorman's name and address be taken, and proper that he be allowed to go on about his business, which is one upon the continuous performance of which the public convenience largely depends.

On the other hand, there are not a few accidents just on the line between the avoidable and the unavoidable, and when they happen it will take a policeman more than normally wise to exercise an invariably wise discrimination. In all such instances he should give public safety the benefit of his doubt and arrest the man who, if anybody, is responsible. Even if undeserved, the hardship is not severe, and the knowledge that clear and unquestionable innocence alone can give immediate immunity from arrest will tend to keep the motormen careful. Obviously unjust and unnecessary arrests do not have that tendency. Instead they only cause resentment, and resentment is not unapt to inspire recklessness.

Alfred Austin's Poem.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Far be it from me to advance anything suggestive of thoughtless interjection on a solemn occasion, but, really, Alfred Austin ought to make way for some one else.

PUGILISM AND RACE QUESTION

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is a serious question whether or not steps ought to be taken to prevent the much-heralded prizefight between a man of the writer's own race, the negro pugilist, Jack Johnson, and the white ex-champion, Jeffries. This ring contest is assuming a magnitude far surpassing any similar previous event in recent times, and far out of proportion to the intrinsic importance of the event from the standpoint of purely professional and scientific pugilism—if there is such a thing. The degree of interest is growing and accumulating intensely from week to week. The names even of an ex-President of the United States and an ex-Premier of the United Kingdom have been unwarrantedly, of course, associated in one way or another with the coming event. Sermons have been preached all over the country on the theme, "Can Jeffries Come Back!" and in a vein that indicates that even the clergymen regard the event as one of great moment, as if Jeffries was the modern Samson going up against the Philistine, the negro, Johnson, called by at least one clergyman, "the black gorilla."

It is clear that the issue is coming rapidly to be regarded as a racial test, and, to use a Biblical analogy again, Jeffries as the Anglo-Saxon David against the African Goliath. Even the children and the women of all the varied American nationalities are taking the matter up, and it is White versus Black. Herein lies the evil and danger in the proposed contest. It is even now increasing a tension already stretched to the snapping point, namely, the race or anti-negro tension, and in this view incalculable harm is likely to result or may be already resulting from the discussion and ill-will engendered thus early.

This thing is calculated to array the sentiment of the entire country against the negro, even before the issue. It is true that Johnson is already the world's heavyweight champion. But he won it in a faroff land, where anti-negro sentiment, though existent, is nothing like as acute as in the United States. Even the coming home of Johnson as the champion had a distinctly bad effect in certain ways. Bu for Johnson to defend the championship successfully here in the United States against a white ex-champion is a still more dangerous thing. While it is true Johnson's defeat would probably be attended immediately by expression of anti-negro feeling, these expressions would be comparatively mild and transient. But if Johnson wins the anti-negro sentiment will quicky and dangerously collect itself ready to strike back at any undue exhibition of rejoicing on the part of negroes. Race prejudice is already sufficiently acute in the United States. This fight ought to be called off. E. L. BLACKSHEAR,

Incomes of Illustrators.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

What is to become of the illustrator? I see advertisements in the magazines, "Learn to be an illustrator," "Be an artist," "Artists receive from $25 to $100 a week," &c.

Now, what is to become of all the students turned out by these schools? This occupation or profession is crowded and boiling over; every month sees two or three or more new names signed to the illustrations that are published in the magazines. What becomes of the illustrators who had a story to "picture" in a magazine last year? Of course, if the illustrator is a personal friend of the publisher or of the art editor, he stands a good chance of being given work right along by his friend in power. I know of one illustrator who is supported by one publication—he does not bother about seeking other work—because his friend is the art editor, or rather the art editor is his friend.

Another thing is the vicious lies published regarding the incomes of the illustrators whose works are in demand, the leading illustrators, one might say—for instance, Harrison Fisher's $70,000 a year, or Flagg and his $35,000 a year. Now, these men might get these incomes, (although I doubt it,) but there are 5,000 or more other individuals who receive little or nothing, considering the talent they possess and the time and money spent upon that talent to perfect it. Ripping Up a Boulevard.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Grand Boulevard and Concourse, (Bronx,) which has taken some years to construct at an outlay of several millions of dollars, besides about $400,000 paid to the three political Condemnation Commissioners, whose final report was made lately, was opened to the public a few months ago without other formality than taking down the last ropes across it.

The last link in its completion was a bridge over 204th Street, which it took over a year to build. And now, after being "finished" at last, and in use some three months, this grand and extravagantly expensive roadway, one of the finest in the country, is being ripped open on the west side to put in a sewer from 200th to 204th Street. Why was this forgotten, and by whom? Who should stand the blame? The taxpayers should be informed who is responsible for this almost criminal incompetence. A TAXPAYER VICTIM.

King Edward's Memorial Service.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I notice that at the memorial service to be held next week in Trinity Church for his late Majesty, the bulk of the tickets are to be given to various societies and clubs, and that the remainder of the seats are to be reserved for British residents who are not members of these societies.

As one of the latter class, I beg to ask what arrangements are being made by which that large body of residents in this city who continue to be loyal subjects to his Britannic Majesty can pay their last respects to their late sovereign and show their continued loyalty to King George. If Trinity Church is to be crowded by such a large body of native and naturalized Americans, I fear that there will be little room left for all those who still patriotically love all that is symbolized by THE UNION JACK.

Undisciplined Children.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In my many years' experience as district nurse I have found no children as ill-behaved as the children of to-day, and the reason for this lies, I believe, in the lax discipline of the public schools. But it is not the fault of the teacher. The pupil "sasses teacher back," and rather than keep the child and herself in after school she must overlook it.

I can see as I go to families in the tenements that the mothers have little or no control over their children. I wanted to see a child whom I suspected of having measles. The youngster scurried downstairs, while the mother wrung her hands, saying: "I can't do nuttings, mine children never behaves me." This is a "downtown" woman, but exactly the same condition may be met with further up in the brownstone districts. MARGARET McALLISTER.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is with great interest I note that the Mayor has ordered a safe and orderly Fourth of July. DIRECTORS' ACTION APPROVED

Dutchess Fire Insurance Co. Stockholders Act in Row with Hotchkiss.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., May 10.—At a special election the stockholders of the Dutchess Fire Insurance Company approved to-day "the actions of the Board of Directors in the differences which have arisen with the Superintendent of Insurance" and assured the Directors that they have "the support and confidence of the stockholders." The Directors have resisted the demand made by Supt. Hotchkiss for the resignation of President Lewis H. Vail.

James E. Sague, State Public Service Commissioner, the only Director not backing President Vail, cast votes representing eighty-four shares against the resolution. Also it was voted that before any reinsurance be had or any step taken for dissolution of the company such matters be voted on by the stockholders.

The stockholders voted that a determined effort be made to continue the company "for the best interests of the policy holders and stockholders."

CHAIR FOR PROF. JENKS.

Made Professor of Ecclesiastical History in the General Seminary.

The Trustees of the General Seminary, in Chelsea Square, at their annual meeting yesterday elected Prof. Arthur W. Jenks of Trinity College, Toronto, Professor of Ecclesiastical History in the seminary. The chair has been vacant for two years—since the resignation of Bishop Kinsman of Delaware, and has been filled for the time being by the Rev. H. P. Scratchley of Newark.

This morning at the seminary commencement thirty-one young men will be graduated. This is a larger class than last year.

"DEPARTMENTAL" SYSTEMS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In India, so travelers say, labor is exceedingly cheap—but don't go to live there thinking you can get a good servant for $6 a year. The "division of labor" is carried out there to a great degree of fineness, indeed, and none of the dozen servants in a house will do the very least thing beyond certain prescribed acts set down and nominated in the bond.

One would suppose a somewhat similar system was in vogue here, under the name "departmental" plan, for our public schools, or at least the upper classes. A teacher of geography, for instance, is as likely as not to be indifferent to the spelling, and a written lesson in geography when the spelling is erratic is a joke. Furthermore, if the geography teacher turns a period into a spelling exercise, the bell for change rings unexpectedly soon. The same may be said of history, rudimentary science, any class you will. There is no clearing house, so to speak, where tangled ends are gathered up, nor any one to do such work. The teacher whose class it is very often does not teach them any subject at all, but just keeps the record of attendance, and Principals are chiefly occupied in making out statistics and attending to "working papers" for boys needing them to help in teaching.

Concealment, like a worm in the bud, is doing incredible mischief in the matter of the departmental system, and there is decidedly little hope that any responsible person will tell the truth about it—it would be all his official life is worth. Perhaps some "irresponsible" person may be permitted to tell the truth about this; one such "irresponsible" was the cause of the athletic disclosures—he was so termed by the President of the P. S. A. L.

New York, May 7, 1910. TEACHER.

Savage Instincts of Woman.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of May 9 I read that Dr. Max Baff of Massachusetts attacks woman from a psychological standpoint, and claims that she still retains savage instincts, while man discarded them. This he attempts to establish by the fact that woman loves adornment and thereby imitates the original habits of the savage.

We would be arguing to eternity if we were to begin to enumerate what each sex inherited from the aborigines. No matter how we attempt to refine our intellect, sensibilities, and the will, logically, psychologically, and philosophically, there are times when all of us feel the savage when sufficient provocation arises.

We are told that she emulates the savage by her love of bird feathers, hanging ornaments to her ears, wearing bracelets, rings, and necklaces, and arranging her hair in fantastic shapes by artificial methods. Is this a survival of the wild part of the savage, or is it rather a survival of the primitive aesthetic part? Did not the savage decorate himself that way more on a holiday in order to win social approbation precisely as it is done to-day? Shall we shut our eyes to a perfectly natural desire to be admired by others, so inherent in human nature and so difficult to disguise or eradicate, no matter at what stage of civilization?

It is hardly fair for man to raise a question when in this particular respect we all live in glass houses. Let women keep the heirloom as both sexes do quite a number of other relics, and cherish it as a survival which does no harm to either sex. Much less will it retard woman's mental evolution.

Pay of Census Takers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As I was one of the ladies who helped to take the census I would like to say, judging from my district, in which there were 1,100 people, if we did our work thoroughly and conscientiously throughout, counting the time expended in trying to appease the wrath of many of the upper middle and the lower upper class, who resented some of the questions as impertinent and refused to answer until we had exhausted our persuasive powers, then I say if we are paid at the rate of 2½ cents per name, we would not be remunerated for more than half of the time spent for hard and actual service. If they did it as I did it, for social science, then they are well paid, but if for money, they will not think Uncle Sam the generous-hearted fellow they hoped to find.

Chance for Use of Schoolrooms.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One of the most important steps tending toward social, civic, and political enlightenment is the plan proposed by Dr. Leipziger to make our public schools available as meeting rooms for such purposes as education, politics, local improvements, legislation, boys' and girls' clubs, neighborhood gatherings, &c., and particularly to have them open on Sundays when the great mass of people have time to think of things other than their immediate personal needs.

Such a movement deserves the support and encouragement of all interested in making Greater New York the best city in the world.

PUPPETS.

Puppets and manikins! Toys that are wound
With a thumbscrew, a cord, or a key!
We dance on the ball that is floating around
In the blue of a vapory sea.

Puppets and manikins wound by the hand
That stays not to wind us again;
Dance we, and finally fall to the strand
On which all our dancing was vain.

Puppets and manikins! Made to obey
The turn of fate's wonderful wheel;
Dancing and whirling about for a day
To drop at the end of our reel.

Puppets and manikins! Slaves to the will
Of something we never can know;
Running our time—then inert, prone, and still—
A toy that no longer can go.

Puppets and manikins floating in space
Adrift on a world-driven ball;
Dancing with awkwardness, lameness, or grace—

READY IN ANOTHER YEAR

Study of Tropical Diseases to be Under the Instruction of Capt. Siler of the United States Army.

Excavation for a building which, when completed, will make the New York Post Graduate Medical School and Hospital, at Second Avenue and Twentieth Street, one of the largest and most thoroughly equipped institutions of the kind in the world, has just begun to the eastward of the present structure. The new building, which will cost about $600,000, will be twelve stories in height, including a tower which will have beds for fifty private patients.

There are several features called for by the building plans which are unique in hospital and medical school construction in this country. One is a pavilion on the top of the tower, where patients requiring open air can be treated. The officials of the institution purpose to treat pneumonia and tuberculosis there as a means of instructing the post graduate students in the modern treatment of the diseases.

Another feature of the new building will be a loggia, or central court, which will open to the street front and to the rear on three floors. Here beds can be kept all day and night, so that patients can have access to fresh air at all times. In fact, fresh air will form an important part in the arrangement of the building. There will be eight roof spaces, with three long balconies to the eastward, where an unbroken view of the East River can be had over the roofs of the low lying buildings along Twentieth Street.

A description of the uses to which the various floors will be put, as planned by the drawings and specifications by McKim, Mead & White, will give a general idea of the new structure. The ground floor will be used for the treatment of and instruction in the diseases of patients, especially those diseases which pertain to the nose and throat. The apothecary's department will also be on this floor.

The first floor will be devoted to medicine and surgery, with two new lecture amphitheatres and administration offices. On the floor above diseases of the ear and eye will be treated exclusively. On the third, fourth, and fifth floors the public wards will be established, and on each of these will be a complete teaching plant. There will be an X-ray room, consultation and teaching room, and modernly equipped laboratory.

Eight operating rooms, 8 by 20 feet in size will be in the new building. There will be no large operating amphitheatre, for the officials of the institution have decided that large amphitheatres are things of the past and that the smaller ones, by enabling the students to get nearer the clinical instructor, can accomplish the best results.

The seventh floor will be constructed with a view to affording the most modern dining service to the house staff, officers, and nurses. It will have an outlook upon the river and will be a cheerful apartment. The main building ceases at the seventh floor. On its top, except for the space to be occupied by the tower, will be a roof garden. The private rooms in the tower, which will be four stories high, will range in price from a very moderate sum to expensive quarters.

The same service which will be maintained in the building proper will extend to the roof and to the tower. Some 180 new beds will be added to the hospital by the new building. Already in the old structure, which the institution has been using at Second Avenue and Twentieth Street since 1894, has accommodations for 200 patients. Seventy-five per cent. of the patients there are treated free of charge.

Scientific research work will also play an important part in the institution after the completion of the new building, the construction of which is expected to take about a year. Two laboratories will be installed especially for research work. The subject of tropical medicine will receive much attention. Capt. Joseph Siler of the United States Army, Medical Corps, who has been sent to Europe by the Government to study tropical diseases, will have charge of the tropical medicine department, having been assigned by the army for that purpose. Capt. Siler will instruct the students of the school in the treatment of those diseases indigenous to the tropics.

After the new building is completed the present quarters of the medical school and hospital will be rearranged. It will be used as a wing of the new structure. During the present year the medical school has given instruction to nearly 700 post graduate students. Next year the number will be increased by 100, the officials of the institution say.

The nurses' home of the New York Post Graduate Medical School and Hospital is also to be rebuilt at a cost of $100,000. The home is on the south side of Twentieth Street, just opposite the school. The nurses' home at present is six stories high. Two more floors will be added, and a new structure the width of the present building will be built alongside it.

The officials of the post graduate school say that during the Winter some twenty medical students who went abroad to take post graduate courses have returned to become enrolled at the New York Post Graduate School.

CATHOLIC CELEBRATION FIXED

Cardinal McCloskey's Anniversary Will Be Honored in September.

The officials of the Archdiocese of New York and other priests named by Archbishop Farley to arrange for the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Cardinal McCloskey and the consecration of St. Patrick's Cathedral have so far completed their task as to be able to announce that the celebration will take place near the end of the coming September. The exact dates await arrangements connected with the Eucharist Congress which is to be held this year in Montreal. Cardinal Vannutelli, who is President of the congress, will attend, it being his first visit to this country.

It is expected, but not yet known definitely, that several other Cardinals, including Cardinal Logue, will be there. The Archbishop of Westminster and the Duke of Norfolk, the Herald King at Arms who has just proclaimed the English King, will represent English Catholics, and Cardinal Gibbons will preach the sermon.

THRILLS YET IN "JIM THE PENMAN"

Old Melodrama Acted in Old-Time Melodramatic Way at the Lyric Theatre.

BY A GOOD ALL-ROUND CAST

JIM THE PENMAN. A Play in Four Acts. By Sir Charles L. Young, Bart. Lyric Theatre.

James Ralston	Wilton Lackaye
Louis Percival	Arthur Forest
Baron Hartfeld	Theodore Roberts
Captain Redwood	John Mason
Lord Drelincourt	Thurlow Bergen
George Ralston	Ernest Glendenning
Mr. Chapstone, Q. C.	James Kearney
Mr. Netherby, M. P.	Frederick Paulding
Dr. Pettywise	Louis F. Massen
Butler	J. H. Davies
Mrs. Ralston	Florence Roberts
Agnes Ralston	Marguerite Clark
Lady Duscombe	Jeffreys Lewis
Mrs. Chapstone	Grace Reals

There was no end of enthusiasm at the Lyric Theatre last night where Sir Charles Young's very old-fashioned melodrama of "Jim the Penman" was revived by a so-called "all-star" cast, in which several of the actors really are popular stars. That subsequent performances will arouse as much enthusiasm may well be doubted, as the audience was obviously of the most friendly sort, and there was plenty of that kind of first aid to curtain calls which skillful managers know how to use. But the piece for all that has popular values which will doubtless insure prosperity for a brief run. And the present cast, whatever shortcomings may be noticeable in spots, is, on the whole, competent enough for the work in hand.

No actors under the sun could make "Jim, the Penman," with its rhetoric and its bombast, seem like life, and these actors fortunately do not try to do so. For the most part they are content to act up to their parts, and avail themselves of all the license which melodrama affords.

As in previous performances of the play, much is made of the scenes of the letters, in the first of which Agnes Ralston and Louis Percival discover that a trick has been played, resulting in their separation, and in the second of which Agnes suddenly discovers the guilty person to be her husband, Jim the Penman. Again, there is, of course, the familiar and somewhat overdrawn humor of the impossible Captain Redwood's detective method—or absence of it—and the resultant sympathy for Jim the Penman, who most certainly does not deserve it, and who, as scoundrels go in this wicked world, would appear to be a pretty fair sample of the genuine article.

Sir Charles Young did not write many plays, and the one under consideration was the first to bring him any fame. And last night, to this one writer at least, the idea somehow seemed to intrude, that with so good a plot basis a very much better play than "Jim the Penman" might have been developed. However, as said before, it has always had popular values, and has them still. And that is generally enough to satisfy managers, the actors, and most audiences, as well.

There is a tradition that in Mr. Frederick Robinson's original performance of Ralston some doubt existed for a long time as to his identity with that of the forger of the story. However that may be, it is certain that Mr. Wilton Lackaye's general appearance and manner are not such as to leave occasion for much guessing, though his performance has abundant nervous energy and variety, and all the necessary vigor to be theatrically effective.

So, too, in Mr. John Mason's skillful hands Capt. Redwood becomes a highly interesting figure, and the ready-made, just-in-the-nick-of-time curtain speeches are delivered with exactly the snap and authority to give them their full value.

Mr. Theodore Roberts plays Baron Hartfeld like a sinister villain, though a most amusing one, while Miss Florence Roberts, generally more easy and natural than the play and the rôle themselves, brings a fine suggestion of unstrung nerves and righteous indignation to the scene of discovery and denunciation. Although personally not too well suited to the juvenile Lord Dellincourt, Mr. Thurlowe Bergen plays the part excellently. Marguerite Clark, Ernest Glendinning, and Arthur Forrest are individually satisfying enough, as are the players of the other lesser rôles.

At the end of the third act Mr. William A. Brady made a brief speech and everybody seemed happy and contented.

GUARD WITH METROPOLITAN.

Press Agent Receives Appointment—In Paris with Gatti-Casazza.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 10.—William Guard, who for several years has been Oscar Hammerstein's chief press agent, has been appointed to the same position in connection with the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Mr. Guard comes from Naples to Paris to meet Gatti-Casazza, who, with Henry Russell, is making important arrangements in Europe for the coming operatic season in America.

OPERATIC ARTISTS SAIL.

Caruso Does Not Think Opera Alliance Will Affect Singers' Salaries.

The list of operatic artists who sailed on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. yesterday for Europe was a large one, and included Enrico Caruso, Mmes. Emmy Destinn, Geraldine Farrar, Olive Fremstad, Gadski, Aldrich, and Louise Homer, who was accompanied by her husband and children. Ricardo Martin and his wife were also passengers on the liner.

Caruso, who boarded the ship on Monday night, was asked if he thought that the closing of the Manhattan Opera House would affect the salaries of the singers in the future, and he replied that he did not think so. "I have a contract for five years," added the tenor, "and there is always the Argentine to go to if I cannot get my terms here."

Adeline Genee, the dancer, was another passenger. She said that she was going to marry Frank Isitt in June in Paris, and would return here in the Fall for the Winter season, after which she intended to retire. Mr. Isitt is the lawyer for the Duke of Newcastle's estates in England.

CHICAGO GRAND OPERA PLANS.

Company to Give Season in Philadelphia and Ten Performances Here.

Harold F. McCormick, President of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, stated in an interview before his departure for Europe yesterday, that the Chicago Grand Opera Company has secured from Mr. Hammerstein his costumes, scenery, and rights to certain operas, and that the Chicago Grand Opera Company will give a ten weeks' season of opera at the new opera house in Philadelphia after the Chicago season is finished.

Mr. McCormick said that during the ten weeks' season in Philadelphia the Chicago Grand Opera Company will give ten performances of Italian and French opera at Baltimore or Washington and ten performances of opera of the Frencl repertoire, formerly only to be heard at the Manhattan Opera House, on Tuesday evenings at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York.

ZENATELLO, TENOR, SUES.

Gets Attachment Against Hammerstein—Stotesbury Named as Garnishee.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 10.—Giovanni Zenatello, the tenor, whose dispute with Oscar Hammerstein resulted in his singing only a limited number of engagements during the past opera season, has obtained a foreign attachment against the impresario in the Common Pleas Court in a suit for breach of contract.

Bail was fixed at $68,170. This represents double the amount of Zenatello's claim, and while no papers were filed by H. Gordon McCouch, as counsel, revealing the nature of the suit, the action it is understood is to recover on Zenatello's contract.

Edward T. Stotesbury, the banker, who recently acquired the Philadelphia Opera House from Hammerstein, was summoned as garnishee in the action.

EDITOR QUIETLY MARRIED.

Mrs. L. P. Fuller of San Francisco Bride of George Barr Baker.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., May 10.—George Barr Baker, associate editor of Everybody's Magazine, was married to Mrs. L. P. Fuller, a wealthy San Francisco society woman, to-day at the Tyler cottage, an Italian villa, at Belle Haven, which has been leased for the season by Mr. Baker.

The marriage was an unusually quiet one, only two or three immediate relatives being present. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. B. Alley, a retired clergyman of Greenwich. There were no bridesmaids.

The preparations for the wedding had been carried on very quietly, and as Mr. Baker and his bride were newcomers in Greenwich, very few of their nearest neighbors in the Summer colony knew ot the occurrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker are to remain in Greenwich, and instead of the usual bridal tour will take short automobile drives to places in this vicinity. The villa where they will live this Summer was the home last season of another bridal couple—Russell A. Colt and his wife, formerly Ethel Barrymore.

The best man is to be Edwin Hoyt Updike and the ushers will be Eugene Pitou, Jr., Roland Pearce Jackson, George S. Parsons, and Clinton Fiske of Jersey City.

The ceremony will be followed by a wedding supper for the bridal party and immediate relatives at the home of the bride.

DRAMA FOR WALDORF ROOF.

Boys and Girls of Greenwich Settlement to Give Benefit Performance.

The entire roof of the Waldorf-Astoria will be utilized on the afternoon of May 19 for an entertainment, the principle feature of which will be a dramatic performance portraying life among the Indians and a pantomime and dance, given by the girls and boys of the Greenwich House Settlement of 26 Jones Street.

The entertainment will be held for the purpose of raising funds with a view of organizing the children of old Greenwich Village so that fuller opportunity may be given to their spirit of play.

The members of the boys' clubs of the settlement will take part in the Indian drama, and the girls' guild will give "The Triumph of Summer," a pantomime enlivened with dancing.

It is the purpose of the Board of Directors of the settlement, among whom are Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Mrs. A. Gordon Norrie, Congressman William S. Bennet, Elgin R. L. Gould, and Prof. Edwin R. A. Seligman, to use the proceeds for the expense incidental to the work of a playground director.

As there is no public gymnasium open in Greenwich Village, and only one small playground, the director appointed will organize the younger boys of the district and direct their play on the streets and avenues, and in the handball and basketball courts, as well as arrange for groups to go on excursions to the ball grounds and public parks.

Tickets for the roof entertainment may be obtained from Mrs. A. Gordon Norrie, 26 Washington Square; Miss Catharine Lord, 26 Jones Street, and at the Waldorf-Astoria.

COMPOSER OF "POIA" MILD TO GERMANS

Arthur Nevin, Home from Berlin, Takes Criticisms of His Work Philosophically.

WORK OF STUDENTS, HE SAYS

They Led Disturbers by Blowing in Door Keys to Drown Applause—May Produce It Here.

Arthur Nevin, the composer of the opera "Poia," which was recently produced in Berlin and was severely criticised by the German newspapers, arrived yesterday on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse. In speaking of his experience abroad, Mr. Nevin said:

"After waiting for three years I had my opera produced at the Opera House in Berlin and it was a very exciting time for me. For four days I was subjected to personal abuse, not criticism. At the opening performance I was called on the stage with Mr. Hartley, the librettist of the opera, and the applause was genuine in all parts of the house, but it was mingled with organized hissing and whistling in the gallery. The students, not content with whistling with their mouths, had enormous doorkeys, which they blew into with great gusto. The papers in Berlin said that the production of 'Poia' had created more excitement than any other opera since 'The Meistersinger.'

"I think that the opposition to my opera was due to two causes; first, on account of a rumor that the Crown Prince was interested in its production, and, secondly, the anti-foreign sentiment which exists very strongly in Germany."

"Do you think that 'Poia' was a success?" he was asked.

"I can hardly answer that question," replied Mr. Nevin, "because the attacks made upon me so unexpectedly upset me so much that I hardly knew where I stood.

"So far as the people were concerned, I was told that 'Poia' was popular, and it was put on for four performances in one week and then the Opera House was closed for the season for repairs.

"The Crown Prince did come to hear the opera on the second performance, and had the Opera House connected by telephone with the palace at Potsdam on Friday, the final performance, so that the Emperor and the Empress could hear it. The critics admitted that the orchestration was good, but they qualified that remark by saying that I did not write it. Two of the principal newspapers in Berlin said that 'Poia' had been taken out of the opera programme for the final week, and had to apoligize in their next edition."

Mr. Nevin added that he would be pleased to produce it in New York if he got an offer. He is at work on a new opera with Mr. Hartley which is to be called "Twilight."

PLAY MANAGERS' ALLIANCE.

Frohman, Belasco, and Others Place Bookings with Klaw & Erlanger.

An informal meeting of prominent theatrical producing managers was held day before yesterday, at which were present, either in person or by representatives, Charles Frohman, David Belasco, Henry W. Savage, Joseph Brooks, Cohan & Harris, Klaw & Erlanger, Florenz Ziegfeld, Augustus Pitou, Charles B. Dillingham, Joseph M. Gaites, Wagenhals & Kemper, Frederic Thompson, Al H. Woods, Joseph Weber, Henry Miller, Daniel Frohman, William Harris, and others.

These producing managers have been booking their attractions through the offices of Klaw & Erlanger, and the meeting was to discuss the recently published announcements regarding a number of "one-night stand" circuits throughout the United States. The following statement was issued from the offices of Klaw & Erlanger last night.

"These managers, who own and control 200 of the leading traveling combinations in this country, to say nothing of their individual ownership of theatres or leases of theatres in big cities, have formed an alliance and placed the booking of their various combinations and interests in the hands of Klaw & Erlanger, with instructions to play only in such territory and in such theatres as will give the producing managers the support to which they are entitled for the vast outlay involved in making their productions, and all time for these various attractions can only be secured through the offices of Klaw & Erlanger.

"During the past week much has been printed in the newspapers about various circuits of one-night stands, and circular letters have been sent out notifying the producing managers where they must apply for time for their attractions.

"This means going back to the old theatrical conditions which existed twenty-five years ago, when producing managers who wanted to book attractions had to wander from place to place to get their dates, requiring sometimes from four to six months to make up a route. The theatrical business has outgrown these pinafore methods, as real capital is engaged in the theatrical profession now.

"The significance of this combination (of producing managers) can best be told by the statement that heretofore all alliances that have been formed in the theatrical business have been made by owners and lessees of theatres; but this combination is of world-wide interest, as it supplies the stars, plays, and productions to the various theatres throughout the country."

The matter referred to in this statement about the one-night stands is in regard to an announcement made last Saturday from the offices of John Cort that nearly all of the one-night-stand circuit managers in the country and several managers of city theatres had decided to make their theatres independent and had formed an organization to book attractions for their houses.

NOTABLES AT BYRNES FUNERAL

Representatives of City Life Honor Former Head of Police Department.

Nearly all the former notables in the Police Department now living were brought together yesterday morning by the funeral of Thomas Byrnes, ex-Superintendent of Police, at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, Broadway and Seventy-first Street.

But while the throng assembled to pay last honors to ex-Supt. Byrnes overflowed the church until the entire street in front was filled with spectators, including the Grand Army of the Republic, the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, and the Fire Zouaves, there was no detail of police in uniform. This was much commented on, the only familiar blue seen about the church being worn by the detachment of men assigned to keep back the crowd eager to honor the ex-policeman.

The service in the church consisted solely of the low requiem mass, said by the Rev. Father Matthew Taylor, pastor of the church, assisted by the Revs. J. A. Lanane of Red Bank, N. J.; N. C. Gleason, and T. Gilmartin, all personal friends of ex-Supt. Byrnes. Mgr. Lavelle of St. Patrick's Cathedral was present, but took no part in the services. There was no sermon or eulogy. Just before the body was brought from the home, at 318 West Seventy-seventh Street, the Rev. Father Taylor offered a brief prayer.

In the immediate group of mourners were the widow, Mrs. Ophelia A. Byrnes; the Misses Mamie and Jennie Byrnes, the ex-Chief's unmarried daughters; the two married daughters, Mrs. George McDonald and Mrs. Charles Hickey, with their husbands, and Mr. and Mrs. Granville Conville.

The honorary pall bearers included E. D. Farrell, Supreme Court Justice Edward T. McCall, T. J. Hickey, ex-State Senator John Fox, President of the National Democratic Club; John Burke, John Halloran, Dr. L. A. Tesser, William G. Rockefeller, James C. Moore, David O'Brien, and ex-Chief Inspector of Police William F. McLaughlin.

In the delegation from the financial district were Messrs. Charles Thorley, J. W. Leopold, George Paulding, Thomas Patten, and E. Bernheimer, while the large representation of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick was headed by William Temple Emmet and Warren Leslie, respectively President and Secretary of the organization. The delegation from the Noah L. Harmsworth Post, G. A. R., and the Ellsworth Fire Zouaves numbered more than a score. Some of the others in the church were Supreme Court Justice John W. Goff, James S. Corrigan, John C. Sheehan, ex-Police Commissioner; Gen. Michael Kerwin, Gen. William H. Kipp, Chief Clerk of the Police Department; ex-Police Chief John McCullagh, Col. Daniel Appleton of the Seventh Regiment, N. G. N. Y.; Supreme Court Justice Vernon M. Davis, ex-Justice Morgan J. O'Brien, George J. Scannell, Eugene Gilroy, John H. O'Brien, ex-State Senator John Fitzgerald, Thomas Shiels, Chief Inspector Schmittberger, ex-Inspectors Brooks and Cortright, ex-Police Captains John Cooney, Patrick Burns, and O'Reilley, Edward F. Croker, Chief of the Fire Department, and two ex-Police Captains long associated with the dead Chief, H. McGirr and Patrick Crowley.

The burial was in Calvary Cemetery, many of those at the church, besides the immediate family, going to the grounds.

FOR THE TABLE.

Something new in the way of individual dishes are for mushrooms, and have attractive mushroom designs upon them. They are round, low dishes, with ears on either side for handles, and cost $1.50 each. They are specially intended for serving mushrooms under glass bells.

To cook the mushrooms in this way they are lightly sauted, a piece of toast is set in each dish, on which the mushrooms are arranged with a little of the sauce extracted by cooking. The glass bell is then put over them, and they are cooked in the oven from ten to fifteen minutes. A little cream may be poured over them just before they are put in the oven, or some people turn it over just before the dish comes to the table. Glass bells to fit the dishes cost 50 cents.

There are many pretty designs in individual baking dishes, those in white and gold, with a little wreath of pink roses along the edge of one dish, are particularly attractive, and cost 65 cents each. The variety in these pretty bakers, which will stand the heat, is as great as the things which may be baked in them.

Individual egg dishes are similar in shape to the baking dishes, only there is an extra piece setting into each one. This has two round holes in which as many eggs may be set in hot water poured into the bottom dish. Served in this way at the table the eggs boiled in the shell are kept warm.

A pretty little individual teapot, which would be excellent for traveling, is of blue pottery bound with metal. The top of the teapot is a small tea cup inverted. The pot costs $1.75.

Squab broilers are $1 each, and Jumbo squabs, 60 cents.

CHARLES F. STONE BURIED.

Prominent Jurists Pallbearers at Funeral of Distinguished Lawyer.

The funeral of Charles Francis Stone, the lawyer, was held at All Saints' Church yesterday morning at 10:30, the Rev. Dr. Slicer officiating. Mr. Stone's father was one of the founders of the church. The pallbearers were Joseph H. Choate, Judge George L. Ingraham, Alexander E. Orr, Judge Francis M. Scott, Julien T. Davies, Joseph S. Auerbach, David H. King, Peter B. Olney, Dr. P. Brynberg Porter, and Edward Cornell.

Mr. Stone, who died in California, was widely known as one of the first legal scholars of the bar of this State and country. He was born in Barclay Street, in this city, in 1834. After graduating at Harvard in 1855 he studied abroad in the universities of Germany and France, and on returning and completing his legal education, he became the associate of Charles O'Connor. Mr. Stone subsequently became a member of the firm of Porter, Lowrey, Soren & Stone. Judge John K. Porter, the senior partner, had been one of the Judges of the Court of Appeals, from which he resigned to join the firm, and was counsel in many of the important trials of his day, representing Mr. Beecher in the Tilton-Beecher trial, the United States Government in the trial of Guiteau for the murder of President Garfield, and Secretary Babcock in the whisky fraud trials. Grosvenor Lowrey, too, was a distinguished advocate. The development of the Edison electric light and of the elevated railroads took place under the professional advice of this firm.

On the death of Judge Porter, Mr. Stone became a member of the firm of Lowrey, Stone & Auerbach, and on the death of Mr. Lowrey, of the present firm of Davies, Stone, Auerbach & Cornell.

Mr. Stone appeared in the courts as an advocate only at long intervals, his work being largely confined to the library and consultation. Mr. Stone was held in high esteem by all who knew him, not only for his profound learning, but quite as much for his noble character and his unselfish life.

Umpires—Messrs. Perrine and O'Loughlin. Time of game—Two hours.

A colossal error by little Owen Bush, the Detroit shortstop, coming when the bases were full in the sixth inning, was the cause of the Yankees gathering a trio of runs in the opening tilt with the American League champions at American League Park yesterday. That error was the only loophole through which Stallings's men could squeeze any counts, for Mullin had the Yanks handsomely tamed and haughtily refused to allow them to get more than one hit in any inning. Bush's tragedy allowed the Hilltop team to come up on even terms with the Tigers, and it wasn't until the tenth inning that the snappy Jennings clan was able to lay the lumber against the ball and win out by a 5 to 3 score.

The Yanks lost the game, so there's no use harping about that. But you can sandpaper your throat and warble about one thing, and that was the glorious way that Jim Vaughn buckled the jingling tinware on Tyrus Cobb, the champion walloper. The kingpin batsman fanned twice, and three times died by the hand of Hal Chase. In the first inning, with Davy Jones and Bush on the bases and no one out, Cobb smilingly faced Vaughn. Everybody settled back on the benches and waited to see him clean up. Many eyes also were glued on Attorney Hugh Jennings on the coaching lines. For you know, if you are wise to all this scientific inside stuff that the magazines are serving up, that Hughey just touches the button and the baseball machine works. Just watch him closely now. He picks up three bits of grass, kicks one of his pedals toward the fence, and pipes his human whistle. Surely, if your microscopic glance is working, you can easily dope out that signal. All of Jennings's gymnastics pointed to one thing, don't you see? Picking up three bits of grass means a three-base hit, the kick toward the fence was the direction the ball was to go, the whistle meant a whistling hit. Comprehend? Why, it's as easy as looking through a window in Spotless Town. There's no getting away from the fact that the wonderful wig-wag tactics of modern baseball are little short of marvelous.

Jennings touched the button, but Cobb failed to punch the pellet. But don't blame that on to the signals. They worked finely.

Davy Jones bunted nicely in the first inning, but in the next three the Tigers collapsed before Vaughn's pegging. The fifth saw the Detroits loosen up a bit. Jimmy Delehanty led with a single to left, and Moriarty died at first. Tom Jones was jarred in the middle of the back trying to duck an unmanageable inshoot. Stanage rode one into Hemphill's hands, and Mullen tore off a double to centre, which scored Delehanty and Jones. Davy Jones singled, and Bush tramped it to first. The bases were all loaded, and again Ty Cobb comes smiling to the plate. Again the Jennings wireless gets busy. Cobb got the barrister's tip this time surely. Jennings did the whirling dervish two-step, which all students of the inside game know to mean a home run. Cobb swung a mighty swing, just like Casey did long, long ago in Mudville. Three men on the bases were off like three race horses, bounding around the path. The ball rolled slowly and not in the least excited to Vaughn, who hurled Cobb out at Chase's corner.

Detroit added another run in the sixth. Crawford doubled to centre, Hemphill wrestling with the ball just long enough for Sam to reach second. Delehanty laid down an unapproachable bunt, which Vaughn picked up and threw low to Chase, Crawford going home while the ball was rolling to the bleachers.

It was in this same inning that the Yankees' hope brightened. With two down, Roach's arm was grazed by the ball and he got a life. Austin singled to centre, and Sweeney sent a scratch hit to Tom Jones, which filled the bases. Following the usual custom on such occasions, Vaughn received several invitations to win his own game. He shot a blistering smash along the floor directly at Bush. The ball almost hit Austin as he hurdled it. It went through Bush as if no one was in the way, rolling far into left field. Three runs came in.

All this time Mullin was pitching fine ball, the Yankees being powerless before his delivery. Detroit was touching up Vaughn, but the speedy work of the Yankee infielders gave excellent support for the big pitcher. Roach at short was new to the crowd, and he conducted himself well. Chase played a good game at first, but he always does that.

The teams ran neck and neck until the first part of the tenth. Cobb opened up by grounding to Chase, who was far from the bag, and a lively race followed. Chase won. Crawford doubled to left, and Delehanty followed with another double, which scored Crawford. Simmons, who succeeded Jones at first, hit to first, and Delehanty scored.

Davy Jones and Delehanty carried off the honors for the day's slugging, each having four hits.

We believe this is the best thing on earth of its sort: Certainly our foreign buyers have never been able to find a silk sock such as this American sock which could possibly be sold at this price.

Black silk; thread silk of high lustre—not spun silk.

Pure silk; with heels, toes and tops of mercerized lisle, which wears better than silk.

Ten thousand pairs in one purchase makes this price a possibility.

50c. a pair; $5.50 a dozen.

You're not too late! 3600 garments of Men's Raguet French Balbriggan Underwear became bargains yesterday.

Leaves enough for a lot of lucky fellows to-day.

Waddell's Pitching Arm Injured.

BOSTON, May 10.—A single and two two-base hits in the seventh inning gave Boston two runs and victory over St. Louis to-day, the final score standing 4 to 3. "Rube" Waddell, playing for the first time in three years in this city, started pitching the game for the visitors, but in the third inning was hit on his left elbow by a pitched ball and was forced to retire. As the injry was to his pitching arm he will probably be unable to play again for several weeks. An examination will be made to determine if any bones are broken. The score:

Waddell Has Fractured Elbow.

BOSTON, Mass., May 10.—An x-ray examination made to-night revealed a fractured elbow joint in the pitching arm of "Rube" Waddell of the St. Louis Association. Waddell was hit by a pitched ball during the game here to-day and had to retire. It is not believed he will be able to play again for two months.

Johnson in Poor Form; Senators Lose.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Johnson was wild and ineffective to-day, and Chicago defeated Washington easily in consequence, 10 to 3. Walker relieved him in the sixth inning, but was only a slight improvement. Zeider's batting and McBride's and Elberfeld's fielding were the features. Score:

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 10.—The Giants had a troublesome time here to-day, and not only was Christy Mathewson, the New Yorks' best pitcher, knocked out of the box, but Ames received a bombardment in the sixth and was driven to the bench. In the fifth inning, when the tide was against the visitors, Capt. Larry Doyle got into a serious argument with Umpire Moran and was put out of the game. The score was 9 to 5.

The Cubs played a ragged game in the field, but their terrific hitting more than made up for the lapses in the defense. Zimmerman, who is playing at short while Tinker is indisposed, was the worst offender and made four errors, but he offset this poor fielding by making four hits.

For the first few innings it was a see-saw battle, first one team taking the lead, then the other. The Giants got a run in the first, Murray scoring on a double steal with Seymour. Another came in the second, after Devlin got a life on Zimmerman's error. He went to third on two outs and stole home, while the ball was being thrown from Luder to Overall. In the second Kling's single sent Beaumont and Zimmerman home. New York got two in the third, but Chicago evened the score in the fifth by getting two more runs. This session saw Mathewson's finish, and in the sixth Ames and Schlei took the places of Mathewson and Meyers. Hits and passes off Ames, together with Devlin's error, gave the Cubs five runs in the sixth, and then Ames was taken out of the box, and Crandall was sent in. This pitcher was effective against the Cubs, and no more runs were made. In all, Chicago got thirteen hits off the trio of Giant pitchers, and the Cubs made seven errors. Overall pitched a good game, and was effective with men on the bases. Fletcher took Doyle's place at second after the New York Captain had been deposed. The game was poorly played, but in spite of this a big crowd witnessed it. The Cubs are highly elated over the victory, for Mathewson isn't knocked out of the box often.

Phillies Make Triple Steal, but Lose.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 10.—Ewing pitched good ball, but was taken out to allow Ward to bat for him in the sixth inning. This move gave Philadelphia four runs, but thereafter the Cincinnatis hit more freely and won, 8 to 6. Grant, Magee, and Bransfield made a triple steal in the first, Grant purloining the home plate. Magee was put out of the game for disputing a decision of Umpire Brennan's. The score:

Brooklyn Wins Errorless Game.

PITTSBURG, May 10.—Brooklyn shut out Pittsburg 1 to 0 in a fine game to-day. Christian Brothers' Athletic Games.

Many Metropolitan A. A. U. champions will compete in the athletic carnival of the Christian Brothers of Ireland at Celtic Park, Long Island City. In the weight events John J. Flanagan, Matt McGrath, and P. J. McDonald will be among the contestants, while many cracks are entered in the track events. The hurling game will bring together Tipperary County and Shandon, while the Gaelic football contests will be between Tipperary and Limerick and Kerry and Clare. The list of events, which are handicap and open to all registered A. A. U. members, is: 100-yard dash, 440 and 880 yards, and one and five mile runs. The special events are 220-yard handicap and 880-yard relay for Catholic Athletic League clubs and throwing 56-pound weight.

No International Athletic Meet.

LONDON, May 10.—The committees of the athletic clubs of Oxford and Cambridge Universities have sent a joint letter to the Harvard and Yale managers saying that it will be impossible to take part in an international track and field meeting this year.

Several reasons are given for this decision. Oxford will meet Dublin late in June, and [illegible] the Rhodes scholars competing in an international [illegible] before the death of the King, which in itself would doubtless have prevented the British university athletes [illegible] proposed meet.

NEW YORK TO PARIS MOTOR BOAT RACE

Longest Power Craft Contest to be Held During Next Spring on the Atlantic.

As an almost direct result of the success which has attended every long distance power craft race—from the time of the short ocean-going cruises of early days down to the big undertaking included in the forthcoming Philadelphia-to-Havana contest—it has been decided to hold a New York-to-Paris race for motor boats during the Spring of 1911.

This will be the longest contest ever held for power craft, and the plans contemplate leaving New York for Havre, thence to Paris, in such time as to permit of their witnessing the start of the transatlantic race for the President Taft Cup to be held by the Atlantic Yacht Club in June.

That the proposed 3,000-mile race is attracting a good deal of attention and has been for some time, albeit it has been kept rather in the dark, it may be said that one of the leading designers of this city—who would not give permission for the use of his name—has now on his boards the plans for an 80-foot cruiser especially for the New York-to-Paris race.

This craft will be propelled by a four-cylinder 100 horse power engine; it will have a gasoline capacity of 3,000 to 4,000 gallons; will be of the single-screw type, and will require a crew of from ten to twelve men. It is expected that work on her hull will commence within the next two months.

The motor will be built especially for the purpose by a leading manufacturer and will contain several new features, with an eye solely to the heavy stresses which the engine will have to withstand on the long journey. It will have a double ignition system from high tension magneto and storage batteries, will be of the regular four-cycle type, with cylinders cast separately and valves located in the head.

Columbia Defeats Brown, 2 to 1.

In the best-played game of baseball that has been witnessed on South Field this year, Columbia defeated Brown yesterday by the score of 2 runs to 1. From start to finish it was a pitchers' battle, with good field support by both teams. In the beginning of the ninth, when Brown tied the score at 1 to 1, Lee went up in the air, letting two men walk. It looked then as though the game was lost, but a pop fly, after Mansur had first scored the tieing run on a wild pitch, put the third man out. But Lee redeemed himself in the last half by scoring the winning run on an error and a hit. The score:

BRITISH BOATS COMING.

Three Challenging Power Craft Expected to Contest for the Cup.

A letter was received yesterday by Morris M. Whitaker, a member of the Regatta Committee of the Motor Boat Club of America, from S. E. Saunders, the well-known English naval architect, that he had designed a thirty-nine-foot-eleven-inch craft as one of the challengers for the British International Cup, to be raced for at Larchmont on Aug. 20.

This challenger, which is intended for the Duke of Westminster, will be equipped with Wolseley-Siddeley engines, the Duke being a large stockholder in the firm which manufactures that motor.

The fact that Saunders is fast preparing this craft for launching indicates that there will be at least two craft to be sent over by the British Motor Boat Club. The other will be Maple Leaf I., a semi-hydroplane. There is reason to believe that the third member of the team—and it is almost sure that the Englishmen will send over the full number allowed—will be a pure hydroplane.

Cheaper Than a Trolley

HERE'S another case of MAXWELL economy—five people can take a trip of 40 miles in our big 30 H. P. touring car at a total cost of $1.60, including gasolene, oil, tire wear, etc. The same trip for five people by trolley 20 miles out of New York and back costs $2.00. This is a striking example of the great economy of MAXWELL cars.

Maxwell
The Economy Car

Any of our salesmen can give you all the figures. Ask him why "This big car can be run 5,000 miles a year at an average total cost of $3.98 a week." He has the figures; ask for them.

Eight years of constant effort and an ambition to build the best moderate priced car make the MAXWELL the safest as well as most economical automobile investment.

HILDRETH'S HORSES ONE, TWO IN STAKES

Finish, with One of Pair Pulling Up, Undeclared, in Aqueduct Racing.

So many strange things have happened in the brief period that the new racing season has been in progress that an almost inconceivable bungle by an old and experienced turfman went almost unnoticed except by the stewards and a very few old racegoers yesterday. S. C. Hildreth started two horses, King James and Fayette. The horses, coupled as the Hildreth, looked so overpoweringly the best that the race looked like a walkover. It is not compulsory but it is usual as safe tactics to declare to win with the better horse, to obviate mishaps or mistakes. Hildreth made no declaration and the horses ran with Eddie Dugan on King James and C. Shilling on Fayette, coupled, and with such a sure thing of winning the stakes that there was no thought of mistake or complication, except to a very few who remarked on the omission. There did not seem to be even a reasonable chance for contention when King James ran on to the front, and galloped on swinging in front, seemingly off on a runaway race, but Dugan took up King James and let Fayette gallop in winner in easy style by a neck, King James, pulled up to a gallop, barely getting into second place a neck before Far West, which was at 4 to 1 for the place.

J. B. Haggin scored his first victory on the turf this season when the Watercress colt Shackleton romped out in front all the way and won by three lengths in a field of a dozen horses.

Bad News, about the oldest race horse in winning form on the American turf, trailed his field for six furlongs in the selling mile and then brushed through to the front and won, going away as favorite in his race.

Philip Chinn achieved a modest coup in the third race with the colt Judge Monck, which led through the last half of the selling sprint for two-year-olds and won easily by three lengths. Mary E. Davis, as a strong favorite, had all she could do to get home a neck in front of Right Easy in the second race. W. T. Overton cleverly took the opening purse. The summaries:

Coulon Boxes with Phil McGovern.

One of the biggest drawing cards in the boxing clubs this week will be the boxing exhibition between Johnny Coulon and Phil McGovern. They will box to-morrow night at the Madison Athletic Club, 137th Street and Second Avenue. Coulon is the self-styled bantam-[illegible] of the world, but in McGovern [illegible] a hard boy to beat.

AUTOS START JERSEY RUN.

Thirty-one Contesting Cars in Run to Atlantic City and Return.

With favorable weather conditions the two-day "Around New Jersey" automobile reliability contest, New York to Atlantic City and return, started shortly before 8 o'clock yesterday morning. There were thirty-one contesting and seven non-contesting cars in line. A collision near Elizabeth unfortunately put one entrant out of commission and resulted in the injury of several persons.

With banners and pennants flying, the cars left Fifty-seventh Street and Broadway and proceeded by way of the Twenty-third Street ferry to Jersey City, where they were checked out at Washington Square by Chief Checker M. H. Newton by 9 o'clock. The Hudson County Boulevard and the Newark Turnpike were followed on the run to Newark. The route from this point was through Elizabeth, Lakewood, and Pleasantville to Atlantic City, which place was reached last night. The return journey will start this morning, and the cars are expected to arrive in this city about 5 o'clock this evening.

R. S. Ireland, in a Lozier car, acted as pacemaker, while six other cars carried the officials. A free-lance car from the West Side Y. M. C. A. auto school, driven by H. C. Brokaw, Principal of the school, joined the tourists at Jersey City. The Glide car, entered in Class 5A, to be driven by W. H. Foltz, was disqualified by the President of the Motor Contest Association owing to the incapacity of the driver. The contesting cars follow:

Pierce-Racine, Lewis Strang; Stoddard-Dayton, R. Newton; Cole, F. Warmington; Auburn, Herbert F. Earl; National, W. C. Poertner; Franklin, Paul Harvey; Zust, Joseph Kingsland; Chalmers, Joseph Bell; Mercer, H. S. Clark; Midland, Leo Anderson; Mora, Charles Hinman; Regal, W. H. Bowers; Franklin, Charles F. FAST DRIVING AT BRIGHTON.

Auto Pilots Make Good Time at Practice on Motordrome.

J. Anderson predicts a new list of records in the twenty-four-hour automobile contest, which starts at the Brighton Beach Motordrome at 8 o'clock on Friday night. Anderson yesterday made his first real speed trials in the Marion car on the mile course, scoring 29 miles in a half hour. Anderson finished up with a mile in 56 3-5 seconds. He maintained that he could have held that speed for hour after hour and declared that the course is the fastest of its distance in this country.

Fast time also was made by Charles Watson, a Scotch driver, who may take the place of George Robertson as team mate with "Al" Poole. Watson drove the Simplex 56 miles in an hour and made a most favorable impression upon the automobilists. Another good performance was that of Louis Chevrolet in one of the Buick entries, who drove 10 miles in a fraction of a second over 10 minutes and scored 20 miles in 21 minutes. Robert Burman in the second Buick worked out about 50 miles in less than an hour in order to accustom himself to the track.

Ray Howard and Cyrus Patschke were out in Stearns cars, but did not repeat the fast work they had done the day before. George Mack in the Selden, Montague Roberts in the Houpt-Rockwell, and E. H. Parker in a Fiat also showed well in practice, but did not attempt high speed.

TO PREVENT AUTO THEFTS.

Act Introduced to Prevent Unauthorized Use of Automobiles.

Assemblyman Harold Spielberg has introduced an act in the Legislature at Albany to amend the penal law relating to the unauthorized use of automobiles. Carl H. Page is responsible for the introduction of the bill, which is due to the inadequacy of the present law. Several weeks ago a car was stolen from the front of the Chalmers store, but the men were discharged by the Judge, who said the action was based on the fact that the automobile was not stolen from the building but from outside the garage. The bill, which has been referred to the Committee on Rules, follows:

Unauthorized Use of Vehicles. Any chauffeur or other person who without the consent of the owner shall take, or cause to be taken from a garage, stable, or other building or place, including a public or private lot, yard, or driveway, or a public highway, street, alley, park, or other public place, an automobile or other motor vehicle, and operate or drive or cause the same to be operated or driven for his own profit, use, or purpose, steals the same and is guilty of larceny, and shall be punished accordingly.

WOMEN IN LAWN TENNIS.

Four Reach Semi-Final Round in West Side Tournament.

Miss Louise E. Hammond, Miss Adelaide Browning, Miss Elizabeth H. Moore, and Mrs. S. F. Weaver won their places in the semi-final round of the championship singles yesterday on the clay courts of the West Side Tennis Club, 238th Street and Review Place. In coming through the field of aspirants two remarkable reversals were recorded. Miss Moore, former holder of National and sectional championships, defeated the Englishwoman, Mrs. Frederick Schmitz, recent winner of the indoor honors, 5—7, 6—3, and 9—7. Then Miss Adelaide Browning, a new but vigorous young player, distinguished herself by defeating Miss Edna Wildey, a former metropolitan and New Jersey winner, 6—4, 6—2.

Women's Championship Singles.—First Round—Miss Louise E. Hammond defeated Miss Amy Thurston, 6—2, 6—2; Mrs. S. F. Weaver defeated Miss Elizabeth C. Bunce, 6—4, 7—5; Miss Adelaide Browning defeated Miss Miriam Blagden, 6—1, 6—3; Miss Elinor Betton defeated Miss Maq Ballin, 6—2, 6—4; Miss Edna Wildey defeated Miss Clara Kuttroff, 6—4, 6—1.

Horace Mann Wins at Tennis.

The lawn tennis players of Horace Mann School acquitted themselves very creditably in their dual match with the Morris High School boys, the public schools' athletic champions, on the Morris courts yesterday afternoon. The victors won all the games, two in the singles and one in the doubles. The feature of the contest was the playing of Troutwine and Sixman of Horace Mann in the doubles. In the third set, with the score 5 to 2 against them, they pulled off a victory by 7 to 5. Summary: Singles.—Adler, Horace Mann, defeated Pike, 7—5, 6—3; Graves, Horace Mann, defeated Goldstein, 6—2, 6—3.

Doubles.—Troutwine and Sixman, Horace Mann, defeated Leder and Fellerman, 4—6, 6—4, 7—5.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 10.—E. V. Carter, Jr., of the University of Georgia to-day for the third consecutive time won the Southern intercollegiate tennis championship. Carter defeated William Huggins of Vanderbilt University in two straight sets, 6—1, 6—1.

Irving School Tennis Victory.

DONAU'S KENTUCKY DERBY.

Record Crowd Sees Old and Classic Race Run at Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 10.—Donau, the bay son of Woolsthorpe, to-day captured the Kentucky Derby, at a mile and quarter, in 2:06 2-5. Joe Morris was second and Fighting Bob third. The race was run over a fast track in the presence of the largest crowd in the history of local racing. The record for the classic is 2:06¼, made by Lieutenant Gibson in 1900.

After a long delay they were sent away to a good start. Donau, who assumed the lead at once, held it throughout, and in a driving finish won by half a length in front of Joe Morris, who laid close in attendance all the way. Fighting Bob was off next to last, and was forced to take the outside course. He rapidly improved his position, and finished third, after a brilliant race. The value of the Derby to the winenr is $6,000.

JEFFRIES BOXES THREE-ROUND BOUTS

Choynski and Armstrong Have to Step Lively to Keep Out of Jim's Reach.

Special to The New York Times.

BEN LOMOND, Cal., May 10.—Jeffries had a black eye to-day from yesterday's boxing, but though disfigured he made a better impression than yesterday. He seemed to have recovered much of his ginger, and boxed three rounds each with Choynski and Armstrong. Jeffries has quit taking care of his sparring partners, and he went for old Joe Choynski as though he intended to knock him out, but Choynski held his own and gave Jeffries some stinging blows in return. It was the fastest work Choynski has done yet; Jeffries was even rougher with Bob Armstrong, and the husky negro had all he could do to keep from being put down and out. Jeffries was particularly clever with half-arm jolts with right and left hands, which Armstrong says hurt worse than an ordinary man's full swings.

Among the spectators to-day was Mrs. Jeffries, who walked outdoors for the first time since her arrival. Jeffries was evidently inspired by her presence, for his boxing showed some class, although it left much to be desired in fast footwork.

Jeffries announced at the close of his training that he had taken off twenty-five pounds since he started and that he now weighs 225 pounds.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 10.—Jack Johnson did stiff road stunts again to-day, and left all his trainers stranded at various distances. His twelve-mile course is down the Ocean Boulevard, which is level and runs within fifty feet of the ocean. Then it branches into Sloat Boulevard, named from the Commodore who hoisted the first American flag at Monterey and claimed California as United States territory. This is slightly up-grade. Then it turns into Nineteenth Avenue Boulevard, which has a stiff up-grade for at least two miles, and then it turns into Golden Gate Park, back to Seal Rock House.

Johnson hit up the pace from the start, and soon had Marty Cutler and others winded. When he tackled the Nineteenth Avenue grade others dropped by the roadside for a rest, but the big negro took the hill at a gallop and came in at a dog trot with perspiration streaming from him, but with no signs of distress in breathing. When a man can run twelve miles without stopping his wind is pretty good. After resting two hours, Johnson received friends, and late this afternoon took a five-mile run.

Johnson's wind will be in great shape by next Sunday, when he proposes to give a public exhibition of boxing with husky youngsters, any one of whom could dispose of Jeffries's entire boxing stable of prehistoric athletes.

To Transfer Papke-Thomas Fight.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 10.—The twenty-five-round fight between Billy Papke and Joe Thomas, scheduled to take place next Saturday afternoon at Coffroth's Colma arena, will probably be transferred to San Francisco and take place next week. District Attorney Bullock of San Mateo County states that he will permit no fights at Colma. Coffroth will see him to-morrow, and if Bullock says he will make arrests, Coffroth will transfer the fight to his new club here and make it twenty rounds.

Attell and Griffin Matched.

Abe Attell, recognized generally as featherweight champion of the world, has been matched to fight twenty rounds with Charlie Griffin, the featherweight champion of Australia, on Memorial Day in New Haven. The promoters of the contest have already hired the baseball park in the Connecticut city wherein to hold the battle. The referee has not yet been announced, nor has it been made known whether the men will weigh in under the featherweight rule or fight at catchweights.

TURF OFFENDERS EXPELLED.

Trotting Board of Review Inflicts Severe Punishment for Ringing.

The Board of Review of the National Trotting Association opened its Spring session yesterday at the Murray Hill Hotel, and although the entire day was devoted to judging turf cases, it will be necessary for a long session to-day to complete the list. Secretary Gocher's regular docket contained over seventy cases, but the majority were of little importance.

Two ringing cases occupied considerable time of the board. A. L. Bacon of Conneaut, Ohio, was expelled for ringing Athelyn C, 2:11¼, alias Rosewood, 2:10, alias Pet Morgan. Investigation showed that the mare was raced under three different names. Another gelding named Bob was also found to be a ringer. His last owner was a man named Jones, but he was unable to furnish the necessary identification proof and the horse was expelled.

J. B. Pierce of Toronto, Ohio, received a long vacation from the trotting turf for being implicated "in ringing" the mare Sallie Reel, 2:13¾, in slower classes as Florentelle. Pierce was punished for planning and devising the ringing trip and not for racing the mare.

E. L. Leas of Tiffin, Ohio, has been in disfavor with the trotting authorities for several years and recently was granted a temporary reinstatement. He asked yesterday that this reinstatement be made permanent, but the board refused it.

T. J. Conners of Bayonne, N. J., bought a pacer named John W, for matinee driving, but it later turned out to be Prince, 2:15¼, a "ringer." Mr. Conners made application for the reinstatement of his horse, but the board denied it, although nothing was found against the owner.

The board spent nearly two hours to hear the case of George M. Stevens of Lancaster, N. H., against the Newport (Vt.) Driving Club, the latter being represented by Dr. J. H. Gaines. It was asserted that the defendants declared off a $500 stake race by consent of four eligibles to start and while returning three of them their entrance fee of $25 and a bonus of $50, had refused to pay Stevens anything more than his entrance fee. The board decided that Stevens was entitled to the same reward as the others. The Newport Driving Club members now stand suspended until the order is fully complied with.

W. S. Hunnel of Titusville, Penn., who was suspended last December in the case of a horse known as Hal L, alias W. H. Pointer, was granted a temporary reinstatement, but the new owner of the horse could not persuade the board to reinstate the horse, he having bought him with full knowledge of past incident. He was told that after having bought a counterfeit, he must not expect to receive mercy.

Intruder Has a Speed Trial.

Despite the fact that she had not been in the water more than a few hours, Intruder, Frederick K. Burnham's new forty-foot racing motor boat, was taken out for a trial spin at City Island yesterday afternoon, with her owner at the wheel and Rappon, who will run Dixie II. for Mr. Burnham, at the throttle. For the first hour or so Intruder was worked slowly and carefully to get her machinery moving smoothly. But the opportunity presented by smooth water was too much for the speed instincts of the owner of the craft and soon the throttle was being opened notch by notch until Intruder hit up a clip of twenty-eight miles. She was kept at this speed for fifteen minutes, during which the engine ran as smoothly as if it had been in use a whole season.

School 62 Gets Wingate Trophy.

The Games Committee of the Public Schools Athletic League has totaled up the points received in every scholastic sport in which the elementary schools have engaged during the last scholastic year. The school winning the greatest number of points during the year gets the Gen. George W. Wingate Trophy. Public School 62, Manhattan, won the first place with 28 points; Public School 28, Bronx, second with 25 points; Public School 62, Manhattan, won the second place in the soccer championship, third place in the indoor championship, the elementary school championship basketball, fourth place in outdoor novice meet, and third place in the outdoor championship. While Public School 62, Manhattan, did not win any place in class athletics, it has perhaps the largest organization in this line of sport of any school in the city. Nearly 1,500 boys compete every year.

DRISCOLL AND BEECHER DRAW

Bove Driscoll of Ireland and Willie Beecher of the east side fought a fast, hard ten-round draw last night at the Fairmont Athletic Club. Driscoll proved himself much the cleverer boxer of the two, and landed often enough to the jaw and body to have won half a dozen fights had his punches had the steam behind them.

In the last round Beecher, who had been taking two blows to land one throughout the preceding nine sessions, cut loose like a wild man, and the final gong found Driscoll a very tired lad. It was one of the fastest finales seen in the city for a long time, after a fight in which there was no loafing from start to finish.

Peter Prunty introduced Jem Driscoll as the featherweight champion of the world and showed the members the Lord Lonsdale belt, emblematic of the featherweight championship of England, which Driscoll holds. Following the presentation of the little Welshman, Prunty introduced Jack Goodman, the local lightweight, and he got a great reception. Driscoll and Goodman have been matched to fight ten rounds at the Fairmont Athletic Club on May 31.

BANKER SAYS CREDIT FIXES HIGH PRICES

Wasteful Expenditure the Fashion and Danger in Expanding Credits to Keep Purchasing Power.

TALKS TO TEXAS BANKERS

Convention Speech of Vice President of City Bank Makes an Impression in the Financial District.

Vice President J. T. Talbert of the National City Bank in an address before the Texas Bankers' Convention at El Paso yesterday said some things about the extravagance of the present-day customs and of the part which the banks play in the present scheme of expenditure which greatly interested the financial district where Mr. Talbert's speech was printed by the news agencies.

Mr. Talbert said that the maintenance of present high prices depends very largely upon the expansion of credit, and that therein lay one of the chief elements of danger. One extravagance, which he discussed under the heading "Our National Vice," Mr. Talbert said:

"We are squandering on pleasure vehicles annually sums of money running into hundreds of millions of dollars. The initial cost of automobiles to American users amounts to not less than $250,000,000 a year. The up-keep and other necessary expenditures, as well as incidentals, which would not otherwise be incurred amount to at least as much more. This vast sum is equivalent in actual economic waste each year to more than the value of property destroyed in the San Francisco fire—perhaps twice as much.

"In the matter of individual expenditures it is the fashion now to be extravagant to the point of wastefulness, and the fashion is running riot. Individual thrift is considered not merely miserly hoarding, but is looked upon as a vice and a thing to be despised. It is said that this is not a day of small things, and that wealth, as wealth goes now, may no longer be accumulated by the slow process of savings and economics. This may be true if we shall measure wealth only by billions or hundreds of millions, but, just as surely as there ever existed virtue in economy, of contentment and independence in frugality, they are there to-day, and just as surely as individual and National extravagance ever led to a day of reckoning they are doing so to-day. Among nations, and among individuals, permanent wealth and material progress are the results, not so much of rich natural resources as they are the products of economy and thrift; not alone economy in the arts of production, but economy of use."

The maintenance of the present high level of prices, he said, is dependent upon the sustained purchasing power of the individual which in turn depends very largely, if not wholly, upon the expansion of credit. Herein, Mr. Talbert added, lies one of the chief elements of weakness and danger in the situation.

"If the banks," he continued, "may by increasing loans, create credits, which in turn create purchasing power and a sustained demand for high-priced goods, thereby still further advancing prices in the benefits of which all classes share except those who possess fixed incomes, it may be asked why this is not good; why not continue to promote the general ability to spend; why not continue giving to each individual an amount of enjoyment, luxury, and pleasure unknown before, particularly when all this may be accomplished by merely increasing loans? The simple but comprehensive and truthful answer is that it cannot be done because in the long run every act of wastefulness and every item of extravagance must be paid for to the last farthing; every item consumed must be earned."

Mr. Talbert also discussed the danger of the country losing its favorable trade balance and of adding an adverse trade balance to the other debit items which run against this country to the extent of hundreds of millions of dollars a year. Mr. Talbert estimated these items at a total of $900,000,000, including $200,000,000 spent abroad by American travelers, $300,000,000 paid to foreign shopowners, and $400,000,000 paid in dividends and interest on American securities held abroad and in other similar ways.

TO ARBITRATE FREIGHT RATES

Inter-State Commission Will Act on Appeal of Eastern Trunk Lines.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—At a conference with representatives of the Eastern trunk line railways and commercial bodies in Boston, New York, Baltimore, and Philadelphia to-day, the Inter-State Commerce Commission agreed to arbitrate the import traffic question, which has resulted in a rate war among the Eastern railroads.

The matter has been thrashed out thoroughly by the railroads and commercial bodies, but no arrangement of the controversy appeared possible until the suggestion was made that the commission be requested to arbitrate. In no other way could the questions be brought before the commission.

The commission agreed to arbitrate, but intimated that nothing could be done until next Autumn, a temporary arrangement governing the rates until the commission shall act.

BREAK IN WHEAT PRICES

Abrupt Fall in Chicago Market a Stock Market Factor—More Securities Go Abroad—Exchange Lower.

After a prolonged period of extreme dullness, in the course of which prices fell a point or so, as a rule, below the opening quotations, the market developed activity and strength, in response to what appeared to be a hurried and extensive short covering movement. Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, and Amalgamated Copper were heavily dealt in at rising prices, the Hill shares in particular coming in for a good deal of attention, owing to the relative neglect of them for weeks past. In the shares named final prices represented advances of from 2 to 3 points as compared with the low levels of the day, and from 1 to 2 points over the corresponding quotations of Monday night. The movement on the part of traders to cover outstanding short commitments was undoubtedly influenced mainly by the very sharp breaks in wheat on the grain markets. In Chicago May wheat fell 4½ cents a bushel, and other options were lower in sympathy, although not in equal degree. Presumably the unexpected favorable showing of the Winter wheat crop, as revealed in the Government's report, has to some extent interfered with the speculative campaign under way in Chicago in May wheat. At the same time, widely disseminated reports of damage in the Dakotas and Minnesota are undergoing refutation day by day from authoritative sources, while the excellent weather prevailing over practically all of the Western crop country is materially brightening the prospects for full agricultural returns later on. In a way, the passing of the Administration's Railroad bill by the House of Representatives in the afternoon was regarded as of favorable import, although the changes made in the original measure have been so numerous and so vital as to render the bill in its present form of much less consequence to the railroad world than it might otherwise have been. Another matter regarded as important was the announcement of the placement abroad of a large part of the $40,000,000 Baltimore & Ohio note issue, this feature of the transaction being looked upon as a definite promise of continued interest on the part of foreign investment institutions in our flotations of securities.

Another decline of 15 points in demand sterling in the foreign exchange market reinforced the deductions made from the heaviness of exchange on Monday and on Saturday, which were, of course, that financial London is in no wise disturbed over the situation created by King Edward's death. The local banks reported another small loss to the Sub-Treasury, and their competition with out-of-town lenders led to a further lowering of call money quotations and the maintenance of relative ease in the time money market.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 10.—Transactions on the local Stock Exchange continued on a comparatively broad and fairly active scale to-day. Purely Philadelphia issues displayed considerable strength. In the last hour the arbitrage group hardened all around as a result of the news from Washington, and the close was quite firm. Lehigh Valley was unusually quiet during the morning session, and so was United Gas Improvement. Both displayed a firm tone. In the afternoon United Gas Improvement was lifted quite sharply to a new high level for the present movement. On the other hand Lehigh Valley met moderate offerings and receded a point.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

CHINO AGAIN ACTIVE

Practically All Issues of the Metal Group Score Advances Ranging from Fractions to a Full Point.

The copper issues were again the feature of the outside security market yesterday. Practically all the issues of that group scored gains ranging from a small fraction to a full point, the latter in Butte Coalition and Ray Consolidated. Chino continued the most active stock, however, and ended the day with an advance of half a point. Standard Oil and American Tobacco were conspicuous in the industrial group, and scored gains of 7 and 6 points respectively. Business was rather limited until late in the day, when buying of the copper issues appeared on a moderately large scale.

The transactions reported yesterday in the outside market, with opening, high, low, and last prices, were as follows:

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Tuesday.

Dealings on the Consolidated Stock Exchange were heaviest in the final hour of business, when prices rose rapidly under general buying. The increased activity on the advance was construed favorably by many of the room operators, who took a bullish position for that reason alone. Commission house customers were active buyers of odd lots of a wide variety of the specialties. There was an evident widening of public interest in the market. Sales totaled 112,770 shares, with fifty-three different stocks represented on the list.

Timber Bonds and Stocks

We are specialists in these securities.

The consumption of timber is increasing. The supply is diminishing. Timber values are rising. You find safety and large profits in timber securities.

Timber worth $1.00 in the standing tree is worth over $10.00 when cut into logs and $20.00 when cut into timber.

Write us for details of timber enterprises now making large profits, that have been investigated by our experts, and are recommended by us.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Traders Still Bearish.

Traders, as a class, seem unable to get the two big breaks in the market since the opening of the year out of their minds. They are still bearish at heart, and by preference interpret current happenings darkly, however supple they may be in adapting themselves to advancing movements. Yesterday, for example, they found much fault with the market's inactivity, complained bitterly of the alleged harsh terms upon which the foreigners are getting the St. Paul debentures, expressed open suspicions as to the trustworthiness of the showing of the Government's crop report, found portents of trouble in the lack of vigorous support for Steel common, and professed indignation that the Baltimore & Ohio had seen fit to pay as much as 5 per cent. for its money. From this attitude the step to much short selling is a short one.

The Brooklyn Dividend.

Disappointment over the postponement of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit dividend meeting was general in speculative circles. The stock displayed rather exceptional resistance to the weakness governing the rest of the market a week or so ago, simply because the expectation was general that the Directors would meet to-day and raise the dividend to a 5 per cent. basis. It now appears that as little more time is to be permitted to go by before the meeting is held to discuss the dividend it is not impossible that the second thoughts will lead to the abandonment of what was considered a settled programme of enlarging the distribution. There is obviously a strong pull on the Directors to make the increase in order to create a better market for the company's convertible bonds. This used to be a favorite method of procedure, but of late years it has been found in most cases that putting up the stock in order to put bonds out at the higher price has led to nothing better than a little momentary speculation in the stock itself and that the bonds had, after all, to stand on their own merits.

Rights Then and Now.

Something of the same fate has overtaken the aforetime "valuable rights." Once they were eagerly sought at high prices, when dealt in, and the stocks from which they were taken have led markets up day after day. Times change. Lehigh Valley sold above 121 before the company let everybody know that "rights" were coming, but in the few short weeks since that announcement the stock has sold under 112 and has never been within striking distance of the higher figure. Chesapeake & Ohio "rights," some little time ago, sold at $1.50, but to-day the misguided stockholder who retained his can buy, perhaps, one postage stamp with the proceeds of each "right."

The Gould Transcontinental.

On Friday last there was put under way without publicity the construction of the 83 miles of road which is to connect up the Western Maryland at Cumberland and the Pittsburg & Lake Erie at Connellsville, Penn. This link, nevertheless, is in its essential features the project which, while yet on paper, caused the publication of thousands of columns of newspaper comment, for it was by means of a line from the Western Maryland to the Wheeling & Lake Erie that the Goulds were going to have the glory and the profit of establishing the first transcontinental railway. It is rather surprising to note the consequences of the failure of the Goulds to construct this link of some 100 miles, which was all that was really needed to complete their system from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The Western Maryland is no longer in their control, their ambitious Wabash-Pittsburg Terminal and the Wheeling & Lake Erie are in receivers' hands, and even the Wabash itself, which brought them east of the Mississippi, is persistently reported as having passed away from them. Their Pacific Coast extension, the Western Pacific, is understood to have been offered to James J. Hill, if not in whole at least in part. From time to time Mr. Hawley has been accused of coveting the Denver & Rio Grande, and what he covets he often acquires—witness the Chicago & Alton. The Missouri Pacific the Goulds have intact and undisputed, but there are possibilities in the property far beyond anything yet developed by them.

Bank Deposits and Interest.

There is a quiet but definite sympathy existing among the best bankers throughout this State with the campaign begun by Clark Williams, when Superintendent of Banks, to cut down interest rates on savings deposits, a proposal accepted by Rochester bankers and which inevitably made concrete opinion to the effect that interest paid on all kinds of deposits was undoubtedly excessive in nine cases out of ten. It was with a good deal of interest, therefore, that the banking community learned that the New Jersey Bankers' Association had adopted a resolution to pay no more than 3½ per cent. on time and savings deposits and to limit the interest allowed on active accounts to not more than 2 per cent. on balances of less than $500. The results of this step can be readily ascertained and may have something to do with the course of the similar agitation in this State.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The stockholders of the National Park Bank at a special meeting yesterday authorized an increase in the capital stock of $2,000,000, bringing the total to $5,000,000.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the International Steam Pump Company, held in Jersey City yesterday, the retiring Directors were re-elected and Arnold Tanzey was added to the board.

After the meeting of the Directors of the Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting and Power Company, Ltd., yesterday, it was stated that only routine business was transacted. Vice President J. P. Graves was not present.

The United States Mortgage and Trust Company has been appointed trustee for the recently authorized $20,000,000 first mortgage 5½ per cent. five-year gold bonds of the Algoma Central & Hudson Bay Railway Company, one of the constituent companies of the Lake Superior Corporation.

Frank D. La Lanne, President of the National Board of Trade, has been appointed to represent the United States Government at the International Commercial Congress of Chambers of Commerce and Commercial Organizations to be held in London in June. Mr. La Lanne, it was made known in this city yesterday, has been instructed to advocate the creation of an international court of arbitral justice.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 10.—Dealings on the local Stock Exchange to-day were enlivened by an active demand for Boxboard, inspired, it was said, by the fact that, in spite of the deficit shown, the annual statement of the company presented some features which reflected credit on the management. The pool operating in Illinois Brick stock felt called upon to give those shares a boost after the recent steady slump. Sears-Roebuck common enjoyed an upward spin, propelled by a demand from shorts.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

Wheat Irregular, Weakening Late—Corn Strong—Provisions Hold Firm—Cotton Shows Further Advance.

The wheat market opened rather irregular, owing to the weakness of the cables, which took a bearish view of the American Government report. There was very little wheat for sale, however, and prices steadily worked upward, influenced by persistent advices of insect damage in the Southwest and the dry weather in the Northwest. There was also a good decrease in the visible supply. The European total showed a reduction of 4,800,000 bushels and the world's total decreased 7,378,000 bushels, following a decrease of 5,609,000 bushels the previous week, and compared with 8,711,000 bushels decrease last year. After midday the market suddenly developed weakness, and sold down rapidly, with a good deal of wheat pressing for sale. The May delivery at the West broke over 4c a bushel on reports that a line of wheat was being brought from Duluth for delivery. Collapses of the May deal had a decidedly unsetting influence on the new crop deliveries. A statement by a Western crop expert that the Government report on the basis of five years' average indicated a 451,000,000 bushel crop; that the report was made at the worst condition of the crop, and there had been improvements since, seemed to have a good deal of effect, and prices went down rapidly under the selling pressure, and the market was weak and unsettled during the afternoon. Cash wheat quoted: No. 2 red Winter, $1.16, nominal, spot; No. 2 red, spot, nominal, $1.17¼, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.19⅝, nominal; No. 2 hard Winter, nominal; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $1.07⅝.

The corn market was relatively firm. It was higher during the morning, owing to the small receipts and large decrease in Western stocks. There have been large shipments for distribution since navigation opened. There was a decrease of 1,493,000 bushels according to Bradstreet's, following a decrease of 2,069,000 bushels last week. Toward the close, however, the market eased off with the break in wheat. Cash corn quoted: No. 2, 69¼c asked, elevator, domestic basis, and steamer, nominal.

The movement in the oats market was rather narrow. There was a better tone, due to the complaints of dry weather in the Northwest, and the market was helped by a decrease of 901,000 bushels in the visible. Later there was some reaction with the balance of the list. Cash oats quoted: Natural white, 46@48½c, and white clipped, 47@52½c.

Trade in hog products continues quiet. Prices were very firm. There was an improvement in the market, due to the continued small movement of hogs and the absence of any accumulations of product. Live hogs were firm.

COTTON.

The market was very firm and prices were advanced to new high levels. The advance was not accompanied by any large volume of trade, but there was a good deal of support, and in the July delivery considerable cotton was taken off the market. The advance was apparently due to apprehension that the stocks would be rapidly shipped out of this market, reducing materially the supplies available for contract purposes, and as the May delivery was advanced considerably, covering developed. It was also said that some of the support was due to effort to sell spot cotton and the desire to make an attractive basis for the spot cotton transactions. The purchases of the July were also credited to the bull interest in the extending of the manipulation into the Summer months. The market was encouraged by cables of better business in Manchester and that owing to the good trade the labor trouble had been settled by a giving in of the employers. The weekly crop bulletin was considered somewhat less favorable owing to the low temperatures, and this had a moderate effect on the new crop deliveries. The market was very firm all the afternoon, but weakened a little at the close. The final figures were at 2 to 21 points advance, the greatest gain being in August. The advance in August was credited to buying on the belief that if there was to be any real shortage in the crop it would be most felt at the end, and the discount of August under July made it a tempting purchase for believers in higher values.

Southern spot markets unchanged to 3-16c advance.

New York spot cotton quiet, 20 points advance; middling uplands, 15.70c; middling Gulf, 15.95c.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 5 points in response to steady cables. Havre was ¼f higher and Hamburg closed unchanged to ¼ pfennig higher. Of the Brazilian markets Rio was 25 reis higher and Santos was unchanged, while the rate of Brazilian exchange maintained its recent advance to 16 1-16d.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, May 10.—Money was in good supply to-day notwithstanding the settlement requirements, and discount rates were easy.

The Stock Exchange retained yesterday's strength, and established further advances, notably in oil shares, coppers, Mexican rails, and Grand Trunk, while steady expansion in the investment demand hardened home rails and consols. Paris purchased favorites among the Kaffirs and foreigners, and this helped the tone, but rubber shares closed irregular on realizations. The general settlement commenced with carry-over rates easier, Americans 5 per cent.

American shares opened higher on steady buying, and the bureau crop report helped sentiment. New York bought well during the afternoon, but sold in the late trading, and this caused a setback of ½ to ¾ and made the tone easy.

Bar silver steady, 24 15-16d per ounce.

Money, 2@2¼ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3 3-16@3¼ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for three months' bills is 3 3-16@3¼ per cent.

Gold premiums are quoted at Lisbon at 11 and at Madrid at 6.75.

PARIS, May 10.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were firm.

Three per cent. rentes, 98 francs 92½ centimes for the account.

Exchange on London, 25 francs 25½ centimes for checks.

BERLIN, May 10.—Prices on the Boerse to-day were firm, with American securities leading in activity.

MELLEN ASKS INVESTIGATION.

Hopes Thus to End Opposition to the New Haven Road.

BOSTON, May 10.—Much Massachusetts opposition to the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad was eliminated to-day when President Charles S. Mellen agreed to an investigation of the finances of the road by any fair-minded board as a step toward validating the capital indebtedness of the company, in accordance with his own petition to the Legislature.

The leaders of the opposition, generally known as the "anti-mergerites," expressed themselves as satisfied with the attitude of Mr. Mellen and agreed that such action would go far toward bringing about a better feeling.

Mr. Mellen appeared at the State House accompanied by Vice President T. E. Byrnes, Director Hemenway, and James D. Brady of New York. He spoke five minutes in submitting his petition and bill for the validation of the securities of the company, and while replying to questions by House Chairman R. B. Washburn of Worcester he agreed to the suggestion that the road be investigated, the bill being referred to the next Legislature.

Mr. Mellen said:

"It is a condition, not a theory, which confronts the New Haven Road in Massachusetts. Your Attorney General says that a large part of the capital stock of our road is illegal. Our lawyers claim that it is not. The feeling in the public mind is not favorable to the company, and we feel that we cannot make money unless we have a better feeling. So we come here in all fairness and ask that this matter be straightened out."

Mr. Mellen said that the company welcomed any sort of an examination into its finances, provided it was pursued with a fair, honest intent, and he suggested that the joint Board of Railroad Commissioners and the Tax and the Bank Commissioners should be authorized to act. These officials were agreeable to the road.

Mr. Washburn remarked that in the three years of controversy there has been fault on both sides.

"There certainly has," replied Mr. Mellen, "and that is why I am here."

BROWN BACK FROM THE WEST

Central's President Finds Shippers There Agreeable to Higher Rates.

President W. C. Brown of the New York Central Lines returned yesterday from a trip to the West as far as Iowa. He came back well pleased with the outlook for the crops and with the attitude which the majority of shippers are taking toward the suggested increase in freight rates.

"In my trip West," Mr. Brown said, "I talked with a great many shippers, both wholesale and retail, and almost without exception they recognized the necessity of an increase in freight rates, in view of the very large increase in expenses incident to the increase in wages.

"I do not think I have ever seen more favorable conditions for the small grains than exist generally over the country at the present time. The Government crop report reflected a decided improvement during April, but the next thirty days will witness a far greater change for the better than that. The abundant rains that the country has had have made the hay crop, and have put the ground in ideal condition for corn planting, now going on.

"As for wheat, I found a great many acres that the owners regarded as a total loss which will make a good crop. All of the so-called abandoned acreage is being immediately put into corn, and with that crop it will produce twice as much tonnage for the railroads as it would if the wheat had been raised."

All Baltimore & Ohio Notes Sold.

All the $40,000,000 three-year 4½ per cent. secured notes of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad purchased by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Speyer & Co. last week have been sold, it was announced yesterday. A substantial proportion of the issue was taken by foreign investors, thus adding to the amount of American securities which are now finding their way to the other side. The United States Mortgage and Trust Company has been made the trustee of the issue.

PREPARES FOR PIER CONCERTS

Commissioner Tomkins Employs Six Band Leaders for a Full Season.

Dock Commissioner Tomkins announced last night that instead of engaging a large number of band leaders, each with a short engagement, to provide music for the recreation piers, he had engaged only six, for the full season of fifteen weeks.

The six leaders chosen are Lambert L. Eden, leader of the Seventy-first Regiment Band; Lawrence M. Matt, leader of the Twenty-second Regiment Band; William Bayne, leader of the Sixty-ninth Regiment Band; G. E. Conterno, C. L. Von Baar, and Frank Stretz.

The Commissioner has also appointed Arthur Farwell of the editorial staff of Musical America, as Musical Supervisor of the city concerts.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Robert E. Dowling Sells Two Corners of the Evans Block—Important Deals in the Loft Zone—Resale of the Poor House--The Auction Market.

One of the largest sales of the season on the west side since Robert E. Dowling purchased the big Evans block last November for $1,250,000 was the announcement yesterday of the sale by Mr. Dowling through Frank E. Smith of two large corners on that property, which will be immediately improved by two high-class twelve-story apartment houses. The purchasers were George F. Johnson, Jr., and Leopold Kahn, comprising the Johnson-Kahn Company. They secured the southeast corner of Ninetieth Street and West End Avenue, 100.8 by 162.6, and also the northwest corner of Eighty-ninth Street and Broadway, 100.8 feet on Broadway and 150 feet on Eighty-ninth Street, for a consideration of about $800,000.

The southwest corner of Ninetieth Street and Broadway, which Mr. Dowling still holds, will be restricted to a four-story business building for ten years. The other parcel, at the northeast corner of West End Avenue and Eighty-ninth Street, 100 by 175, was sold last December to Franklin Pettit.

Big Deal in "Penn" Loft Zone.

Heil & Stern have sold for I. Randolph Jacobs the property 136, 138, 140, and 142 West Thirty-seventh Street, on plot 72 by 98.9, between Broadway and Seventh Avenue. The purchaser is L. Haas.

The same brokers sold this plot for the Royal Holding Company to Mr. Jacobs about four months ago. The property is directly opposite the northeast corner of Seventh Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street, which has also recently been sold.

The Boreas Realty Company, of which Louis Steckler is President, has sold to Robert H. Jones for an investor the loft building in course of construction at 148 and 150 West Twenty-fourth Street. The property consists of a twelve-story steel-frame loft, covering a plot 50 by 88.9 about 175 feet east of Seventh Avenue.

Peter P. Sherry has sold for Mrs. P. P. Lewis the property 232 West Twentieth Street, 25 by 90, with four-story front and rear tenement, to Leon Dryer.

Dwelling Traded for Lofts.

Solomon S. Carvalho has purchased from the Napoleon Construction Company (Janpole & Werner) the new seven-story loft building 130 West Twenty-eighth Street, on lot 25 by 98.9, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues.

In part payment Mr. Carvalho gives his former residence, at 698 West End Avenue, southeast corner of Ninety-fourth Street, a five-story dwelling, on lot 18.5 by 55.

$125,000 for West 38th Street Lot.

Heilner & Wolf have purchased from Frederic E. Lewis 22 West Thirty-eighth Street, a four-story brownstone dwelling, on a lot 25 by 98.9. The property has been owned by the seller for the past seventeen years, and was held at $125,000.

Many improvements have been made on this block during the past couple of years and several lofts are projected. The building just sold stands between two twelve-story lofts. Heilner & Wolf have no definite plans at present. McCarthy & Fellows negotiated the sale.

Agents Announce Poor House Resale.

Formal announcement was made yesterday by Pease & Elliman of the resale of the present Henry W. Poor house on Gramercy Park by Charles W. Buek to the No. 1 Lexington Avenue Company. This transfer of the property, with an account of the twelve-story co-operative apartment house which the new company, of which Mr. Buek is a member, will erect, was published in THE NEW YORK TIMES on April 17. The plot has a frontage of 123.5 feet on Lexington Avenue and 60 feet on Twenty-first Street, facing Gramercy Park. The house, which was once the residence of Cyrus W. Field, will be torn down about June 1, and the new house, designed by Herbert Lucas, to contain twenty-four duplex apartments, will cost about $300,000. Among the syndicate members are John Brooks Leavitt, J. S. Phillips, Miss Jeanette L. Gilder, Dr. J. C. McLean, Arthur Pearson, and Edward Corning.

Holding Co. Buys 55th St. Parcel.

Edward C. Williams & Co. have sold for the Barney Estates Company to the Herald Square Holding Company 147-149 West Fifty-fifth Street, a three-story garage, on plot 50 by 121, adjoining the Hotel Wellington and facing the Wyoming apartments.

It will probably be improved with high-class apartments in keeping with the many structures of this type recently erected in the neighborhood.

Daniel Birdsall & Co. have sold for the Tailfer Company to W. G. Ver Planck 116½ and 118 West Fiftieth Street, two two-story stables on plot 33.4 by 100.5, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues. The purchaser will alter the buildings into a garage.

Increase Riverside Drive Holdings.

Bing & Bing, who recently purchased the lot at the south corner of Riverside Drive and Eighty-eighth Street, together with the two adjoining five-story dwellings, 155 and 156 Riverside Drive, have also purchased the vacant lot, 25.8 by 100, at 154 Riverside Drive, from William B. Walker. Pease & Elliman were the brokers in the deal.

Bing & Bing now control at this point a plot, 100 by 100, on which they will erect a twelve-story apartment house.

The Private Dwelling Market.

Frederick B. Opper, the cartoonist, has sold his residence at 147 West Seventy-eighth Street, a three-story and basement stone-front dwelling, on lot 20 by 102.2.

Mary J. McGuire has sold 910 West End Avenue, a four-story and basement stone-front dwelling, on lot 20.2 by 100, between 104th and 105th Streets. L. J. Phillips & Co. were the brokers in the sale. Mrs. McGuire acquired the property last November.

East Side Property in Demand.

John J. Kavanaugh has sold for the Henry Schmidt estate 128 East Ninety-second Street, a three-story dwelling, on lot 15 by 100.8, to a client for occupancy.

John Lucker has sold the five-story double flat 213 East Eighty-ninth Street, on lot 25 by 100, for Mrs. C. Ihlenburg to Herman Kahrs.

La Venice Apartment Sold.

Sol. Stern has sold for Mrs. August Osserman the six-story modern elevator apartment house known as La Venice, on lot 45 by 100 by irregular, at 263-265 West 137th Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues. The property has been held at $90,000, and it is understood that the selling price was close to that figure.

Isidor H. Kempner has sold the three five-story flats with stores, 2,547, 2,553, and 2,555 Eighth Avenue, between 136th and 137th Streets.

A. Offenberg & Son have resold the six-story apartment house known as 3,149 Broadway to M. Baar for investment.

Jacob Herb sold to William Bradley of the Bradley Construction Company 519 West 161st Street, a plot 50 by 100, with frame dwelling and stable, between Amsterdam Avenue and Broadway.

Henry Frank, Jr., of Weehawken, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, has sold his residence at 40 Columbia Terrace. Mr. Frank is also a member of the Hudson County Boulevard Commission.

$1,500,000 Building for N. Y. Central.

Plans were filed yesterday by the architects of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad for a thirteen-story office building to cost $1,500,000, and which will be erected over the tracks of the new Grand Central Station terminal on the west side of Lexington Avenue from Forty-sixth to Forty-seventh Street. The building will have a frontage on the avenue of 200.8 feet and 250 feet on each street, with an extension five stories high and 25 feet deep. The Lexington Avenue entrance will be ornamented with Doric columns. The façade will be of brick trimmed with granite, limestone, and terra cotta. The plans consist of a set of fifty-five drawings.

Lower Seventh Ave. Improvement.

Samuel Sass is preparing plans for a twelve-story loft building to be erected on the plot, 106 to 110 Seventh Avenue and 206 West Seventeenth Street, for the 106 Seventh Avenue Company.

The plot has a frontage of 52 feet on Seventh Avenue by 99 feet deep, with an L fronting on West Seventeenth Street 20 feet wide by 53 feet deep. This is the first operation of this class of buildings along lower Seventh Avenue.

$240,000 Addition to McCreery Store.

Goldwin, Starrett & Van Vleck, architects, have filed plans for the ten-story extension to the James McCreery & Co. department store at 4 to 16 West Thirty-fifth Street and 1½ to 9 West Thirty-fourth Street, at a cost of $240,000. The extension is to be built on the west side of the present building, and will conform in design with the present structure. There is to be a recreation shelter on the roof, and one passenger elevator and two freight elevators.

Interborough Leases Harlem Plot.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company has leased to Philip Celentano the interior plot, 30 by 40, irregular, between Cathedral Parkway and 111th Street, 90 feet west of Eighth Avenue, for twenty-one years. Mr. Celentano will improve the plot.

This completes the leasing of the railroad company's vacant property on Cathedral Parkway under the big curve of the elevated structure, the aggregate rental amounting to over $300,000.

Sale of Brooklyn Lots.

A bankruptcy sale of 1,018, 1,020, and 1,022 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, by order of the United States District Court, will be held by Joseph P. Day at the Exchange Salesrooms, 14 and 16 Vesey Street, to-day. The property is in a residential locality, and consists of three four-story-and-basement nine-room-and-bath brownstone tenement houses.

Not Leased to the City.

Report of the leasing by the Sinking Fund Commission of the upper part of the twelve-story building at the southwest corner of Irving Place and Sixteenth Street for use by the Board of Health and the Tenement House Department is erroneous. Benjamin Mordecai, President of the 118 East Sixteenth Street Company, owner of the property, authorizes a denial of the report.

Vose Co. Moves to Bush Stores.

Another industry of considerable importance has been added to the industrial colony operated by the Bush Terminal Company in South Brooklyn by a lease signed between that concern and the Vose Piano Company of New York. This firm originally intended to locate its new plant in the West, but the exceptional shipping facilities and other economies offered by the Bush management finally led to the selection of an Eastern headquarters.

The Vose Company will occupy 41,820 square feet of floor space in Bush Model Loft Building No. 4, at the foot of Thirty-fifth Street, one-half on the second floor and half on the third floor. At least 500 mechanics and other workmen, in addition to the office force, will be added to the working population of this section by this lease.

FIND FINGER PRINTS OF DOUBLE SLAYER

Detectives Discover Them on a Linen Headrest in Dr. Cannon's Home.

PROMISE AN ARREST TO-DAY

Think the Burglar Rang the Bell and Then Forced His Way in Past the Housekeeper.

The Detective Bureau's finger-print men are working hard over the only clue that the police have turned up in the search for the burglar who, on Monday afternoon, while attempting to rob the home of Dr. Mott D. Cannon at 131 West 122d Street, murdered Margaret Meehner, his aged housekeeper, and William Benam, his young Hindu butler, the only two persons in the house at the time.

It came out last night, in spite of the efforts of the police to suppress the information, that they had found near the body of the old woman a blood-stained piece of linen about 12 by 18 inches, which had been pinned to a thick-cushioned chair in the foyer between the parlor and the doctor's office in the rear. In his haste the burglar had snatched that off the chair and wiped his hands on it.

There are two distinct finger prints discernible. They are evidently of the first and second fingers. The detectives are at work running through their finger print records trying to find there a copy of those on the linen head rest.

Capt. Kuehne of the Harlem Detective Bureau said last night that he expected an arrest to-day.

The twoscore of detectives have not yet discovered how the burglar—it is easier to assume that there was only one—gained entrance to the house, nor has the jimmy or heavy instrument with which he battered in the heads of the housekeeper and the Hindu been found. It is hardly conceivable that he would take along with him the instrument with which he had committed the double murder, for it was all done in broad daylight.

Capt. Kuehne, after going over the ground thoroughly yesterday, said he was practically certain that the burglar did not gain admittance to the house through the rear windows or door. He thinks he rang the front door bell and entered when the housekeeper opened the door, though it was a standing order of Dr. Cannon that no one be admitted to the house when he was absent, and he was away at the time. He left the house shortly before 3 o'clock, made some professional calls, and returned at 4:45 o'clock.

The detectives believe the burglar knew something about the habits of the physician, and waited until he went out for his afternoon calls. He may have known that William Carter, the negro butler who preceded the Hindu at Dr. Cannon's, had left the house last Saturday to accept a place with Dr. Reuben Cronson, who lives next door to Dr. Cannon at 133 West 122d Street, and he may not have known that the negro's place had been filled, possibly being under the impression that he would find no man in the house after the physician had left.

The detectives, however, are finding difficulty in deciding just what happened in the house after the burglar got in. When he reached the hallway he found the door to the parlor just to the right, which has a door in the rear leading out to the expanded hallway, a sort of waiting room. The housekeeper's body lay near this latter door, with two bullet holes in her face and several deep wounds on her head.

It seemed to the detectives who first looked at the bodies that any one of the blows was enough to kill the fragile little woman, who was 69 years old, but the autopsy at the Morgue yesterday showed cerebral hemorrhages in both her case and that of the Hindu, which proved that they were not dead when they were shot, according to Coroner's Physicians Schultz and O'Hanlon.

Burglar Got $100.

Dr. Cannon's bedroom is one flight up from the parlor floor, in the rear, and that was the only place from which anything was missed. The burglar took $100 in small change from the top dresser drawer, where it was kept in a tin box, and from the next drawer he took five stickpins of no large value and a revolver. He left behind a gold watch.

The detectives found out that thirteen-year-old Helen Hammond, daughter of Dr. Frederick P. Hammond of 143 West 122d Street, went over to Dr. Cannon's house shortly after 3 o'clock on Monday afternoon to give some flowers to Miss Julia Freeman, one of the two sisters who have for some time been occupying a room on the top floor of Dr. Cannon's house. Miss Freeman is the child's teacher.

The little girl was accompanied by Edith Brown of 35 Mount Morris Park West. She rang the front door bell, then the basement bell, and then the front bell again. She saw the door open just a little, and a gruff voice said: "No one at home; get away." She did not see the face of the man who answered her ringing.

Some of the detectives differ from Capt. Kuehne about how the burglar gained admittance. They say he must have come in from the roof or the rear. On the third floor they found an afternoon paper crumpled up and having on it the impression of a handle as of a jimmy. They believe that the burglar went down to the doctor's room, was robbing his dresser, was surprised by the old housekeeper, and turned on her.

She fled down the stairs, the detectives believe, stumbled into the parlor through the rear door, and was there overtaken by the burglar. The noise attracted the Hindu, who came up the stairs, but turned to flee at sight of the strange man, making for the basement door. He was caught just before he reached it and murdered. The murderer dropped the pistol, which he had taken from Dr. Cannon's drawer, by the side of the body, and then got out.

The police have traced out the antecedents of the Hindu butler. Dr. Cannon had been referred to him by the negro Y. M. C. A. on West Fifty-third Street. It was found there that he had come from the West Indies, leaving a wife, a child, and a mother at Trinidad; that he first obtained employment from Dr. F. Staube of 209 Seventh Street, Brooklyn; that he then went to work as a porter for St. Mark's Hotel on Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, which place he gave up because the negro porters made it uncomfortable for him, and that he then obtained the situation with Dr. Cannon.

As for the housekeeper, she had been in the Cannon family for twenty-five years.

"Vengeance" Theory Exploded.

A theory that the murder was an "assassination" in which the housekeeper became a victim because she interfered with Hindu vengeance failed of substantiation when it was discovered that a supposed Hindu butler who left a prominent Rye family recently saying that assassins were after him was not identical with this victim. The "Hindu" butler who believed himself pursued by assassins in Rye, N. Y., was a Southern mulatto suffering from delusions.

FOUR ADDED TO THE MISSING.

General Police Alarms Out for Three Men and a Woman Who Disappeared.

The police have been called upon in the last few days to try to locate an unusually large number of people who have disappeared, and yesterday the number of reported missing was increased by three men and one woman.

J. W. Reardon went to Police Headquarters yesterday and asked that a general alarm be sent out for his son, Alfred Reardon of Summerville, Mass., whose business address is 3 Tremont Row, Boston. The missing man is 27 years old, 5 feet 7 inches in height, weighs 143 pounds, has dark brown hair and blue eyes, and when last seen wore a black overcoat, blue coat and vest, striped trousers, black derby hat, black laced shoes, and white underwear marked with an "R." On one hand was tattoed the letter "T," and he had a peculiar way of twitching his mouth, which made him noticeable.

He came to New York on March 31 to attend a meeting of the Royal Order of the Moose, stopped at the Hotel Imperial, attended the meeting, left the city, returned on April 13, attended another meeting the following day, asked that his mail be sent from the Imperial to his business address in Boston, and then dropped out of sight. When he left Summerville he had a gold watch, a diamond ring, and a Moose pin in the lapel of his coat.

Harry Rose of 2,573 Eighth Avenue asked the police to help him find his wife, Emma, 24 years old, who left home on April 30. The husband said he had traced his wife to Newark, where she had gone to answer a theatrical advertisement. Mr. Rose said that his wife was a trained piano player, and he believed that she had gone with some theatrical company. She left behind three children. She was described as 5 feet 3 inches in height, weighing 115 pounds, with dark complexion, black hair and gray eyes. She carried away a wedding ring and $11 in money.

On April 28 Thomas Wiseman of 64 West 104th Street left a department store, where he was employed, meaning to take the Sixth Avenue elevated train to his home, so he said. He hasn't been seen or heard of since. He is 5 feet and 7 inches in height, weighs 135 pounds, has black hair, black mustache, swarthy complexion, and dark eyes. He wore a dark suit of clothes and patent leather shoes when last seen, and on his finger was a signet ring having on it the letters "T. W."

Julius Berg of 2,361 Eighth Avenue, a jeweler, also asked the police to help him find his twenty-year-old son, Robert, who disappeared last Saturday. He said that his boy had fallen in with evil companions. Mr. Berg said he accosted some of the young men he suspected of misleading his boy, offering them $5 if they would tell where he was. They took the money and then only laughed at him.

CRITICISES SERVICE BOARD.

Too Much Red Tape, Remarks the Court of a Suit Against Whitridge.

"This seems to be a case of lese majeste," commented Supreme Court Justice Brady yesterday on the suit brought by the Public Service Commission to recover $750,000 penalties from Receiver Frederick W. Whitridge of the Union Railway of the Bronx for five months' failure to obey an order of the commission.

"It comes down to this—a man must sit outside the office of the commission and wait for them to cut red tape," he continued.

His comment had been drawn down by the cross-examination of Mr. Whitridge. The receiver, who has frankly criticised the workings of the commission, testified over objections by the commission's counsel that every other street railway in the city but the Union Railway had received an extension of time to equip its cars with fenders and wheel guards.

Mr. Whitridge said he had adopted an English wheel guard device which he had seen abroad and had ordered its installation on all the cars of the Union Railway when he was served with a summons and complaint in the action to recover penalties. He said that with one exception all the suits brought by the commission to recover penalties had been against companies of which he was the receiver, and his companies had been made to bear the cost of test cases. He asserted that the original order of the commission had never been served on him.

The case will go to the jury to-day.

REFORMS IN THE CITY RECORD

Commission Named by the Mayor Cuts Expenses $300,000 a Year.

The commission appointed several weeks ago by Mayor Gaynor to make recommendations for economy in the administration of The City Record, the official publication of the City Government, the contract for which also includes the supplying of all stationery for the various city departments, will report to him within a few days, and will make suggestions which its members estimate will save the city at least $300,000 a year.

Principal among them will be the reduction of the price of city advertising in class papers from 40 cents to 25 cents a line, the avoidance of the unnecessary reproduction of reports and other documents in The Record, and the standardization of stationery supplies.

It was learned yesterday that the Mayor had already held up much matter usually printed in The Record, and that Corporation Counsel Watson had approved the reduction in the price per line of advertising in class papers.

John La Farge Is No Better.

Officials of the Hahnemann Hospital, Sixty-sixth Street and Lexington Avenue, were non-committal last night about the condition of John La Farge, the artist, who is ill there. Mr. La Farge was reported yesterday as in a perilous condition. Last night he was said to be about the same.

SEABOARD BONDS ABROAD.

Syndicate Arranges a Sale of $6,000,000, About All Remaining.

The Seaboard Air Line adjustment bond syndicate, headed by Blair & Co. and Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., has arranged a sale of bonds abroad, and a public offering of about $6,000,000 will shortly be made in London. This amount, it is said, covers about all the bonds left in the hands of the syndicate. The amount of bonds originally underwritten by the syndicate was $18,000,000.

Earnings of the Seaboard have increased even more rapidly than was estimated at the time of the reorganization last year, and some of the participants in the syndicate say the road will be amply able to begin the payment of interest on the adjustment bonds in the relatively near future.

New Yorkers Get Bristol Gas Co.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The Bristol Gas and Electric Company of Bristol, Tenn., has changed hands, Henry L. Doherty & Co. of New York having purchased almost the entire stock. The deal was consummated on Saturday, when C. M. Warner and W. A. Williamson of New York transferred their interests to the new owners. Mr. Doherty will be President of the company. It is not known how much was paid for the property, but its valuation is said to be close to $750,000.

Pruyn Elected to Delaware & Hudson.

The stockholders of the Delaware & Hudson Company at their annual meeting yesterday elected Robert C. Pruyn of Albany a Director to fill the vacancy caused recently by the death of Dumont Clark. They also approved the proposed change in the sinking fund requirements, as fixed in previous resolutions of the shareholders. As now amended, the sinking funds set aside in connection with the mining of coal will be available for the acquisition of new property.

Offering Wilkesbarre Coal Bonds.

J. P. Morgan & Co. and Drexel & Co. are offering on a 4.15 per cent. basis $12,500,000 consolidated 4 per cent. bonds of the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Company guaranteed by the Central Railroad of New Jersey, being part of the recently authorized issue of $20,000,000. Subject to prior sale the privilege is offered the holders of the coal company's 4½ per cent. bonds, maturing June 1, to exchange them at par and interest for the new bonds on the 4.15 per cent. basis.

HOTCHKISS THREAT TO LIFE COMPANIES

THIS IS THE ALTERNATIVE

Companies Can Avoid It, State Superintendent Says, by Working in Harmony with the Supervisors.

Pleading last night with the life insurance companies to assist the State Department of Insurance to make its supervision real, William H. Hotchkiss, the State Superintendent, declared that if the present system could not be made efficient the alternative would be the appointment of State representatives to attend every meeting of the companies' Boards of Directors.

Mr. Hotchkiss spoke at the dinner held at the Plaza to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the Home Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Hotchkiss began by congratulating the Home Life on passing through the investigation led by Gov. Hughes without a scar.

"It is interesting to note how the same things look from different points of view," he observed. "Some of the misunderstandings which have occurred between the State Department and the insurance companies are due to our different points of view, and some to a different trend of mind.

"Some look on supervision as a necessary evil; some look on it with arrogance, and some are thankful for it, as it, they think, gives the seal of the State to the work of the companies. This is wise, because the great public, of which we all are part, demand that the Government should supervise.

"I believe in a supervision that supervises. We are passing through an era in which we must choose between a supervision which supervises or a supervision which puts a representative of the department in every Directors' meeting. I hope and pray that this may never come. I am here to express one thought that the supervisor and supervised shall work together for the common good.

George E. Ide, the President of the Home Life, who was in the chair, spoke of the earliest days of the corporation and declared that it was started fifty years ago because Mr. Stranahan wanted to find a job for Walter Griffiths, its first President. Mr. Griffiths thought that a trust company was the sort of organization he would like to head, and Mr. Stranahan said to him:

"Walter, if you have a trust company all the Directors will know more about banking than you do. But if you run a life insurance company none of them will know anything about it any more than you do, so you will have your own way."

Mr. Ide then made a plea for the removal of the restrictions on the new business that an insurance company might undertake. He said:

"Perhaps 98 per cent. of the men with whom we do business are honest. It is not the business of a great State to curtail the usefulness of 98 per cent. of its citizens in order to check the evil doings of the other 2 per cent. Were the Government to talk of limiting hospitals, schools, or churches, what righteous indignation there would be! Yet we have heard of dishonesty, extravagance, and bad management in such institutions."

Referring to the difficulty the modern insurance man has in obeying the law in forty-six States, Mr. Ide said:

"Modern legislation does not attempt to make men better in intention but simply to raise barriers so that men may do the least possible harm. The business man is compelled to ask whether his acts are legal, whereas he should ask whether they are right, just, and fair. My plan is for simple comprehensible publicity and reasonable freedom as the panacea for all evils. We think that we see a little shift in the wind, but come what may, the Home Life is prepared to spread all its light sail and forge ahead or keep on as it has been doing with shortened sail as best it may.

Richard V. Lindabury, who was introduced as the representative of the company which made Gibraltar famous, brought out the fact that yesterday was the fiftieth birthday of Mr. Ide, if it was not of the Home Life. Contrasting the growth of life insurance in fifty years, he said that in 1860 there were 60,000 policies in force in the United States, amounting to $180,000,000; in 1910 there are 28,000,000 policies, amounting to $17,000,000,000.

He declared himself in favor of State supervision of insurance companies.

"It can no longer be maintained," he said, "that life insurance is a legitimate money-making business. The public interest is bound up with it, and so it is right to have State regulation.

"A company is bound not only to perform its duty, but so to word its contract that it will not disappoint the policyholders. Few men can understand the terms of their policies, and so the company is bound to treat them fairly."

CAUGHT PAWNING LOOT.

Upholsterer Took Gems Worth $700 from Patron's Home.

Following his arrest in a pawnshop, where he was trying to get $25 on jewelry valued at more than $700, a man who said he was James Smith of 1,023 Park Avenue confessed, the police say, yesterday to stealing the articles from the home of J. Crawford McCreery, at 401 West End Avenue. The man was locked up on the charge of grand larceny.

Besides the jewelry which he showed to the pawnbroker, Smith is alleged to have had an antique Italian gold ring, set with a cat's-eye and two diamonds, which he threw into the basement of Police Headquarters while in the custody of a detective. The ring, as well as the other jewelry, was recovered.

According to the police, Smith went to a pawnshop in Sixth Avenue, near Forty-second Street, and put a pair of diamond and pearl earrings, a gold crossbar set with two diamonds, and a breastpin having three diamonds on the counter. As he did this he asked the pawnbroker to advance him $25 on the articles. The broker became suspicious, and, holding the man in the store on some pretense, telephoned to the Detective Bureau. Detective Digilio was sent to the shop and arrested the man.

When taken to Police Headquarters Smith, the police say, said that he was an upholsterer, and that a few days ago he was working in the home of Mr. McCreery. There he saw the jewelry, he said, and took it.

Lawn Fete for a Neighborhood Guild.

Little boy clowns, children's folk dances, and a fish pond with fish in it actually anxious to bite will be among the attractions of a lawn fête to be given this afternoon on the grounds of Mrs. J. V. Wilbur, at Flatbush Avenue and Hawthorne Street, Brooklyn, for the benefit of the United Neighborhood Guild. There are to be music and a loan exhibit containing many old Dutch curios not before offered for public inspection. In the collection are silver dating from 1646, and Dutch books of even earlier periods. In charge of the fête are Miss Bertha Stockwell, Miss Anna Wilbur, Mrs. F. C. Munson, and Miss Ethel Eames.

MISS CHASE AT ACTORS' FAIR.

Arrives and Sells Autographed Photograph of Roosevelt for $150.

Crossing the ocean to spend a few hours in New York, Pauline Chase was the principal attraction at the Actors' Fund Fair yesterday. She was due to arrive at the fair in the afternoon, but her steamer, the Kaiser Wilhelm II., did not dock until afternoon, and she was delayed at the pier until the customs officials could pass her baggage, and she did not get to the armory until night. She appeared at 9 o'clock and was taken to her place on the platform in front of the Court of Honor by Daniel Frohman, who introduced her.

Miss Chase's first duty was to dispose of an autographed photograph of Theodore Roosevelt, which she had gone to Paris to obtain. The bidding started briskly, but at the suggestion of some one in the crowd it was stopped, and "sealed bids" were offered. The highest was for $150, and the photograph was sold at that price. The purchaser refused to allow his name to be used.

An autograph photograph of James M. Barrie went for $34, and pictures of Ellen Terry, Arthur Wing Pinero, and others were quickly disposed of. The lowest price paid for any of Miss Chase's collection was $5 for a small autographed picture of herself. The total of her sales was about $750, gained in little more than fifteen minutes of actual selling. After the picture auction Miss Chase went to the Lyceum Theatre booth, where she remained until midnight. She then went to the Waldorf to hold a reception to her friends until this morning, when she will return to Europe on the Mauretania.

Miss Chase took occasion to deny a report that she had had trouble in obtaining Col. Roosevelt's picture in Paris. She said she had been graciously received by him, and that he had excused himself to several hundred people in order to meet her and to give her the picture she had wished.

The attendance at the fair yesterday was fully as large as on the opening day, but there was room for several thousand more people at even the most crowded time. The Armory can easily hold 20,000.

The performance at the theatre last night was given under the auspices of the Professional Woman's League, and consisted of a sketch called "The Styx Club," by Alice E. Ives; a one-act piece, "The Explosion of Mr. Smith's Theory," by Amelia Weed Holbrook, and a wordless poem, "Repentance," by W. H. D. Enny.

To-day Gov. Gilchrist of Florida will be a guest of the Southern booth, and will auction a number of Florida souvenir spoons that he donated.

To-morrow at the theatre the Twelfth Night Club will have charge of the entertainment. In the afternoon the stage hands of the Bijou Theatre will give a part of "The Lottery Man," and several individual acts will be offered, and at night there will be two one-act sketches, including Louise Blair Perker's "White Roses," originally produced at the old Lyceum Theatre by Daniel Frohman.

RESCUE GIRL IN CHINATOWN.

Had Been Lured Here to "White Slavery," Frank Moss Says.

Through the efforts of Miss Elizabeth J. Moss, daughter of Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss, Marcelle Feaure, a 17-year-old girl who is alleged to have been lured from her home in Easton, Penn., to "slavery" in Chinatown, was rescued from the home of a Chinaman and his white wife at 22½ Catharine Street last night just before she was to have been sold, according to the Assistant District Attorney, to a Chinatown character known as the "Gypsy Queen."

Detectives Fitzsimmons and Russo of the District Attorney's office, acting without a warrant, on orders issued by Assistant District Attorney Moss, arrested Rena G. Lee of 11 Pell Street, nominally for having kept a disorderly resort there on March 1. An hour later the police of the Elizabeth Street Station arrested at 22½ Catharine Street, where the Feaure girl was being kept, Tom Lee, a restaurant keeper, his white wife, Fanny Lee, and Hom Him, all as material witnesses. One of the women arrested, according to Mr. Moss, is the "Gypsy Queen," and the other the woman who lured the Feaure girl to Chinatown.

According to Mr. Moss, his sister and Miss Bertha Rembaugh, learned that the girl had been lured to this city by an Easton woman who had previously been induced to come here by still another Easton woman named Kitty Sauerwein. The Feaure girl, he says, came to the Catharine Street house on Saturday, where her friend was living with a Chinaman. There a close watch was kept on her.

When the police swooped down on the house at dusk last night and arrested the Lee woman and her Chinese husband they say they found in her rooms an account book with the names of several girls, Marcelle Feaure's among them. This last, they say, was in the handwriting of the woman who had lured her to Chinatown. Mr. Moss said the Feaure girl's case was only one of many in which young girls had been lured from country homes to Chinatown, and that there were under surveillance places where girls had been bought and sold for as little as $10.

WHITE SLAVE CASE UP TO-DAY

But a Lawyer's Illness Is Likely to Cause a Postponement.

The trial of Belle Moore, charged with selling two girls to the "white slave" investigators, is scheduled for this afternoon before Judge Crain in General Sessions, but the reported illness of Lawyer Karlin of counsel for the defense seems likely to thwart District Attorney Whitman's plans for a speedy disposition of the cases.

Motions for a stay and for the removal of the case from General Sessions to the criminal branch of the Supreme Court were in the course of argument yesterday when word reached the court that Karlin had broken down and would be unable to appear for ten days at least.

The case, however, was left on the calendar, and when it is called to-day the court will hear the report of a physician whom Mr. Whitman said last night he would send to make an investigation of the lawyer's condition.

HER JEWELRY MISSING.

But Mrs. Travers Thinks She May Unwittingly Have Packed It.

James P. Travers, a broker, of 52 Broadway, and a member of the New York Athletic, New York Yacht, and other clubs, is searching his baggage in the apartments occupied by himself and his wife in the Lucerne Hotel, Broadway and Seventy-ninth Street, for jewelry valued at about $5,000, which has been missing since Monday.

On Monday afternoon, after Mrs. Travers had spent the morning packing her trunks preparatory to removal to her Summer home at Bayshore, L. I., she suddenly reported to Arthur T. Harvey, manager of the hotel, that a large package of her jewelry was missing.

Search of the apartments failed to reveal any trace of the jewels, and the police were notified. They abandoned the case, however, when Mr. Travers himself announced that he thought his wife might have misplaced the jewelry somewhere in the trunks she had been packing earlier in the day. Since then the removal to their Summer home has been postponed and they are now overhauling the trunks.

CITY BREVITIES.

Beginning June 1 the American, National, United States, and Wells Fargo & Co., Express Companies will close their offices in Manhattan and Brooklyn at 6 P. M. instead of 7 o'clock.

The managers of the American Female Guardian Society and Home for the Friendless at 936 Woodycrest Avenue, announce that, owing to quarantine regulations, the seventy-sixth annual meeting will not take place in the home, but will be held at 11 o'clock this morning in the Westminster Presbyterian Church, in Twenty-third Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues.

The woman who committed suicide on Monday afternoon by throwing herself under a train at the Nostrand Avenue elevated station in Brooklyn, was identified last night as Sarah Bell, a servant employed by Mrs. Margaret Turner of 413 Putnam Avenue.

The arbitrators of the demands of the trainmen and conductors on the Vanderbilt roads west of Buffalo, it was announced yesterday, will finish the preparation of their award in Washington. The award will not be announced before Sunday.

What Doctors Say About

ALCOHOLISM

Continual and abnormal indulgence in whisky, beer or wine eats away the stomach lining and creates a morbid craving for a stimulant. No amount of "will power" can restore the tissues burned and seared by alcohol.

Practically all physicians advise medical treatment in cases of chronic Intemperance. Hospitals and sanitariums all over the land treat patients for the disease of Drunkenness, many of them using the Oppenheimer Treatment, recognized as the best and most effective Treatment for Alcoholism.

Write, call or phone for free literature (mailed sealed, in plain envelope) about the Oppenheimer Treatment. Absolute secrecy and privacy are assured.

CENSURES POLICE CLUBBER.

Magistrate Holds Sergeant Who Broke Prisoner's Leg.

Thomas Connolly, a Police Sergeant in the East Sixty-seventh Street Station, living at 1,664 Second Avenue, was before Magistrate Barlow in the West Side Court yesterday, charged with assaulting John O'Connor, a real estate dealer of 409 East Sixty-fourth Street, eighteen months ago. Connolly was arrested by Detectives Thomas and Leigh of the District Attorney's office on a warrant issued by Magistrate Barlow. O'Connor alleges that Sergt. Connolly broke his (O'Connor's) leg with his nightstick in a fight while he was forcibly held down by Patrolman Ryan, also of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station, in front of his home.

Magistrate Barlow held the policeman for trial. "I don't care what provocation there was," he said, "a Sergeant of police, with another man there to help him, has no right to assault a prisoner in a way that his leg is broken from blows of a nightstick. I'll admit that the complainant is a blackguard of the worst type."

Later the Magistrate decided to let the examination go over until Saturday to give Connolly's counsel an opportunity to confer with District Attorney Whitman. The prisoner was paroled. He has been on the force twenty-eight years.
